"No Favor Sway Us; No Fear Shall Awe" From First Statesman, March 28, 1851 THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING CO. CHARLES A. SPRAGUE Editor-Manager SHELDON F. SACKETT - . - . Managing-Editor

Member of the Associated Press The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in

City Food Racketeers

IN an address on the general political situation by Col. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, prominently mentioned as a republican presidential candidate, the speaker touched on the food racketeers of the large cities, as one of the evils to be cleaned up in providing fairer return to producers. The extent of this evil few people realize. A special attorney, Thomas E. Dewey has been making investigation and conducting prosecutions and the revelations have been both appalling and discouraging. One racketeer in the poultry business, Charles "Tootsie" Herbert, was given a prison sentence; but when he came back to town his fellow union members presented him with a $4000 automobile and greeted him with a sign "Welcome Home, Tootsie." When later he THIS is not to say that the was ousted by the union the Butchers' international revoked the local charter.

William Fellowes Morgan, jr., commissioner of markets By no means. It does seem true, the Hearst-Merriam combination of New York city estimates the plunder of the food racket- however, that except in Missis- to file a ticket for an instructed eers at $100,000,000 a year. This is the toll extracted on notorious Negro leader whom Mr. ers got behind the Warren ticket, foodstuffs passing through the streets of New York and Hoover found it impossible to nominally instructed for Warren, handled in city shops. This cost is ultimately born by the dislodge when he tried to "purge" republican state chairman, but in producer in lower prices and the consumer in higher costs. Morgan in his annual report scores the A. F. of L. high ex- where no real change was effectecutives for failing to cooperate in the attempt to clean up the ed, that the rest of the Southern Landon; but they refuse to be tied racketeer unions. In these cases the union falls into the grip | States delegations will be on a of the extortionist who uses the union to force tribute. The somewhat higher level than they labor union is merely a screen for the real activities of pil- tions. At least, such is the view lage, as brazen and often as violent as those of highway brig- of those here who know most ands in days of old when the humble farmer going to mar- about the situation. ket was robbed of his produce. Morgan says in his report:

"In union labor today in many of the food industries there is complete dictatorship. The rank and file members of the local unions dare not say a word against their leaders and have absolutely no voice in the management of the union."

Of the men who manage the unions for their private ends he said:

"Those men do not have the welfare of the laboring men at heart. Their only interest in the union is to line their own pockets. Almost daily they double cross their union members. I know of instances where these racketeering labor leaders have exacted large sums of money from employers to keep wages down. Loan sharks, working with union delegates, have preyed on union men, and members of the union, injured by accident, have been compelled by racketeers to pay for the service of a designated doctor where the customary 'split' followed."

Frequently there is a tie-up between the labor bosses and the police and minor judiciary through the technique described by Morgan as follows:

"They kept the coffers of the political clubs well filled with money hijacked out of the industry. "Their 'gorillas' rendered valuable assistance at the polls

"The racketeers controlled, or claimed to control, a large

Similar practices have long been employed in Chicago Frank H. Hitchcock, representing where sometimes there was open warfare for control of certain unions like the plumbers union, by gangsters linked with round-up of the Southern dele- who arranged building of These practices are not only iniquitous in themselves, candidate or a sitting President. who lived last days in Marion: they bring discredit and reproach on the labor movement as a means for the improvement of condition of the workers. most of the Southern delegations "Having no means of securing Laborers may be in quite as much terror as small merchants. will come to the convention un- such large casks, he broke the Only by the strong arm of the law will these racketeers be pledged and in the hands of men head and the rum mingled with restrained.

Irish Sweepstakes

CAGE "SIPS" said wisely the other night the papers ought | vention was lodged in the South-I to print the names of the non-winners in the Irish Sweep- ern delegates. Combined, they stakes lottery; only there wouldn't be room. The chances number about 150, and in any and thefts which followed. Dr. at winning any of the 19 grand prizes was in the ratio of stitute the balance of power. This justly merited chastisement which 350,000 to 1; and for the small premiums, at 3,500 to 1.

