Rematch of Riggi and Rader Headlines Fistic Card Tonight

Vindication Is Goal For Both

Rader Would Prove Fans Were Right, Home Boy Judges Were Correct

Out to prove that he earned his first decision over Red Rader, Frank Riggi, husky young produce grower from Brooks, will meet the fast and clever Rader in another ten round engagement as the main event of Curly Feldtman's fight card at the armory tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Riggi, who went through the last seven rounds with a right made practically useless by an unruly cartilage, gained a decision over Rader in the last fight although fans called for a draw. The pluckiness shown by Rader as he gamely rallied in the final rounds won him the favor of the Salem fans.

Rader, who wound up his preparations for the fight in Portland yesterday, is in better condition than when he fought Riggi here three weeks ago. Fast and packing a wallop like a sledge hammer in his right, Rader has long been listed among the top light-heavies in the Northwest.

Wants Hayes Fight

The curly haired Italian truck grower from Brooks is eager to meet Rader a second time. Riggi, who has his eyes on a fight with Wes Hayes, Portland negro, is confident he can again win over Rader and believes this time it will be by the knockout route. The Italian has been showing good form in training, although handicapped by lack of sparring partners his weight. His hand is completely healed but no chances will be taken and his bad knuckle will be carefully padded.

Melvin Sorrell, heavy punching 137-pounder of Salem, will get his first semi-final assignment when he meets Harry Lainsely, experienced 140-pound Portland boy, in a six-round event. Sorrell, who had a good career as an amateur, has a large following of fans.

Prelims Promising

Promoter Feldtman believes that some of the preliminary four round bouts may steal the show, no matter how good the main matches are. Some of the fastest young fighters available are listed in the prelims.

Preliminary fights are: Eddie Norris, 133, Marshfield, vs. Joe Dorine, 137, Portland; Battling Stoutberg, 147, Salem, vs. Bill Mosieur, 146, Portland. Zackie Shell, 148, Gervais, vs. Bill Turpin, 143, Portland; Alva Anderson, 144, Scio, vs. Lyle Triplett, 143, Portland.

Cunningham's Conqueror

By BURNLEY

FROM out of practically nowhere has come a new contender for the mile championship that was previously kicked around between Glenn Cunningham, Bill Bonthron and Jack Lovelock.

The latest mile hope is slim Joe Mangan, erstwhile Cornell competitor, who is now running under the colors of the New York Athletic Club. The genial Joe created a sensation when he nearly beat Cunningham at Boston late last month, only to be elbowed out of a well-deserved victory when Glenn crossed over in front of his path to halt his finishing spurt.

Mangan got sweet revenge for this when he trounced the chesty Kansan in the classic Millrose games at New York's Madison Square Garden, and this startling triumph was the biggest track upset of the current indoor season.

Joe, who could be tagged the "upset king" because of his in-and-out performances in the past, insists that he will show consistently good form in future starts. He blames his occasional poor races in past years on the fact that he had to play in the college orchestra in order to pay his way through Cornell and as a result he usually didn't get enough sleep on the night before the track meet in which he was to run.

Now that his college days are over, Mangan has given up his musical career, and is working as an instructor in commercial law, which certainly seems to have added to his speed on the track, for some reason or other.

Traglio Stops Visiting Giant

Kayoes Griffin in Third After Being Almost Helpless, First

Outweighed 18 pounds and nearly knocked senseless in the first minute of the fight, Webb Traglio, 155-pound Salem Y. M. C. A. boxer, staged a great comeback last night to knock out Elmer Griffin of the Portland boxing school five seconds after the opening of the third round.

Griffin, substituting for Jack Fruit, Multnomah club boxer who failed to show for the second time, was announced as weighing 165 pounds but a check made after the fight found that he tipped the scales at 173.

Traglio Wins Palm

Traglio, showing a fighting spirit that took no account of odds, easily earned the silver trophy awarded to the fighter who found the most favor with the fans. Traglio received a near ovation when he and other winners were lined up after the fights to select the trophy winner by the loudness of applause.

A steaming right that had all the force of Traglio's 155 pounds plus the momentum of a rush across the ring behind it laid the Portland giant cold in his own corner five seconds after the bell sounded for the third round. It was fully five minutes before Griffin's seconds and a physician could bring him around to consciousness. Traglio's right hand snaked between the upraised arms of the surprised Griffin to catch him squarely on the button.

Fans urged Traglio's seconds to throw in the towel shortly after the fight started when Griffin, towering over Traglio, was beating him down with hard looping pounders. In the first minute he had backed the plucky Salem fighter into a corner and was buffeting him into unconsciousness before Traglio could clinch. Traglio kept his head, however, and came out fighting. Tearing into the Portland boy with all he had, Traglio landed a telling blow to the stomach that visibly "phazed" Griffin and may have been the deciding shot.

