

Job Insurance Task Started

Bulmore Arrives to Take Charge; Oregon First to Submit Its Law

Plans for organization of the state unemployment reserve machinery were forwarded yesterday with the arrival here of D. A. Bulmore of Portland, who will serve as assistant secretary to the state industrial accident commission, and will have charge of the operations of the unemployment tax collection and disbursement with which the commission is charged.

Bulmore formerly was vice president of the Security Savings and Trust company in Portland.

T. Morris Dunne, member of the accident commission, will leave here Thursday night for Washington where he will submit the Oregon unemployment insurance law to federal officials for approval. The federal commission also will approve the administration allocation and all rules and regulations adopted by the state for enforcement of the act.

Oregon will be the first state to submit its unemployment insurance law to federal officials. Eight other states were said to have approved similar legislation during the past few weeks.

Dunne predicted that the new department would be one of the most important in the state when it is organized and in operation. He said he doubted whether the act would be attacked in the local courts.

The accident commission also will take over the federal unemployment service in Oregon under the Wagner-Peyser act. Twenty-four employment agencies already have been established under this law.

Many letters and telegrams have been received by the commission asking for information regarding the unemployment insurance law.

Apportionment of School Fund Soon

The county school superintendent's office is figuring the county school fund apportionment which will be released for the districts December 2. The elementary fund is on the basis of $150 for each elementary school teacher in the county.

The present drop in tax payments, due to the new tax law passed by the special session of the legislature, is expected to show up in the apportionment for the last half of this year, and more especially in the school districts' financial situations next year.

It is estimated now that only about $31,000 will be available on the county apportionment next week, while about $88,000 is the amount which should be ready for distribution on the basis of $10 per pupil for the county school fund.

Scouts to Donate Meals on Holiday

This appears to be a good time for Salem Boy Scouts.

Many of the troops are planning to donate dinners to worthy unemployed families for Thanksgiving. Troops 8 and 12 at Jason Lee church, led by George Naderman and Don Douris, respectively, will meet at the church Wednesday night to prepare their baskets for distribution.

Troops four and nine are providing wood splitting service, at the request of the local Red Cross, for three aged couples for a two weeks' period.

The two Jason Lee troops have also helped distribute Red Cross roll call literature.

Telephone Case Comes Up December 15, State Court, Says McColloch

Trial of the so-called telephone case has been set for December 15 in Portland. Frank McColloch, utilities commissioner, announced yesterday. Under an order issued in 1934 by Charles M. Thomas, then utilities commissioner, rates of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company were reduced ten per cent in Oregon. From this order the telephone company has appealed and has posted bond to indemnify ratepayers in event the reduction is upheld by the courts.

Under the Johnson act passed by congress, jurisdiction of utility cases has been removed from federal court which necessitates trial of the telephone company's appeal in circuit court in Multnomah county. Alfred P. Dobson, special assistant attorney general, will represent the utilities commissioner.

Japanese Young People Going to Seattle For Annual Northwest Meet

A large number of the Salem Japanese young people will be attending the sixth annual Y.P.C.C. of the Pacific northwest in Seattle this weekend, the 29th and 30th.

Over 500 delegates are expected. The theme of the conference is "More Like the Master".

Those going from here are Jesse Fukuda, Chiyo Saito, Martha Okuda, Yaeko Saito, Helen Tanaka, Hoshie Watanabe, Symio Mio, Emi Yada, Kimi Yada, Mary Takayama, Seiko Watanabe, now of Portland, Kay Mio, Hiroshi Kaneko, Jun Watanabe, Taul Watanabe, Kenneth Takayama, Frank Terusaki, and the two advisers, Mrs. Paul Ellis and H. Hashimoto.

Santa Claus' 1935 Toys of Practical Value

Toys of educational character, which imitate in realistic miniature the tools of industry and science, take up most of the room in Santa's pack this year. American toy manufacturers have directed their efforts to designing playthings which combine education with recreation. Building sets, chemistry outfits, aerodynamic wheel toys, movie projectors, astronomical equipment and miniature industrial apparatus are among the toys which contribute to the practical training of the child as well as his amusement. More than $200,000,000 will be spent in United States this year for gifts for the playroom, a 10 per cent increase over last year. Miniature marvels which should delight the heart of any child have been created with the use of lights and motors. The doll birth rate has also soared to a new peak, reaching the $25,000,000 mark this year.

Fifteen Armories Receive Approval

Salem's Not Yet on List; Lebanon in $45,000 Class, Approved

Confirmation of construction of 15 armories in Oregon, to cost an average of $45,000 each, has been given by the public works administration, national guard headquarters here announced Monday.