The real winners are the promoters of the scheme, and | going to be possible to use them | cess Chowa and her few brave adthe Irish hospitals. According to the pungent Westbrook Pegler, who has been looking behind the screen of the sweep- ONE is that the temptations of stakes, the three promoters of the lottery have derived about the old days can no longer be used on a cruise up the northwest coast two million dollars in five and one-half years. The three who as bait, Another is that the pres- the Convoy had gone into the Wilstarted the gamble were Spencer Freeman, an Englishman, Joseph McGrath, an Irish politician and accountant, and Richard Duggan, Dublin bookmaker and gambler. Duggan is the Southern States coming to the dead now and his share goes to his estate. The Irish hospitals | convention as a unit or with an have received $21,000,000 and their take got so big President de Valera has impounded $25,000,000 pending an investiga- impracticable. They will split betion on what the hospitals now need.

The New York Herald-Tribune estimates that the people of the United States pungled up $6,250,000 and got back these days knows how to "line $3,600,000. Uncle Sam lays a heavy hand on the winners in up" the Southern delegates and the form of income tax assessment, so it is plain to see that no one it assempting to do it in what American citizens are doing is financing Irish hospitals the old way. and lining the pockets of the promoters.

The postal department under the kindly administration | pect for an open and interesting of Jim Farley has ignored the laws against publication of convention very fine, indeed. It reports of the sweepstakes. Jim of course is an ex-prize fight also makes the loud cries of the promoter, who seems to see no evil in this seductive lottery wicked machinations of the "Old rise of the Columbia was fast rewhich sucks millions of dollars out of the pockets of the Guard," seem more ridiculous. If ceding.

Italy Marches On

IUSSOLINI did a smart trick when he prodded Hitler to chooses in the convention is 'ust make a startling move on the chessboard of weltpolitik ridiculous. No one ever heard of by reoccupying the Rhineland. This diverted England out them. They always have been lin of the situation of Thompson's schoolhouse. Complaint against which had been blocking Italian expansion in Africa behind the essence of "Old Guard" con- vessel and reported danger from the front of the league of nations. It brought fresh friction | vention control. between France and England over the degree of their cooperation for mutual security. And it has left Mussolini free to that Mr. Walter F. Brown, Post- men in readiness at once, gave me preliminary hearing April 7. He have his troops romp over Ethiopia.

This debacle of sanctions was really foreshadowed in er, and a very astute politician, hour we were pulling away for the sorry truce agreed to by Premier Laval and Sir Samuel egates. This seems not to be true did not reach until the following Hoare. That was a betrayal of league idealism, and collective so far as Mr. Brown is concerned, morning. security was never the same again. The death of King George but not true so far as anyone also broke the spell of British concentration on imperial problems; and Italy used the relaxation of pressure of world have been in the field and an much familiarity, and allowing too ing things towards the proposed opinion to mop up in Africa.

Now the forces of Emperor Haile Selassie are in full re- any business in the South, even at one time. treat, he himself is reported ready to sue for peace, and Ital- under the old conditions. There is ian troops have planted themselves in the Lake Tana region, tion will be for Colonel Knox; Indians, who at that day were five million pairs of American zone of British interest as headwater of the Blue Nile. This Perry Howard, as usual, will be indeed is pulling the whiskers of the British lion.

British prestige which zoomed high when the great navy was rushed to the Mediterranean has sunk greatly as intimations are given that it will be returned to home waters, while lieve that of the one thousand and the new Caesar receives deputations from the conquered Lion | more delegates to the convention of the House of Judah.

Friday was an important day in the annals of American justice. Bruno Hauptmann was executed for a murder of which he was convicted. David Lamson was released although 30 jurors out of 36 in three separate trials decreed him guilty of murder. We are unbossed convention seem about not sure but justice in the two cases was working in reverse.

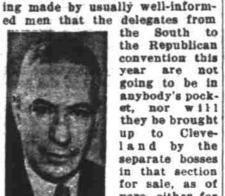

A Sumpter lad was too easy on the trigger, like a Salem boy ten days ago. Result is that his boy companion is dead. Youths should first rule is never to point the gun at a person, the second, to carry it barrel pointed to the ground.