The second round was Griffin's though both fighters knocked each other out of the ring. It was probably the fastest and most furious bit of simon pure boxing ever seen in Salem.

In the second five-round bout of the card Don Waddingham, Northeast Y. M. C. A. of Portland, gained a decision over Jerry Buckley, Portland boxing school after a fast fight in which Waddingham did most of the leading and knocked Buckley down in the fourth round. Buckley was saved by the bell at the count of two. Both weighed 135 pounds.

It was a big night for one-round knockouts, all but one of the three-round fights ending that way. "One Round Jim" Daugherty, 120-pound Salem Y boxer, knocked out Warren Howe, Portland boxing school, in the first round to maintain his record. It was Daugherty's third fight and he has won each by a first round knockout.

Other results: 118 pounds, Alvin Richardson, Salem Y, gained a technical knockout over Kid Schmeer, P. B. S., when he opened a bad cut over Schmeer's left eye in the first round; 120 pounds, Melvin Cleveland, Salem Y, knocked out Bob Cranna, P. B. S., in 33 seconds of the first round after backing Cranna into the ropes with flying rights and lefts; 95 pounds, Gus Stricker, P. B. S., decisioned Doug Jones, Salem Y, in a wild leather flinging contest; 98 pounds, Jimmy Stabb, Salem Y, knocked out Richard Cook, P. B. S., in one minute and 39 seconds of the first round.

Sport Sparks

BY PAUL HAUSER

As you could expect from a coach named Fred Galer, who is a brother of University of Washington's famed Bobby (178 points) Galer and who played basketball for "Hec" Edmundson, the Mt. Angel college basketball team is one that believes the main object of a team is to win games and that the best way to win games is to put basketballs through the basket.

The way Fred Galer's Angels made Willamette look Wednesday night was something like the way "Hec" Edmundson's Huskies have been making other northern division teams look this season. The Mt. Angel boys, a ziss-booming outfit if there ever was one, practically wore the varnish off Willamette's floor so swiftly did they head for that basket. None of them are imported, either. They were all there when Galer arrived from Seattle to take over his duties. Most of those Angels went to high school in the Willamette valley.

The planned attempt of Walter (The Big Train) Johnson to emulate the father of our country by throwing a dollar across the Potomac has run into difficulties. It seems there's some trouble finding a dollar.

Our prediction that none of the B teams that came to the tournament last year would repeat is in a way of coming true but we have doubts. Oakridge has been eliminated in the Lane county league by Pleasant Hill, one of the few B schools that crashed the tourney before a special B grouping was made. Whether Pleasant Hill can beat out the strong Benton county Bellfountain team is doubtful. As for our doubts, Mill City is pretty strong in this district and stands a good chance of repeating while Gardiner, last year's southern B entrant, is going strong. Umapine was last year's other B team and we haven't heard a word about Umapine this year.

It's a little late for baseball dope on last season's games but here's some stuff on the state penitentiary baseball team we gleaned from Daniel H. May's appropriately named "Inside Sports" department of Shadows, the newly born prison magazine. The prison team won 17 out of 19 games last year, losing only to Willamette and the Albany Alcos. The prisoners wiped out the loss to Willamette by taking a return game and after their loss to the Alcos finished up the season with 14 straight wins.

Crosswhite, the prison steamball pitcher, was the stumbling block for most of the teams that played inside the walls. Both he and Olson of the prison hurling staff pitched perfect games during the season, facing only 27 men, none of whom even smelled first base. Here's what May has to say about Crosswhite and another pair of fairly well known gentlemen:

"Crosswhite is one of the best pitchers in the state. Last year he won eleven games and bowed to Willamette in the first game of the season for his only loss. Among other things, he shut the Salem Senators out with only three hits, striking out 14. There is no truth to the rumor that "Frisco" Edwards took up softball as a result of that game. At heart, 'Frisco" always has been a softballer—he and 'spec' Keene."

Bearcats Will Meet Badgers

Season Nears Close With Second Pacific Game Here on Saturday

"Spec" Keene's hapless Bearcats will draw the curtain on their Northwest conference basketball season tonight and tomorrow night in a two-game series with the fifth place Pacific Badgers. Tonight's game will be in Forest Grove's crackerbox gymnasium while the Bearcats and the Badgers will play on the Willamette floor Saturday night.

The Bearcats, who finished fourth in the conference last year, can end up no higher than third this season and must take both games from Pacific to do that. At present they are tied with Puget Sound for third place.

Coach Anse Cornell's Badgers, second place winners last year, have been able to win only from Albany this year and are only a step above the cellar. Graduation cost Cornell dear last year as he lost every one of the basketeers that for three years made Pacific a Northwest conference terror. His present team is composed largely of freshmen and sophomores.

