FALLS CITY, March 20—These members of the high school basketball squad attended the state tournament at Salem Wednesday afternoon: Lyle Goode, Donald Ferguson, Lawrence Goode and Ray Ransom. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Ickes.

Probation Urged, Young Offenders

Dr. Utter Tells Views on Crime Questions at Credit Session

More probation of younger prisoners, up on minor offenses and for the first time, from the bench was advocated by Dr. F. L. Utter, local dentist and member of the state parole board, in an address before the credit association yesterday noon.

Dr. Utter presented this as one of three suggestions for betterment of the Oregon parole system, and declared that each suggestion embodied only his own view and in no way was to be construed as representing the feeling of the parole board.

Dr. Utter's other two suggestions, briefly, were: 1, a more uniform sentencing system which would place an equal sentence on the same crime anywhere in the state; and, 2, indeterminate sentencing system, by which the court might pronounce sentence of from one year to life and leave up to the board of pardon or parole board the release or retention of prisoners, as circumstances indicated.

"Some men who are carrying long sentences would be safer to turn back to society than some prisoners who are in for only a short term," Utter declared in reference to the last suggestion. He comes into contact with prisoners not only through his services on the parole board but also as visiting dentist to the prison.

Few Being Released

He deplored the number of young men, from 18 to 22 or 25 years, in crime. The present parole board, he said, has let out only about one out of seven prisoners who have come before it, attempts to keep some line on those paroled and is sure that each paroled man has a job as he goes back into society.

He stressed the difference between a paroled man and one who has been discharged, the latter having served his full time for the crime committed.

Oregon has, in the main, a good parole law, Utter declared, adding that 70 per cent of the men who have come under the parole have made good. Persons who have been pardoned for capital crimes make better citizens when restored than those who have committed lesser crimes, he finds.

No Criticism of Martin Intended

The Oregon state conservation council, which proposes to sponsor a constitutional amendment to keep the state game commission out of politics, has no intention of attacking Governor Martin nor his administration.

This information was contained in a letter received at the executive department Friday. The letter was signed by Ed F. Averill, council chairman.

"We believe a business worth more than $100,000,000 is entitled to a businesslike administration," the letter read. "No private business could survive by changing its executive personnel every four years."

"Instead of criticising the present members, the hope was expressed that the proposed amendment could be put into effect in time to save at least part of them to the commission after you have gone out of office."

Salem Sued For Polluting River

Another of the periodic complaints brought by fishermen's groups against firms who allegedly contribute to pollution of the Willamette river is expected to be filed in circuit court here today or Monday by Portland attorneys. The plaintiff is the Columbia River Fisherman's union which seeks permanent restraint of the city of Salem, Oregon Pulp & Paper company, the Charles K. Spaulding logging company and the Western Paper Converting company, all of Salem, from pollution of the Willamette, a tributary of the Columbia river.

Damages of $3000 against the three defendants is also to be asked, besides the permanent restraining order, it is said.

With the Bonneville dam destroying salmon spawning and resting grounds in the upper Columbia and the lower Columbia tributaries insufficient for these purposes, the salmon industry will have to depend upon the Willamette and its tributaries for its future life, the complaint is expected to set up. Contention will be made that the city of Salem's practice of dumping sewage into the Willamette and the defendant industrial companies' deposits of sewage and chemicals in the Willamette contribute to conditions which are destroying fish life and the industry.

Marriage License Business Is Poor

Harlan "Cupid" Judd, who dispenses the marriage licenses at the county clerk's office, is getting worried about this leap year business—even though the license bureau got a small break yesterday when one application to wed was filed.

Harvey H. Guenther, legal, 893 South Liberty, laborer, applied for permission to wed Martha Loewen, legal, housekeeper. The wedding is set for March 29.

But to go back to "Cupid's" difficulties. Guenther's request is only the fourth received during the first 20 days of March, which bids fair to establish an all time low in the county's nuptial business. The other three March licenses were issued on March 1, March 11 and March 14.