Prof. Einstein told Printeton freshmen that he avoids contract three months of this year in-bridge because it affords too little relexation. Many who play it, creased 16 per cent over the cor-the sound and was moored some on Court street, has been finhowever, stand much in need of the mental effort.

The Great Game of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT Copyright 1935, by The Bultimore Sus

Not Tied Up This Time Washington, April 3 THE interesting statement is behave been in previous conven-

delegations in these States were the state. The prediction was ed its zenith. Developments in rean extremely sordid and commercontends, as they did in 1928, ation. when religious bigotry and Prohibition tore the Democratic party to pieces in the South, that any Republican candidate has any chance this year of carrying any Southern State. What is contended is that in many of these States the Republican party is in better hands and the delegations will be of better type. In other words, there has been an improvement since the days when men like C. Bascom Slemp and an administration or a dominant group, could make a wholesale Donald Manson the man gates, delivering them to a select | Hudson's Bay company's forts -0-

THE best information is that who, while entirely practical in the waters of the ocean. their politics, are not openly on "Then followed by his party a the auction block, as was their few hundred yards down the ed that real control of the con- like manner. that way for several reasons.

ent party leaders in the South resent the idea of being delivered; a third is that the current talk of without foundation and entirely tween the various candidates, and nobody will have them solidly. Still another reason is that no one

ALL OF which makes the prosprofessional Liberals about the there were a real "Old Guard," would be the Southern delegates. An "Old Guard" without the so insolent as to endanger the Southern delegates to swing 's it safety of the vessel and crew. a Republican "Old Guard" with-else is concerned either. None a feeling that the Florida delegaready to deal if there is anyone will be untied. The best judges beat least six hundred will be unpledged. The real reason this assures a wide-open convention is that there is no outstanding figure or group to which the "high siders" naturally gravitate. Those who have been shouting for an to get their wish. It will be unbossed, but it will also be greatly Lumber Orders Gain PORTLAND, Ore., April 3 .- (A) McLoughlin on Millbank sound in the first Easter day. -Figures compiled today by the 1832, while in charge of Mr. Western Pine association showed Manson. orders for 117 mills for the first responding period a year ago. three miles below the fort, where ished.

Landon Faces Tough Situation in California Over Hearst Episode

Conservative Republicans First Disposed to Back Him; EPIC Dead Issue, Townsendism Dropping

By C. A. SPRAGUE

The republican party in California is in a critical situation. It might be more correct to say is in a critical situation in California. The feeling is more intense than in any state I know of, respecting the republican presidential nomination. Peculiarly the rivalry is not between the differthey be brought ent candidates but over Landon himself and his flirting with Hearst. Landon's original intention was in that section not to enter primaries as a confor sale, as of testant. In California he was yore, either for swayed from this resolve through money or pa- the appeals of Hearst. Governor tronage pled- Merriam who seems at one time to have illusions about himself and the presidency, finally flopped to support Landon, either out of anxious to serve the party good. with Hearst. So Landon permitted sippi, where Perry Howard, the delegation, while the party leadthe party in the South, is still in effect uninstructed. As a matter of the saddle, and in Louisiana, fact conservative party men in California were much attracted to to William Randolph Hearst, a 'New York democrat". They recall what Hearst did to Garner at the democratic national convention; and place no reliance on him.

Combination Hurts While the lineup is far differ-THESE assert that, except in the ent from that of 1916. Landon is ers however of the strength of the two States mentioned, the drive left in the same predicament as made by Mr. Hoover to break up Justice Hughes was when he visitthe old and deeply intrenched ed California in 1916, did not system by which the Republican meet Senator Johnson, and so lost wholly controlled by the Federal made to me by a California repubofficeholders and manipulated on lican leader that while Landon might win the primaries with the cial basis, has resulted in a cer- Hearst - Merriam combination he tain improvement in Republican would probably lose the state in politics in those States. No one the election if he wins the nomin-

> What irks the responsible republican leadership in California cauldron.

