Lillie Nadstaneck Native of Valley

Lived in Salem 40 Years; Member of Pioneer Ray Family of Linn

Lillie Rose Ray Nadstaneck, the seventh child of Lewis and Mary Eliza Ray, was born on the old Ray donation land claim ten miles east of Scio in Linn county, Oregon, April 11, 1862.

As one of a family of 12 children the environment was that of energy, thrift, honesty and unselfishness. These qualities were dominant and marked the character of her life.

On account of the never ending work on the old farm in this area, her education was confined to the public schools of the neighborhood, but like the children of other pioneer families, the knowledge obtained was retained and over at her command.

Here Many Years — On April 21, 1894, she was united in marriage to Valentine Nadstaneck at Albany, Oregon, and soon afterwards they took up their home in Salem, where she lived continuously until her death, which occurred November 16, 1935. Her husband died March 13, 1922. She was laid to rest in St. Barbara cemetery, Salem, November 19.

Surviving her are one sister and three brothers, as follows: Mrs. Roxana Shank and George H. Ray, near Scio; John L. Ray of Lebanon, and Albert B. Ray of Chehalis, Wash., besides many nephews and nieces.

This is a brief statement of a life that began and ended in the Willamette valley, a life exemplifying the highest attributes of character, softened with inherent tenderness.

Entire reconstruction of the spur which leads from the Southern Pacific tracks, three miles south of Salem, to the Willamette river, is going on with a crew of 12 to 15 men at work. The reconstruction of the spur at a cost of thousands of dollars, is being done for the account of the Oregon Pulp & Paper company. Senator Charles K. Spaulding said yesterday, although he intimated that it was a possible preliminary to the reopening of the Spaulding lumber mill operations here.

Raising on the siding have been removed, new supports under the ties will be put in, each bent of the trestle will be reinforced and then new track will be laid to bring the siding, which is more than 1000 feet long, into first-class shape.

Spaulding said yesterday that an RFC loan with which to provide working capital for the Spaulding mill had been approved subject to ratification by bondholders of the company who must subordinate their claims, along with those of certain banks, to the federal loan.

No assured date for reopening of the mill is known, the senator said, although he averred "prospects for reopening are better than they have been for some time."
