

Cascade Area Scout Workers to Convene Here This Morning

Future Plans To Be Talked

Registration at 10 a. m. With Two Day Meets, Banquet Tonight

The annual conference of men interested in the Boy Scout movement in Cascade area will open with registration and a fellowship hour at 10 o'clock this morning at the First Methodist church here. Delegates will come from Marion, Polk and Linn counties.

A half hour discussion of organization problems will begin at 11 o'clock and E. L. Curtis, regional executive, will speak on "The Job Before Us" at 11:30.

Following the conference luncheon at noon, the delegates will engage in reviewing progress and problems of 1935 at 1:30 p. m. From 3 to 4:30 p. m. will be given over to planning for 1936, and from 4:30 until the dinner hour to an executive board meeting conducted by A. C. Haag, council president, and a scoutmasters' meeting in charge of Ferris D. White, commissioner.

Banquet Tonight
The annual council banquet, to which all friends of scouting are invited, will be held at 6:30 p. m. The banquet program will include an address by Dr. Bruce R. Baxter, presentation of Silver Beaver service awards by Governor Charles H. Martin and installation of officers by Judge George Rosman of the state supreme court. Officers for 1936 are: A. C. Haag, president; Willis Clark, vice-president; Rev. George H. Swift, commissioner, and T. A. Windshar, treasurer.

Committee chairman will report during the day as follows: T. H. Grant, on organization and rural scouting; F. E. Siemens, on camping; Burton Dunn, on leadership and training; W. L. Phillips, on camp; Custer Ross, on courts of honor; George A. Rhoten, on finance, and Rev. Swift, on district commissioners.

New Bishop Will Visit Salem Soon

Satisfying reports for attainment in 1935 by the 12 departments of the church, including two new groups organized during the year, were heard. The pastor, in his annual address, praised the work of the past year and urged as the keynote for the new year's activity "Forward in 1936, spiritually, numerically and financially."

Selection of the chairman and assistant for the epiphany dinner for next year was cleverly done, these posts going to recipients of a ring and similar tokens found in the epiphany cake. In this manner, Miss Helen Smith becomes the next epiphany dinner chairman. Mrs. Arthur Knox directed the event last night.

members said. "We do not know as yet what reports the state will require us to keep; how extensive our bookkeeping must be and what requirements on case investigation will be. The committee wants to keep administrative costs down to the bone. The state committee and the county committee are alike in this respect: the present month is one of readjustment. We are getting our program worked out. When the program is definitely set then it can be said whether administrative costs are too high."

Lindy, Anne and Jon Arriving in English Exile

The Lindberghs landing at Liverpool from S. S. America's Importer as shown by radiophoto flashed across Atlantic. Mrs. Lindbergh was in front, her husband carrying Jon, as they faced tremendous and curious crowd which gathered to greet them despite their hope of finding anonymity in England. Changes in Food Price not Great

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Commodity markets of the nation churned today under the stimulus of the removal of processing taxes but economic observers foresaw no likelihood of any decided change in the prices of meat and bread to the eventual consumer.

Spectacular gains of around $1 a hundredweight were marked up by hogs.

At the same time, millers slashed wholesale flour prices at a number of points for the full amount of the tax levied under the act outlawed by the supreme court decision—around $1.35 a barrel.

Cotton slumped $1.50 to $2 a bale in the New York market but sugar spurred the maximum of 25 points permitted in a day's trading there.

In the confusion of trends, many important branches of the food industry declined comment. Chicago packers were among them, as they saw hog quotations bound as much as $1 in one of the most spectacular sessions in the history of big stockyards market, with the top touching $10.35.

Wounded Terrorist of Aberdeen Dies; Police Guns Stop Mad Career

ABERDEEN, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Mike Kandich, Scotch Aberdeen millworker who ran amuck here this morning until felled by state and city police bullets, died late tonight. He was shot in the abdomen and jaw by police bullets and slashed his throat, severing the windpipe.

Kandich terrorized the neighborhood with gunfire and held officers at bay until he finally walked out in front of them, brandishing a gun. It is believed he became crazed from grief over the death of his only daughter, Helen Kandich, about a year ago. She was popular in Aberdeen.

One man, Gay Kaezler, about 35, received second degree burns when he was trapped in the mill as the explosion blew the entire roof into the air. A crew of more than 30 others working in the plant escaped injury only because they were eating their lunch on a dock when the blast came, at 12:40 p. m.

Oil Sanction Not Needed Is Belief

(By The Associated Press)

Reports that the League of Nations has virtually called off a proposed oil embargo against Italy circulated in Paris Tuesday night.

Diplomatic circles there said a poll of members of the League council showed they believed sanctions already in force would soon force Premier Mussolini to call a halt in the African war.

Despite this, military and naval activity increased in southern France, along the Italian border.

The chief of the army general staff, General Gustav Gamelin, ended a tour of inspection of the troops and fortifications in that area. The navy announced the fleet would begin Mediterranean maneuvers January 20—the day the League council is to meet.

Italian newspapers continued to take bitter shots at President Roosevelt's speech to congress.

their adjusted services certificates until 1945, the maturity date under existing law. It would provide no specific method of payment.

The ways and means committee today decided to knock out one provision that would have refunded all interest paid by veterans on loans on the certificates but kept another that would cancel all unpaid interest on such loans.

Representative Vinson (D-Ky) one of the backers of the legislation, said the refund would have amounted to $7,000,000 and that the cancellation will cost $288,000,000.

Wilson Aided War Loans by Morgan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—With J. P. Morgan placidly before it, the senate munitions committee filled an important gap in World war history today with a disclosure that Woodrow Wilson himself removed obstacles to the first of many American loans to allied nations.

From the head of the powerful house of Morgan, however, there came assertions also that German acts, and not the lending of American dollars, drew this country into the war.

The financier and his associates at the same time readily told the committee that the sympathies of the American banking fraternity lay actively with the allies from the start, and, as quickly as diplomatic barriers were removed, the loans began to flow in increasing volume.

Cablegrams gleaned from the Morgan files revealed, moreover, that scarcely three days after France entered the war, that country made round-about overtures to the Morgans for a loan or commercial credit.

The state department, under William Jennings Bryan, disapproved, testimony and correspondence showed, President Wilson, however, altered the situation by drawing a broad distinction which permitted "credits" but maintained the ban on loans.

Hartwell Target Of Kuhn's Shaft

"Jim" Hartwell, ex-fireman, was the man at whom Mayor V. E. Kuhn Monday night aimed a recommendation in his annual address that an investigation be made as to why unauthorized persons had been sleeping in the city hall fire station dormitory. Kuhn yesterday did not explain his objection to Hartwell's sleeping in the fire station quarters but Hartwell said "he and I are at sword's points."

Hartwell admitted he often slept at the central station, part of the time when he was employed as substitute fireman. He was a member of the fire department about 23 years ago.

Not long after Hartwell about three years ago called for an investigation of the police department, which resulted in a fruitless public hearing, an order went out that he was not to be permitted to loiter about the fire station.