is that Landon went into hiding at a critical moment, refused to communicate with them, would make no satisfactory date with that Governor Landon of Kansas these leaders when they offered to fly back to Kansas to confer with him. Meantime authentic reports came of his visits with Hearst-Merriam emissaries. Only through a prominent Kansas editor was it possible to get word to Landon; and it was a one-way pipeline. Naturally these long-time party men take offense at this treatment. Even the younger group, represented by a republican assembly in southern California, withdrew endorsement of Landon because of his succumbing to Hearst domination. Supporting the Warren ticket for an uninstructed delegation are papers like the San Francisco Chronicle and Los Angeles Times. Leaders who have been close to Herbert Hoover likewise back the Warren ticket. The Hiram Johnson wing is not much of a factor because there has been a marked swing of the liberal fringe over to democratic registration. No matter what transpires Landon has lost much ground in California, a state with 22 electoral votes. EPIC Loses Ground

California democrats have regained control of the state committee from the Sinclair EPIC invaders. There is still a protesting remnant of the EPIC following, and Sinclair bobs up occasionally to keep his hand in politics, but the movement is dead. A few EPIC signs still standing were remindcause in the 1934 campaign.

Long Beach was the birthplace of the Townsend movement, but the report was that this had passcent days have no doubt contributed to its further decay. San Diego was, and is, a stronghold of Townsendism; and the papers there published long lists of club meetings.

So much for politics, which in California is always a bubbling

Bits for Breakfast

By R. J. HENDRICKS

(Continuing from yesterday:)

regular quadrennial custom. In beach, he dispersed the Indians, former years it has often happen- and secured the second cask in

"For this insolent exhibition close fight this would easily con- McLoughlin gave those Indians a time, it is contended, it is not they never forgot, while the Prinherents were suitably rewarded.

> "Captain Dominis having sailed short distance below Clackamas rapids, Said Mr. Manson:

> "Capt, Thompson of the Convoy was a man of fine social qualities, a skillful navigator, a lively trader, but knew little of Indian character.

> "Having built a small block Vancouver. Arriving at Multnomah village at the mouth of the informed me that the 'Boston' ship was aground.

"This was in July, when the backwater caused by the annual "The Clackamas Indians, taking advantage of the stranger while in this hapless condition, had become

"Hastening forward to Vancouver, I informed Dr. McLough-Indians. "The doctor ordered Michel Lamaster General under Mr. Hoov- the command, and in less than an posted $50 bail. had rounded up the Southern del- the unfortunate ship, which we

"Captain Thompson had acted inexperienced man couldn't do many Indians to board his ship new city park-"Bush Pasture very numerous throughout the shoes are in use by the armies of Willamette valley, especially at Europe. with whom to deal, but the great that season in the vicinity of the > complete surprise, the Indians immediately left the ship, and we employed a large force of Indians who had not participated in these depredations, we having succeeded in relieving the schooner. "The Indians were compelled to Dr. McLoughlin. "In this connection I will men-

"The brig Lama, Capt. McNeill, and third floors of the Y. M. C. A.

the captain conducted a brish trade for a few months. "But, as was apt to be the case with inexperienced traders who understood but little of the treacherous character of the north coast Indians, he permitted too much familiarity. 4 4 5

"They soon grew more impudent, boarding his vessel a few at a time, until some 40 or 50 were on deck. The Indians then defied his authority. This commenced early in the morning and the wildest confusion was kept up throughout the day. "Late in the afternoon the captain had managed to send two of the men to the fort with an earnes request for immediate assist-"'Manning a boat with armed Canadians,' said Mr. Manson, 'I started for the Lama; on rounding a point at evening twilight the old voyageurs as usual signaled their coming by singing one of their favorite boat songs. "The vessel was now in full iew, anchored near the beach. "The attention of the Indians was attracted by the resounding chorus of the Canadians, and were soon in their canoes pulling for

"'The ringleader, a stalwart, still on board when I reached the deck. He was made a prisoner and held at the fort until his people had restored all they had for damages committed."

"Capt. McNeill soon after sailed for the Sandwich Islands where house at Astoria, I was called to he sold his vessel to Mr. Dunçan Finlayson, agent of Dr. McLoughlin. Capt. McNeill sailed the Lama Willamette, I was hailed by an In- to the Columbia river, invested his dian who had just come from the money and entered the service of Falls (site of Oregon City); he the Hudson's Bay company, and became a chief factor, and died at Victoria in 1875." (Continued tomorrow.)

