Storage of Eggs To Begin Monday

Prices Will Be Lower and Production Heavier Than Last Year

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6-(AP)-The opening of the Pacific Coast egg storage season will arrive formally Monday, March 9, under mixed conditions. Prices will be lower and production heavier than last year, but feed is also lower, and storage supplies depleted. Some movement into storage has been reported this week.

The Pacific Egg Producers, eastern sales agency for 5 Pacific Coast producer cooperatives, anncunced today deliveries for cold storage pack will be received Monday on the following basis:

First grade, 23 1/2 cents a dozen. Second grade, 22 1/2 cents. Third grade, 20 1/2 cents,

May Realize More These prices are on the basis of The prices are those at which the Pacific Coast agencies estimate the eggs can be marketed, with conservative judgment of the fall outlook. The prices are, of course, considerably under what the cooperatives hope to realize.

Coast production currently is about 9 1/2 per cent heavier than last year, and has been running 10 to 15 per cent above 1935 most of thisyear. While this larger outof the storage season.
