Boys of College Score With Play
Saafield Takes Honors as Lead in Comedy Given Twice

MT. ANGEL, Dec. 17.—The boys of Mt. Angel college made a fine showing in their play when they presented their annual fall play to jammed houses at two performances today. "Sure Fire," a three-act comedy, not devoid of drama, seemed to make a sure fire contact with the audience. Hubert Saafield, Mt. Angel, played the part of the hero, a young playwright, with a sincerity that put the stamp of realism on the performance.

Marcel Van Dreische of Baker, as Walt Henderson, the town constable, was priceless in his get-up from bald head and bristly grey beard to the big gun at his hips that he managed so nonchalantly. He and Ted Marx, who played the role of Herby Brewster, a stuttering and sullen mail carrier, provided most of the laughs. Patrick Dooley as the old postmaster, and Charles Christensen, as his honest and ambitious young son, gave genuine portrayals. The officious Congressman Blaine was characterized expertly by alter Smith, and the aged and to the least character. The directors were Rev. Gabriel Morris and Rev. Damien Jentges.

The Mt. Angel college and Seminary orchestra, under leadership of Alexander Scharbach, gave a spirited orchestra number. Hubert Krondak, violin soloist, played Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Trees." A redolent and side-splitting pantomime by the sophomores under the direction of James Mitchell, brought down the house. The college quartet, Ed. Neale, Austin Johnson, Wilbur Whalen, and Patrick Dooley, were encored repeatedly.

The complete cast of characters was as follows: Willis Whalen, Hubert Saafield, Raymond Karp, Paul Zeller, Marcel Van Dreische, Ted Marx, Patrick Dooley, Charles Christensen, John Goodrich, Walter Smith, Gerald Linehan and Ercole Battilega.