Money required for construction purposes would be furnished by the federal government. Military officials said the projects would have to receive the approval of the comptroller-general and the president before they can be constructed.

The list does not include the community center armory at Salem which has not yet been approved, nor a similar one at Corvallis, which previously had received the PWA approval.

The list, based on a cost of $45,000 each, include those at Grants Pass, Baker, Pendleton, Astoria, Forest Grove, The Dalles, Oregon City, La Grande, St. Helens, Gresham and Lebanon. Those at Hillsboro, Union and Springfield would cost $25,000 each. The Portland million dollar armory was likewise included.

Major General White said he did not look for early construction of these armories, but felt that satisfactory progress was being made.

Debutante Elopes

Mabel Reynard

A honeymoon cruise to Florida aboard the groom's yacht followed the elopement of Mabel Reynard, 19, debutante of New Rochelle, N. Y., and George S. Groves, 40, millionaire banker.

Most of the jobs to be awarded at this meeting are included in the federal highway aid program for which the state of Oregon received a liberal allocation.

Virtually half of the federal funds will be used for railroad crossing eliminations. A special meeting of the highway commission will be held in Portland tomorrow.

Films Are Shown By Honor Society

Sigma Lambda chapter of the National Honor society presented the Salem high school movies yesterday. The making of these pictures is an annual project of the chapter. This was the first year that the pictures have been shown in assembly.

Last year's reels were shown, "A Day in the Life of the A. S. B. President" was the theme of that reel. The leads of this year's production were Esmeralda, the little country girl, played by Dorothy Butte, and Philbert, her loving brother, George Smith.

All the work on these pictures was done under the guidance of the club adviser, R. W. Tavenner. Dean Ellis delivered the monologue explaining the actions of Esmeralda and Philbert over the loud-speaker system.

If enough students, besides the 750 who saw the show yesterday, wish to see the film it will be shown in the "Duck" theatre Tuesday and Wednesday during the activity period.

County 4-H Club Gathering Is Set

The first countywide gathering of 4-H club leaders for the current school year will be held here the afternoon of December 14. Wayne Harding, county 4-H club leader, announced yesterday. Program details have not been worked out. A large number of club enrollments is being received by the county leader now. Many schools are using the club idea for the study of health work, which means that the entire four upper grades in such schools are enrolled virtually 100 per cent in this club project. The study for the health clubs follows the outline of the course of study for health work.

Red Cross Booths Set Up in Banks

Booths at which memberships in the Red Cross may be obtained and to which contributions may be taken, have been set up in the three Salem banks, the roll call committee for the county announced yesterday. It was urged that all persons who have not been visited by roll call workers obtain new memberships at these booths.

Mrs. Walter Spaulding is in charge of the booth at the First National bank, Mrs. Harry Scott at Ladd and Bush bank and Mrs. W. E. Feldman at the United States National bank.

No definite report on the amount of funds obtained to date in the roll call, which officially ends Wednesday night, has yet been made here.

Young Republicans of County Gather Tonight At 7:15 in Courthouse

The Young Republican club of Marion county will meet at the courthouse tonight at 7:15 o'clock, David Hoss, president, announces. Major working committees will be appointed at this session, the third for the young republicans, and a constitution will be drafted.

The meeting will adjourn early so those who wish can attend other attractions in town.

Pre-Game Dinner Set For Tonight

The Willamette football team will be honored on the eve of its departure for Walla Walla tonight when Willamette students hold the annual "Whip Whitman" banquet at the Presbyterian church at 6:30 o'clock.

"Bronc" Williams, center on the team and president of the student body, will be toastmaster at the tradition event during the course of which members of the team are called upon for brief talks. Coach "Spec" Keene, Dr. Bruce Baxter and alumni guests will also talk briefly.

Meals are not served at fraternity and sorority houses nor at Lausanne Hall and an almost complete attendance of the student body is customary at the event. Helen Benner, vice-president of the student body, has been in charge of arrangements for the banquet.

Farmer Views on AAA Are Sought

A survey, with a view to determining whether Oregon farmers favor a state AAA, is shortly to be undertaken by Solon T. White, state agricultural director. Questionnaires are being prepared by his department under instructions given by the last special legislative session.

The survey will attempt to determine increase in agricultural prices under the old AAA law here and whether or not the state act brought them about. A friendly suit to determine the constitutionality of the new AAA act passed by the last session will be brought shortly, it is understood. Grange officials are insistent that the marketing agreement law be operative unless it be thrown out again by the supreme court.
