State May Utilize High School Plant

Snell Inquires of Plans For Its Use After New One Built

A temporary solution to the Salem school board's dilemma over disposition of the present senior high school building upon completion of the new one now being planned for the northwest corner of Olinger field appeared yesterday in a letter from Secretary of State Earl Snell, received at the office of W. H. Burghardt, school clerk.

Snell said the state might be interested in using the old building as a temporary location for state offices until the new capitol is completed. He wrote: "It has been brought to my attention that if the Salem school district completes a plan for construction of a new high school with federal funds the building now occupied will be vacated."

"I should be interested to know what plans the board may have for the use of the building in the future as it might possibly be of interest to the state, to know what disposition is to be made of the high school structure. If any plans have been made to this effect I should appreciate very much information concerning them."

The school directors have considered a few plans for use of the old structure, such as cutting it to two stories and using it for a grade school or offering it to the city as a city hall, but have not revealed any definite plan in the matter. They said yesterday they would give Snell the information as soon as possible.

Armistice Parade Leaders Selected

E. R. Austin will assist Colonel Carlo Abrams, marshal, as chief of staff for the Armistice day parade here next month while Captain Lewis McAllan of the Salvation Army is assistant chief of staff, it was decided at a meeting of the Capital Post No. 3, American Legion, Armistice commission, yesterday.

The Armistice celebration as now tentatively planned will consist of a large morning parade followed at 11 a. m. by services, probably to be held in the First Methodist church, of the Willamette-Pacific university football game in the afternoon and of a Legion dance at Crystal Gardens at night. Salem theatres will cooperate with the Legion throughout the day.

The commission is contemplating asking all school children throughout the county to join in the parade here to make it one of the largest ever seen here.
