Canadian Treaty to Cut Down Construction Now, Hurt Price Says Hawley

COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Nov. 27—(P)—W. C. Hawley of Salem, former United States representative from Oregon, told friends here he believed the new Canadian trade treaty would have its effect in curtailing building and breaking the price on all north-west fir products.

Hawley said lumber purchases would show an immediate slump in anticipation of lower prices. He also said $2.25 a thousand feet (which he declared would be the reduction in price of lumber coming across the Canadian border) "will wipe out what little profit, if any, has been coming to coast operators."