Irish Faces Charge Of Reckless Driving

Harold B. Irish of Silverton was arrested on a reckless driving charge following an automobile accident which occurred April 1 near the North Howell Irish was made by another Silverton man, Anton Pfau, jr. Irish denied the charge in justice court

Twenty Years Ago

April 4, 1916 The paving of Church street

Under the direction of Miss Minnetta Magers an opera will be "On my arrival, which was a presented soon by 50 high school

Ten Years Ago

April 4, 1926 Plastering work in the front estore the stolen or extorted pro- of the Elsinore theater, under perty and were duly punished by construction on High street, has

Today being Easter, most of Sation one other similar circum- lem's churches are presenting

All of the work on the second

The Flood Picket

CIBERRATE STATE

"There's Murder in the Air"

by Roy Chanslor

Saler Legel

being committed but is powerless to give sufficient information to prevent them. These weird visitations come upon Ruth while she plays her violin and always at night. Mr. Tyler seeks the aid of Dr. Jan Karask, celebrated psychiatrist, but the latter must go to Baltimore on another case, so he assigns his young assistant, Nat Benson, to the job, suggesting that Tyler give Nat only Ruth's back-ground and let him find out the design of the latter must go to the latter must go to make the latter must go to did not speak, had picked her up studied under the greatest teachers to the bed. And she had smiled under the greatest teachers the latter must go to make the design of the latter must go to make the design of the latter must go to make the latter must go to make the latter must go to make the latter must go to did not speak, had picked her up studied under the greatest teachers to the bed. And she had smiled under the greatest teachers the latter must go to make the latter must go to did not speak, had picked her up studied under the greatest teachers the latter must go to make the latter must go to make the latter must go to did not speak, had picked her up studied under the greatest teachers the latter must go to make the latter must go to make the latter must go to make the latter must go to did not speak, had picked her up studied under the greatest teachers the latter must go to make the latter must go tails himself. Nat arrives at the had said. "But I'm all right. Good! "I think I can understand you old Tyler home on East 79th Street Tyler tries to explain that his daughter is a mental case but is not unbalanced. CHAPTER III "I want you to make certain observations," Tyler said. "To do that, you will have to live here in the house with us. . . And it is important that my daughter does not know why you are here. Is— is that satisfactory to you?"

"Yes," said Nat. "But it may take some arranging." "I'll take care of that," said Tyler. "Let me see: Let us say that you are the son of an old friend. Your father's name was Nat too, eh? Let us say that he was a col-lege friend. You are here looking for work—my guest. You will be on intimate terms with the family, of course. It will be perfectly natural for you to stay as long as necessary. Nobody can find a job now-essary. adays."

"That sounds practicable enough," said Nat. "I will explain briefly-" Tyler began. Then he stopped, turning his head, as if listening. From somewhere in the house there came the sound of music, the music of a vio-lin. It was faint but indescribably beautiful, haunting. Tyler stood quite still, as if frozen, staring upward, toward the sound of the music. Then, abruptly, in the middle of a bar, the music ceased. Tyler turned swiftly to-ward Nat, his face drawn. "Come!" he said. "Come!"

Then he strode from the room, Nat close at his heels. His long legs took the stairs, two steps at a time. Nat followed. Down the hall Tyler went, half-running now, Nat keeping pace just behind him. Bewith you a bit."
fore a door at the extreme end of He had glance fore a door at the extreme end of the had glanced up then, at Nat, the hall the man halted, raised his hand as if to knock.

Then he brought it down slowly, look. Tyler had shaken his head, alowly, and by a movement of his placed it on the knob and quietly hand had suggested that Nat wait opened the door. It was quite dark inside, and still. Tyler fumbled for as he could. inside, and still. Tyler fumbled for the light-switch; there was a click, and the lights came on. In the middle of the floor, facing them, a girl in negligee stood rigidly, a violin at her shoulder. The fingers of her left hand were on the strings; the bow drooped at her side in the other hand. Enormous dark eyes stared out of an alabaster face, a face filled with unutterable terror.

