Stress Home Idea At Summer Study

ed by State Motors, Inc. Stage College Will Have Unusual Number of Authorities

> CORVALLIS-The Oregon State college summer session this year will be an important training center for home economics students and teachers from many parts of the country, judging from advance indications. Increasing public attention to economic and social adjustments within the home and community has greatly stimulated the demand for trained leaders in the field of home economics, says Dean Ava B. Milam, head of the

The west is the Mecca for women of this profession this summer because of the combined attractions of the National Education association convention in Portland June 28 to July 3, and the Ameri-Dual equipment.

Coupe. Bought new convention in Seattle July 6 to 11. The session at O. S. C. has been planned to make it possible for the students registered to attend these two conventions. Because of the national meetings and through the cooperation of the state department of vocational education, a larger number of visiting instructors than ever before will be available in the school of home economics.

Instructors from East

Among these are Miss Mabel Russell, assistant professor of home economics at Iowa State college; Miss Bess Steele, assistant professor and head of the design division of home economics department of the University of Nebraska; Dr. R. Adams Dutcher. professor and head of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry at Pennsylvania State college; Dr. Sybil Woodruff, authority on food research from the University of Illinois; Dr. Harold Jones, professor of child psychology and director of the Institute of Child Welfare, University of California; Dr. E. Lee Vincent, psychologist of the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit; Prof. Mary Koll
