To List Delinquents—The state forester has authority to list all owners of timber and fire hazard lands whose forest patrol assessments are delinquent for one year or more, and to notify such owners of their responsibility. The list of delinquents will be published in the Oregonian. The forester also has authority to issue orders for the removal of fire hazards on these lands. Attorney General VanWinkle ruled yesterday. VanWinkle said that while such notice would not add anything to the liability of such owners, either under the statutes or the common law, it would have a tendency to promote observance of the statutes relating to fire protection.

Licenses Lack Charged—Herbert Fromm, Salem, was arrested by city police Sunday on a charge of not having a city milk license, according to police records. He is the first operator to be booked on this charge since Chief Minto announced last month that all milk distributors must obtain a city license and carry a milk license tag on their vehicles. Fromm also was charged with failure to stop.

"Porkless" Flood Bill Brought Out
 WASHINGTON, April 27.—(AP)—Shorter by $350,000,000 than when the committee took it over, an omnibus flood control bill which leaders said had "no pork in it" emerged Saturday from the senate commerce committee. Power development projects amounting to $250,000,000 and a potential $100,000,000 expenditure for land and damage costs were cut from the bill. The committee lopped off the $100,000,000 by voting 10 to 6 that states and local communities should pay all land and damage costs, with the federal government providing only the construction funds. The bill carries a lump sum authorization of $5,000,000 for continuation of engineering surveys of nine power-flood control projects in seven southern, midwest and northwest states, and scores of other new flood control surveys.

Baseball Park Need Stressed

Senator Club's Officers Present Their Plans at C. of C. Meet

With interest in baseball definitely on the increase here, the need is insisted for an enclosed community baseball park, Al J. Bechet, president of the Salem baseball club, and other leaders in this sport, yesterday noon told the chamber of commerce. Roy "Spec" Keene of Willamette university introduced the speakers. Bechet declared the goal of the club to be "continued good baseball for Salem," and outlined plans for the season, including the opening at Eugene May 24, the first home game here May 31, participation in the state semi-pro tourney and plans to bring the Beavers and the Seattle coast leaguers here, if possible for a Monday game.

Ball Fans Speak
 Other speakers were Dr. L. E. Barrick, who stressed character building elements of baseball for youths, and declared the Salem team has probably won more pennants in the past decade than any other Oregon team; Cliff Parker, who pointed to a four-fold national stimulus which makes the 1936 baseball season exceptionally bright; and Leo Edwards, manager and coach, who admitted his chagrin at going to smaller towns that have better fields than Salem and who declared the Senators will have a good ball club this year.

Parker said plans are under way for a baseball school in Salem about the time the public schools are out.

Other officers and directors of the Salem ball club introduced included Harry Holt, secretary-treasurer; James H. Nicholson, Paul H. Hauser, Frank Nelson, manager, and Fred Ziemerman. Additional special guests at the chamber were Miss Winnifred Gardner, Willamette university May queen, and her attendants, Miss Esther Black and Miss Esther Gibbard.

Nelson Club Here Headed by French

With the heavy driving season of spring and summer approaching, motorists of this city should pay particular attention to their tire problems, if they wish trouble-free and non-accident motoring, according to Walter Zosel, manager of the Goodrich Silverton store, located at 198 South Commercial. Mr. Zosel is a representative of The B. F. Goodrich company, through whose cooperation is presented 12 valuable rules for maintaining tire health.

Welfare Board's Program Altered

Several material changes involving the operations of the state child welfare commission and the manner of conducting the state-aided child caring institutions, were directed in a resolution adopted by the state board of control Monday. The resolution was prepared by Wallace Wharton, state budget director, and was intended to correct regulation discrepancies discussed at a previous meeting of the board with members of the child welfare commission. The resolutions directed: That the child welfare commission is authorized and directed to formulate such rules and regulations, based on pertinent statutes and opinions of the attorney general, as will provide efficient and economical functioning of the child caring institutions. Such rules and regulations shall set forth specific requirements to be met by all institutions before they are granted their annual license by the child welfare commission.

Two In One

The two-in-one costume for small girls has become extremely popular as a warm weather garment. Under a dainty little dress is a pair of panties with a matching top. When the frock is removed, a complete play suit is thus revealed.

Waldport People Plan Celebration

Thousands to Attend Fete at Opening of Bridge May 8-10, Report

WALDPORT, April 27.—With street and business houses gaily decorated, this city is assuming a festive atmosphere in preparing to entertain the thousands of visitors who are expected to attend the Alsea bay bridge dedication and annual crab festival, to be held here and at Yachats, May 8, 9 and 10. Organizations and citizens from all parts of Lincoln county are assisting local residents in arranging the festival program, and will take a prominent part in the staging of the many events which will take place during the three-day show. The Devil's Lake Devils and Devilettes from Oceanlake, with their colorful costumes, will head a large delegation from North Lincoln county, and will vie with the Spruce Loggers' chorus and ladies' singing corps of Toledo, the Bedlamers from Tatt, the DePoe Bay Pirates, and the Beachcombers of Newport, for the prize which will be presented to the visiting Lincoln county organization, which presents the most gala appearance.

Five Bands Lined Up
 Five bands, including the Oregon State college band, the Corvallis American Legion drum corps, the Corvallis high school, Toledo 4L, and the Toledo high school bands, will provide music each day of the celebration.

The bridge dedication ceremonies will take place Saturday at 1 p. m. Governor Charles H. Martin will make the principal address. Mrs. Martin will christen the new structure with a bottle of water taken from Alsea bay. Other visiting officers who will take part in the program include Rufus Holman, state treasurer; Earl Snell, secretary of state; Henry F. Cabell, state highway commissioner; Joseph K. Carson, jr., mayor of Portland; Walter S. Chiene, president of the Oregon coast highway association; R. H. Baldoek, state highway engineer; Lucy V. Marrow, director of Washington highway; C. H.