No Oversize Heads

The Bearcats will, however, not go to Forest Grove jauntily. Any tendency to believe they are "hot stuff" was quelled Wednesday night when Mt. Angel college held them to a mere eight points in the first half and finally defeated them 35 to 27. Pacific has at no time been a cinch for Bearcat teams on the Forest Grove floor.

What Keene's lineup against the Badgers will be is a guessing matter although the best bet puts Beard and Gastineau in the forward berths, Anton at center, and Charley Versteeg and George Erickson at guards. Keene used nearly the entire squad against Mt. Angel.

Polk Tourney to Open on Tuesday

INDEPENDENCE, Feb. 20.—The Polk county high school basketball tournament will be held in Independence in the high school gymnasium starting Tuesday night, February 25, and will be in play each night till Friday night.

The teams participating in the tournament are Monmouth, Independence, Falls City and Airlie or Bethel who must play off a tie before Tuesday night.

On the first night of play Monmouth will meet Independence and Falls City will meet Airlie or Bethel. The tournament will be carried out on the double elimination schedule, with two games played Wednesday night, on Thursday night and the final Friday evening.

Nicol, Portland, Remains in Race

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A trio of invading shotmakers from Portland, Winnipeg and Camrose, Alberta, along with Harold Brynjolfson, ace Victorian, moved into the semi-finals of the Beatty trophy handicap championship event today as play continued in the eighth annual mid-winter tournament.

The outsiders to advance were W. B. Pickard, Winnipeg, H. U. Johnston, Camrose, and Doug Nicol, Portland, former University of Washington champion.

Monmouth Alums Downed by Leslie

The high scoring Leslie Methodist team handed the Monmouth Alums their first defeat of the season 51 to 28 at Monmouth last night.

It was the third win of the week for the Leslie team which downed the Gervais Firemen 32 to 24 Wednesday night and won over the Salem National Guard quint 56 to 14 Tuesday.

Stockwell led scoring against Monmouth with 22 points. Marvin Ritchie, who scored 17 points last night, ran up 49 points in the three games.

Volleyball Squad Going to Seattle

Three cars full of the Salem Y. M. C. A. volleyball squad will leave this morning for Seattle where the team will compete in the Pacific Northwest A. A. U. volleyball tournament Saturday.

The pick of the northwest's volleyball shovers will be represented at the tourney, the winner of which will go to the national tournament at Davenport, Iowa. The University of Washington team won the tournament last year.

Salem, which has already beaten Seattle, Washington athletic club and Portland, is a favorite to take the championship this year.

The Dalles Evens Series With Bend

BEND, Ore., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Dalles high basketball team defeated Bend high 25 to 21 here last night to even the count at one each on the present series.

John Dick, center of The Dalles, scored 13 points to lead his team in a successful second half rally.

Walton Leaguers To Seek Members

Drive to Start in March; Wild Life Conference Report Is Heard

Preliminary plans for the launching of the annual membership campaign were outlined last night by 10 members of the Salem chapter of the Izaak Walton league, meeting at the chamber of commerce. The drive is to be launched next month, in preparation for the staging of the state convention of the league in Salem next summer.

Curtis B. Cross was unanimously chosen secretary-treasurer of the organization when the members accepted the resignation of Henry Crawford as treasurer and E. L. Crawford as secretary.

Reports of the North American Wild Life conference recently conducted in Washington were brought to the local chapter by Arthur Einarson, of the wild life biological survey unit at Oregon State college.

Outlook Here Good

"Oregon has the possibilities of being the outstanding wild life state in the union," Einarson told the members. "While Oregon has much of the original wild life left, eastern states are attempting to rehabilitate the sections. The demands on the soil and industry are crowding the wild life into the background."

Dr. R. Dimmick, also of the state college, advocated adequate stream surveys and urged the club members not to take more birds each season than are produced annually.

It was pointed out by some of the club members that the state game commission cost for raising Chinese pheasants is approximately $3.65 a bird while commercial growers offer three-pound birds, dressed for the table, at a fraction of the cost.

Albany Defeats Independence Hi

INDEPENDENCE, Feb. 20.—Albany's high school basketball team defeated the Hopster quintet 35 to 18 on the local court Wednesday night. Albany took control of the ball from the first quarter, which ended 6 to 1 in their favor; at half period they led by 10 points, 20-10. Hartman, one of the I. H. S. fast forwards, was unable to play due to illness. Primus played center in place of Carey and was high point man for the Hopster squad with 9 points.

V. Groening, Albany guard, high point man of the game, shot 14 of their 35 points.

Seniors and Soph Girls Face Final

The senior girls basketball team downed the juniors 28 to 6 yesterday to win a chance to play the sophomore girls for the Salem high interclass championship. The juniors were previously beaten by the sophomores 27 to 16.

