

Townsmen's Club Has Active Year

Report Is Given on Road Project to Hook Up With Mt. Hood

WOODBURN, Jan. 9. — The Woodburn Business and Professional club had a successful year and has been active in all worth while activities. Some of the more important ones of the past year were: The sponsoring of a "newcomers" rally; the organization of the Boy Scout troop; giving financial assistance to secure Frank Branch Riley as an Armistice Day speaker; entertaining the men teachers and school board of the Woodburn school system; sponsoring the Saturday auction sales; banqueting the Woodburn high school football squad; and bringing presents to bear to have the Woodburn-Newberg highway inserted on the Greater Willamette Valley association booster map.

Some question had been discussed as to whether to change the meeting time from noon until evening but it was decided to hold the meetings as in the past at the noon hour on every Wednesday at the Woodburn hotel.

Senator and His Bride

Maryland's Senator Millard Tydings and his bride, the former Mrs. Eleanor Davies Chesborough, are smiling happily after secret Washington wedding which was attended by a few guests from the immediate families of the principals.

Independent Unit Has No Existence

Relative to a story in the Thursday Statesman under heading "Independence Christians of Turner Church Hold Special Sunday Services," Mrs. E. Gilstrap, matron of the Turner Memorial home, makes this statement: "There are no 'Independent Christian' of Turner church; no group met Sunday afternoon for a 'Church Service' in Turner Memorial home. There was no broadcast especially for Turner people Sunday afternoon. It was not voted to hold services each Sunday afternoon in Turner Memorial home.

"Here are the facts: Three weeks ago Sunday afternoon communion services were held for the benefit of those in the home and their friends who could not attend services elsewhere. Such services are held in many of our homes, where members are unable to attend church and do not in any way conflict with the morning church services. By common consent and agreement this arrangement is continued but there is no organization and no vote was taken. For the pleasure of the group in the home service, we listened to a radio program. Two weeks ago one of the group informed the broadcaster of our appreciation and last Sunday he spoke of the Turner people; however his broadcast was over a large station and was not especially for Turner."

Swimming Classes for Women at Albany Will Be Held at Corvallis

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—(Special)—Commencing next Wednesday a swimming class for adult women has been organized announced the Albany Hostess house, where the class will meet before proceeding to Corvallis where they will receive instruction at the college pool in the Women's building. The first lesson is scheduled to take place Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock and plans are under way for the use of one of the school buses for transportation to and from Corvallis.

Plans call for three divisions, beginners, intermediate and advanced pupils, with life-saving instruction as part of the latter class. The class will return to Albany about 9 o'clock. One lesson a week will be given.

Election Is Held By Sunday School

ROSEDALE, Jan. 9.—The Ladies' Missionary society met with Mrs. T. D. Trick Wednesday afternoon. A quilt was tied for Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pierson of Portland who are sailing the 20th for La Paz, Bolivia, to engage in missionary work under the Oregon Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Covers have been made for the two Sunday school buses to protect from the rain and wind. A new classroom is also being made in the church for the growing Sunday school.

Officers and teachers were elected last Sunday for the new year: Mrs. Bert Hamilton, superintendent; T. D. Trick, assistant; Iva B. Bingenheimer, secretary; teachers, Mrs. Shavers, Mr. Lehman, W. E. Way, Mrs. C. A. Cole, Mrs. A. R. Cammack, Milo Ross, Wm. Hoffnell, Mary Cammack, Forrest Cammack and Elsie Trick.

Elmer Boje, who had an operation on his leg some weeks ago, is still confined to his home.

Mrs. C. E. Gilbreath entertained at luncheon recently her mother, Mrs. J. W. Coffield, Mrs. P. O. Hale and son Arthur Hale and Betty Abel of Vancouver. Mrs. Richard Sundelof of Portland and Miss Peggy Perkins of San Francisco. Miss Perkins addressed the Woman's club in Aurora at one time.

Founder of Gervais Star Passes Following Stroke

GERVAIS, Jan. 9.—G. J. Molson, life-long friend, received a telephone message Tuesday morning that McKinley Mitchell had suffered a stroke Monday night and was in a serious condition and due to his advanced age was not expected to live. A message later said he had passed away. Mitchell was well known here where he formerly lived. He was the first owner and publisher of The Gervais Star, which he launched in 1891.

Council Defers Hiring Overseer

WEST SALEM, Jan. 9.—At the special council meeting Wednesday night, held to hire an overseer for the new organization and city hall, decision was reached to defer the hiring until further applications come in or until it is necessary to have one. Applications from Eugene Krebs and A. M. McIntyre were read. Mr. Newstern gave the annual water report.

At the Ladies' Aid meeting held Wednesday the following social engagements were planned: Silver tea next Wednesday at Mrs. Tandy's home; covered dish dinner at Mrs. Clark's January 16 when they will quilt. A jitney supper in the basement of the church January 22. And a lunch for the election board January 31.

Rilea Going East For Guard Talks

Brikadier - General Thomas E. Rilea, president of the National Guard association, will leave Salem Saturday for a month's trip to Indianapolis where he will address various guard associations and assist in the program of armory building requests at the national capitol.

Rilea also will inspect the national guard camp in Minnesota. Two days later he will speak before a group of guard officers at Cleveland. Rilea also will address the national guard association meeting of the New York companies at Syracuse.

During his stay in Washington Rilea will make a plane trip to Indianapolis where he will address another association meeting on January 25. He expects to return here early in February.

Farmers' Union News

SCIO, Jan. 9.—Hobart Hoagland of Scio is furnishing specifications for proposed new farmers' union hall for the Riverside local. The building, if erected, is to be about 40x70 feet. It is stated.

CENTRAL HOWELL, Jan. 9.—The Farmers' union will install installation of officers and will also initiate a group of new members at the regular meeting Monday night, G. W. Potts and S. B. Holt, state president and secretary, are expected to be present.

SCIO, Jan. 9.—The first quarterly meeting of the Linn county farmers' union is scheduled for the Morning Star grange hall near Albany Saturday, with the Dever local as host. Annual election of officers will be among the regular business. Mrs. F. I. Folsom of near Cottonwoods hall is secretary, having succeeded F. A. Gallegly, who resigned when he moved to Gervais a few months ago.

BETHEL, Jan. 9.—The measures on the ballot to be voted on this month were discussed by L. H. McBee of Dallas, before the members of the Farmers union at the closed meeting here Monday night. McBee stated that there was only a small amount of unimportant business to come before the voters and that much unnecessary expense will be incurred as all could have been attended to at the two meetings that will be held later this year.

Joseph Ramseyer was given the obligations of the order by the president, Ralph A. Wilson. W. L. Creech gave a report on the utility meeting which was held at Mt. Angel. Reports were given of the Marion county convention held on Saturday.

The Farmers' Union Oil company of Polk county will meet the fourth Monday in January. All shareholders were urged to attend and vote to keep the management in the hands of the organization. Polk county Farmers' union will observe its 20 annual convention this month.

O. L. Brubaker and J. A. Hain will be in charge of the program for the open meeting January 17.
