Permit for Fleet On River Is Asked

A harbinger of the improved water traffic facilities on the Columbia river growing out of the installation of new deep water locks at Bonneville is seen in the application of the Inland Navigation Water company for permission to operate a fleet of boats and barges on the Columbia river between Portland and Dent Landing, east of Umatilla. The application will come up for hearing in Portland before a representative of the interstate commerce commission, Frank McCulloch, Oregon utilities commissioner, in a hearing made a party to the proceeding and will attend the hearing.

Railroad officials are opposing the granting of the application, saying the new line would be disastrous to rail traffic from the eastern Oregon country.

Under the proposal of the Inland Navigation company, the railroad would be permitted to quote rates from eastern Montana and other northwest points, to Dent Landing, and from there to quote rates to Portland on barges. Large quantities of grain from the inland empire would move over the new line, its sponsors anticipate.

Mrs. Anna Caisse, means of raising money were discussed. Mrs. Lydia Covatt will be the next hostess May 14.

The Party Line

HELLO! Oh, yes, Marge, this is me. No, I haven't been ANYPEACE this week. You see, I've gone DOMESTIC in a BIG WAY. Believe it or not, I've CLEANED house; from STEIN to STERN and IN-SIDE and OUT. You know how this bright SPRING sunshine shows up SNEARY windows and DINGY curtains? I didn't realize until the other day how DILAPIDATED our bedroom looked, and after I started in there, I simply couldn't stop until the rest of the house MATCHED up...

AFTER I took down the CURTAINS and pulled down the window SPREADS were so faded and tired looking, I went down and bought two of those $2.00 ones we saw. Yes, I know they had been expensive ones, but these HAYDON ones were so CRISP and COOL-looking, I couldn't resist them. I'll bet they WEAR every bit as well as those HEAVY ones, too. And I was able to match them almost EXACTLY in the most UNUSUAL drapery material—sort of a poplin weave, rayon fabric, do you remember? With our new light drapery and scalloped ones, we were so CRISP and COOL-looking, I couldn't resist them. I'll bet they WEAR every bit as well as those HEAVY ones, too. And I was able to match them almost EXACTLY in the most UNUSUAL drapery material—sort of a poplin weave, rayon fabric, do you remember? With our new light drapery and scalloped ones, we were so CRISP and COOL-looking, I couldn't resist them. I'll bet they WEAR every bit as well as those HEAVY ones, too. And I was able to match them almost EXACTLY in the most UNUSUAL drapery material—sort of a poplin weave, rayon fabric, do you remember?
