Stand in When Stars Step Out

Hollywood is full of unique jobs as Mary Lou Islieb and Joan Barrie can testify. Mary Lou and Joan are "stand-ins" for two of the most prominent of Hollywood's firmament. When Shirley Temple wants to relax while adjustments of scenery are being made, little Mary Lou steps into her place. However, Joan Barrie has to stand in and up at the same time, since she has to wear clogs to give her the proper height when she "subs" for her sister Mona during arrangement of scenie and lighting effects.

By Senate Ballot

Austin contended the vote did not show a two-thirds majority of members present, indicating a senator, or two, in the chamber had not voted. He also asserted it would be "monstrous" to pile all the charges of which he had been acquitted into one "omnibus" article and then convict the jurist. Pittman overruled the challenge with the statement the last article contained a separate count of 'misbehavior." Austin sat down and there was no appeal. Ritter's conviction was the fourth such outcome in the senate's 12 impeachment cases.

Cutting Recalled As Friend of W.U.

The death or Judge Sidney Cutting in Chicago, in the words of Dr. Bruce Baxter, president of Willamette university, has taken from the historic Salem institution the "staunchest friend any college possibly could have."

Judge Cutting, who received his AB degree here in 1873 and his LL. B. several years later from Willamette, is known as one of the university's most famous

As president of the Cook County Bar association, which includes the entire city of Chicago, Judge Cutting journeyed especially in 1931 to deliver the annual commencement address.

In 1932, when the university glee club toured the west, the judge was host to the organization for several days while it sang at the world's fair. He also was a generous donor to the university.

Method of Check Forgers Outlined

Methods pursued by check forging racketeers, now developing into a sizable menace, were described for the Salem credit association yesterday noon by Oral M. Lemon, member of the group. Much of his talk was based on the April Reader's Digest article "Cold €ash for Hot Checks".

The most approved method of geeting check signatures to forge is rifling mail boxes at the first of the month, when bank statements are mailed out, this not only affording the signature, but also knowledge of the current account and the bank on which to draw. He described the audacity with which forgers carry on their work -until caught.

Other members of the association told of money order rackets
