Canned Goods Are Improved

Cutting Demonstration's Results Reported by Convention Goers

The annual cutting demonstration conducted at the Northwest Canners association convention, in session in Seattle Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, showed a general improvement over previous years in fruits and vegetables canned in this area, Salem canners reported yesterday upon return from the gathering.

This meeting was the largest in history of the association, with nearly 400 canners and their assistants gathering for the meeting. Bert Malling of Hillsboro was elected president for the new year, with George Paulus of Salem vice-president for Oregon.

Keener competition, along with improvements in plant equipment as for instance peeling machines for the pear pack, accounts for the improved general quality of the 1935 pack. The cutting demonstration, in which goods from each cannery, marked by a code, is opened, graded and judged, was conducted at the American Canners plant in Seattle.

In general, feeling among the packers and canners was good, in spite of some uncertainty as to the future. The next annual meeting will be held in Portland.

Among packers and cannery assistants attending from Salem were: Ray A. Yocum, G. O. Holman and F. A. Hurd of Reid Murching and company; E. R. Wagner, W. B. Baker, Ralph Allen, Delwin Finley, Harry Brunkal and Charles Dunham of Hunt Brothers; Grover Hillman of Hillman Packing company; O. E. Snyder of the Stayton co-op which packs at the Hillman plant; George Paulus, W. H. Paulus, Elmer Hill, Floyd Bates, Herb Burch, Ben Smoker, Lorne Kitchen and Lee Weisner of Paulus Brothers cannery; W. G. Allen of Allen Fruit company; Percy Blundell and Ray Hoffman of California Packing company; Mark Gehlhar of Oregon Fruit company and Manager "Billy" Woods of Producers Cooperative association.

The next convention which will claim attention of heads from this section will be the national cannerymen's sessions in Chicago. Among those who plan to leave early next week for this convention are Ray A. Yocum, George Paulus and W. H. Paulus, and others whose plans are not yet definite.

Kyle Case Viewed By Grand Jurors

The Marion county grand jury, in session here throughout this week, yesterday suspended for the time being extensive investigations it has made into the jail break in this county February 9, 1935, and turned its attention to the case of John Kyle. The latter, Broadacres farmer, is held on a charge of first-degree murder. District Attorney Trindle is personally presenting the Kyle case to the jury. A series of witnesses against Kyle appeared yesterday.

The jail break case involves Sheriff A. C. Burk and charges made against him by Judge L. H. McMahan who claims Burk was lax in his handling of prisoners, permitting one Melvin Strand, a trusty, to use keys to the jail. Three prisoners took the keys from Strand and made their escape.

'John Deere Day' To Be January 21

Farmers of this community are promised a short course in modern farming methods if they arrange to see "Sheppard & Son", one of two talking pictures which will be shown January 21 in conjunction with John Deere day at display rooms of Pohle-Staver Co., farm implement dealers, 240 South Liberty.

The picture is a sequel to "Partners" shown here last year by representatives of the John Deere organization. The new picture follows farm implement construction through the ten factories of the John Deere company, then shows how each machine operates in the fields.

The second picture, "Murphy Delivers the Goods," contains help and suggestions on the most efficient methods for operating the John Deere tractor. The meeting is to be in session from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., January 21 at the showroom in Salem of the Pohle-Staver company. Mr. Pohle is extending an invitation to every farmer in this section to attend. "We particularly want the boys to come," he said. "We are planning to make this a sociable affair. At the same time it will be a very worth while event for farmers and their families." Pohle continued.

Seek to Condemn Site For School

A complaint which calls for condemnation of blocks five and six of block 12, university addition to Salem, for school district 24, awaits filing in circuit court here when the county boundary board meets. Under Oregon law, school districts must acquire land by condemnation through the boundary board which is composed of the county school superintendent and the county court. The complaint recites that the district, in preparing to build a new grade school, has been unable to acquire, by purchase, the lots desired which will be a portion of the grounds for the new school. Plaintiff is the school district; defendants are William J. Wimborun and others.

"This is the provision which I presented to the secretary several weeks ago and urged its application in behalf of the flax growers and favorable report of the secretary."
