Congress Scored—Congressman James W. Mott repeated his recent service club declarations before the Salem Lions club yesterday to the effect that congress had relinquished many of its law-making powers to the president. He declared the legislation of nation-wide importance with but one or two exceptions had been passed other than measures that originated in the offices of President Roosevelt or his appointees. It is up to the people to turn to the ballot box to express whatever opposition they may have to such a program, he said. He predicted the nation would overcome its difficulties if it would follow the constitution.

Henry Semon, Klamath representative, has twenty thousand sacks of potatoes that escaped the freeze. He is not worrying over the low pay of legislators.

Waiting for the conference report was like sitting outside the jury room and waiting for the jury to bring in a verdict. It looked like a hung jury for a long time; but finally they agreed on a "verdict."

Senator Zimmerman voted against confirming E. C. Sammons and E. C. Pease as members of the board of higher education. He said the personnel of the board was drawn too much from the financial class and was not a true cross-section of the people.

"The word escapes me," said Mrs. Martin in debating Candalaria heights, "but you know what I mean." Mrs. Martin missed only one word however, for the rest of them came out in a fervent tumble. It was the best speech she has made as a house member and brought rounds of applause from the gallery.

No woman outside the "third house" knows as many legislators as Mrs. W. H. Lytle. She visits many sessions and manages to meet all the new members. A former resident of eastern Oregon, she is particularly friendly to the legislators from the cow country.

Dr. Hoosh of Bend was strong for Candalaria heights. He divides his interest for avocation between his library and gardening. The landscaping opportunities of Candalaria appeal to him. The doctor is developing a 200-acre farm he owns near Seio.

(Continued from Page 1) The spot, the deputy tax collector or interposed, indicating that he would prefer to say nothing of the matter. Questioned further, Neet said he neither hires nor discharges help in the department. But Budgeteer Glat of Woodburn, persisted: "Do you mean to say the taxpayers are supporting someone who is not earning his salary, at the instance of the sheriff?" Neet hedged on replying to the direct question, avowing "I'd rather like to keep my job, if you want to know the truth."

At this point, other members of the committee more in the know came to the rescue, expressing their appreciation of Neet's predicament. However, references later were made to putting "this certain man" to work.

The reason is—it's made by the exclusive Richfield-owned Lachman refining process. Try a tankful tomorrow at your neighborhood Richfield station.

Mild and yet they Satisfy — how do you do that?

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland — mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP— We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP— These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

THAT'S WHY CHESTERFIELDS ARE MILD AND YET THEY SATISFY

In a single day people from ten different states visited our Chesterfield factories. 8,200 visitors during the past year saw Chesterfields made.