"That "That "That stairs, glanced up and saw Tyler's tail figure descending. The man came into the room wearily. He stairs, glanced up and saw Tyler's tail figure descending. The murmured "She's a said Tyler of his face with one of his lean hands. Then he took a chair, facting Nat.

"She is sleeping now," Tyler said. Nat nodded, said nothing. The "He we were." "Ruth!" Tyler cried huskily.
"Ruth! What is it?"

The great eyes closed; the girl swayed toward Tyler. He took her in his arms, held her closely. She buried her face against his sleeve. She seemed incredibly small and fragile beside his tall figure. She trembled in his arms, drew herself closer to him,
"Ruth," he repeated, but very gently now. "What is it, dear?"

With one hand he tilted her face With one hand he tilted her face up toward his, smoothed back the long dark hair. She did not open her eyes. Again he repeated: "What is it, dear?" She opened her dark eyes slowly. To Nat, motionless in the doorway, they seemed to rest upon him. But she gave no sign of noticing his presence.

"I don't know," she whispered. "It began—as always. And then—it stopped! Oh, I don't know what it is!"

Nat stared into her eyes, so large.

In the big chair in the living-room, Nat sat waiting for Tyler. Tyler nodded and went on: "She'll He had been there nearly an hour what they call a prodigy, I believe now, trying to compose himself, try- has been since she was a child. Odi-Ruth Tyler, blind daughter of ing not to puzzle too much about the ous word, prodigy. But she has former District Attorney Daniel strange actions of the girl with the shown a remarkable talent for the Tyler, is psychic. She foretells violin. What had caused the terror violin from childhood. murders at the exact time they are in her face? How could she, blind "I'm surprised that she isn't a

In the middle of the floor, a girl in negliges stood rigidly, a violin at said Tyler.

night."
"No," he had said. "I'll stay here feelings about that," said Nat. "One thing puzzles me. A blind violinist man stole a curious look at him.

"That was what I wanted you to observe," he said slowly. Then he shook his head. "But it—it was in—it was in—it complete. What - what did you nomenon at first hand, to take nothmake of it?"

"Nothing," said Nat frankly. "Except that she seemed badly frightened." "She was frightened," said Tyler.
"She was terrified."

"What of?" said Nat.

"I wish you'd tell me," said Tyler.

"But haven't you any idea—"
Tyler shook his head.

"I don't know," he said. "I hoped she would know, so that you could see—see the thing at work. But something happened. In a way I was relieved. . . But it will come again. And I want you to be on hand when it does."

Nat nodded. "Perhaps you'd better explain," he said.

"I was relieved. . . But it will come again. And I want you to be on hand when it does."

Nat nodded. "Perhaps you'd better explain," he said.

"I—I'll try to tell you something about her," said Tyler. "She is a girl. He fetched him tan silk pa-"What of?" said Nat.

Nat stared into her eyes, so large, so fixed. There "as still no sign in them. And then, with a shock, he realised that she was blind.

In the big chair in the living-room, Nat sat waiting for Tyler. "Yes," said Nat. "It was—so—materials."

"Yes," said Tyler. "She is a girl. He fetched him tan silk pajamas, slippers, a brocade dressing."

"Yes," said Nat. "It was—so—materials."

"Yes," said Nat. "It was—so—materials."

"Yes," said Nat. "It was—so—materials."

tributed by King Festures Spadients, Is thing puzzles me. A blind violinist does she play entirely by ear?"

"Not exactly," said Tyler. "She has a remarkable ear, can play anything she has heard. But she has a very complete musical library in Braille—and an almost incredible memory. She can read the music —then remember every note."

"That is extraordinary," Nat

"She's an extraordinary person,"

"I can see that," said Nat. "Now, about this fear..."

Tyler hesitated.
"Dr. Karasc," he said, "feels that you should—start from scratch, as ing from hearsay. Very well, I'll do my best, Mr. Tyler."

"No one can do more than that," said Tyler with a faint smile.

"One thing only," said Nat. "This—this fright—it has something to do with her playing the violin?"
"It has," said Tyler. "That is,

Copyrighted by the MoCall Com