The sophomore lineup was: Barbara Compton and Ruth Anunsen, forwards; Margaret Shipler, side center; Jean Victor, center; Shirley Davis and Evelyn Melson, guards.

The senior lineup was: Mary Mitchell and Verna Wilson, forwards; Alice Swift, side center; Marian Hultenberg, center; Marguerite Wagner and Irene Van Avery, guards.

Rachel Yocom and Barbara Kurtz were referees.

Airlie Loses in Low-Score Game

AIRLIE, Feb. 20.—A sudden reversal of the Airlie Panthers' winning streak occurred as Falls City turned them back, 16 to 11. Both teams checked well but the offensive work was poor all around.

Baskets were rare. Captain McKibben made all but two points for Airlie; Zuner and Ransom made 15 out of 16 for Falls City.

Pacific Packards To Engage Angels

MT. ANGEL, Feb. 20.—Friday night will see the last but one home game of the Angel five when they meet the Pacific Packards here in what promises to be a snappy return game. In their first contest with the Packards the Angels won a 4-point victory in a last minute rally. Their toughest opposition was found in Red McNeeley, all city high school forward and star man on the Packard team, whom nobody seemed able to stop. The game, however, was played with subs taking the place of three of the regulars on the Angel quint.

The M. A. C. team expects to be out in full strength for Friday's game. Haener, tall Angel center, will be back in position, and Christensen and Marx back on the job. This is the combination that won a 35 to 27 victory over the Willamette Bearcats Wednesday night.

A preliminary game between M A. C. Preps and a still unlisted team will commence at 7:00 p. m.

Price Shoe Store Alteration Begun

Alterations that will cost approximately $5000 when completed by mid-March are in progress at the Price shoe store, 135 North Liberty street. Major changes in the building itself have been made by the Catlin estate and Oscar E. Price, proprietor, is having extensive remodeling done to his garment shop.

Floor space has been tripled at the rear of the Price shoe store to accomodate an enlarged dress, corset and millinery shop. Sound and insulating board on walls and ceilings and deep carpets on the floors of the new shop and display rooms will, with soft-toned decorations, please shoppers. Price believes. The walls will be in greens, the woodwork walnut and shaded finishes.

Mrs. Jennie M. and Mrs. Effie L. Arehart and Mrs. Leila M. Aldrich will have charge of the custom corset shop and Dorothy Doree, from Albany, of the millinery.

Lenhart Defeats Rankin, Knockout

ST. PAUL, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Fred Lenhart, Tacoma, knocked out Oscar Rankin, Los Angeles, in 58 seconds of the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight. Lenhart weighed 170 and Rankin 164.

Lenhart, fighting from a southpaw stance, caught Rankin with a terrific left hook in the midsection, flooring him for the full count.

Warning Against Violence Issued

MEDFORD, Ore., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Ashland and Medford school officials pointed out state high school athletic rules today in warning student bodies against unseemly conduct at the Ashland-Medford basketball game at Ashland tomorrow night.

Principal B. C. Forsythe of Ashland advised students to leave their "eggs and closed fists at home," and similar warnings were issued here.

A Medford win would result in a virtual tie between the two schools for the southern Oregon district title. Rivalry is intense.

Will Draft Bonds Schedule Tonight

$110,0000, estimated by Manager Cuyler VanPatten.

Proponents of the North Santiam supply contend that normal growth of the city will more than increase water revenues to care for increasing debt service following the initial ten year period. The tentativee schedule shows payments starting at $71,820 this year, reeaching $109,520 in 1945 and increasing gradually to a peak of $122,100 in 1959. From that point the payments decline to $96,720 in 1966 and thereafter until thee last bonds are redeemed in 1976 do not exceed $100,000 annually.

During the next ten years under this debt serevice schedule, payments of bond principal and interest would leave $118,000 clear profit to be used for installing larger mains in the business district or for creating a reserve fund.

Williams declared that he did not believe Redfern had been seen by anyone "from outside."

"He cannot come out for the simple reason that he cannot move without food and the Indians cannot bring him out, because they do not know anywhere else but the immediate vicinity of their villages," the former army flier said.

"The Indians may be hostile but I do not think they killed him. Indications are also that far from his plane being preserved as something to worship, it was broken up and parts are probably in the huts of medicine men."

Linfield and Albany to Play; at Opposite Ends Of Conference Standing

ALBANY, Ore., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Linfield college basketball team, undefeated in Northwest conference games, plays here tomorrow night against the Albany college basketball team, which is still seeking its first conference victory.

Coach Joey Mack's Albany team is composed mostly of freshmen.
