

Local News Briefs

Gilstrap Reply—Replying to defense of defendants Walter C. Winslow and S. M. Endicott in suit involving some of the Cornelia A. Davis estate property at Turner, Ellmore J. Gilstrap and wife deny allegations of the defendants. The plaintiffs assert that the Eugene Bible university went into possession of the home for the needy subject to the trust set forth in the deed and that the university conducted it according to the terms of the deed. Plaintiffs further state that in 1933 the same contract involved in the present suit was attempted to be foreclosed upon by Winslow and that this foreclosure suit was dismissed from court.

Watrous Trial Today—Retrial of the $25,500 damage action brought by Charles Watrous against the Salem Brewery will get under way before Judge L. H. McMahan today. The case was appealed to the supreme court and the trial was postponed. The plaintiff awarded a $6000 verdict to plaintiff. Watrous alleges he was injured while working as a mechanic during reconstruction of the brewery late in 1933. The trial will probably occupy the remainder of this week.

Request Information—The Salem chamber of commerce yesterday received a request from the Portland Better Business Bureau for information regarding a man who is reported to be selling defective eggs in the east advertising apples and claiming to have a connection with a Salem firm for delivery of a box of C. ### County Books In Good Shape

Audit Finished, Shows No Discrepancy Involving Net, Missing Aide

Marion county's books for the year 1935 came through the audit of Harry Roland and L. S. Covert with virtually nothing to make news. The audit was completed and filed with the county clerk yesterday. It makes no mention of the general condition of the county books nor does it suggest any possible improvements in handling of the county accounts.

The 119-page audit shows no discrepancies in the accounts of L. E. Neet, deputy tax collector, who disappeared some weeks ago under circumstances still unsolved. The auditors have said, however, that a year or more might pass before discrepancies, if any, might come to light if the deputy collected cash for taxes and destroyed duplicate receipts held in the office. Such a possibility has been considered, but the tax books for so far as the audit was carried into 1936 show no such situation.

The audit does show a small discrepancy in the sheriff's department, but this is not a shortage but rather due to the fact that some checks, returned for want of sufficient funds, have been carried along over a period of years. The audit shows a total of $113.63 and another sum of $933.26 is represented by mileage in the sheriff's department which has not been paid. This runs back six or seven years to make the total indicated.

Jury Trials Set, Municipal Court

Jury trials are scheduled for today and tomorrow in municipal court. Tomorrow is charged with drunken driving after his automobile hit a police car, is to open at 10 a. m. before a jury today. City Attorney Paul E. Hendricks and Edwin Goodenough, defense attorney, yesterday afternoon agreed upon a jury list for the trial at 10 a. m. Friday of Carl Tallon, one of two motorists charged with reckless driving following the accident at Center and Commercial streets, July Sunday which resulted in the death Monday of Helen Lama. The cases of both drivers, Tallon and Willis Wakefield, will be left in the city court. District Attorney Trindle announced last night.

Candidates Claim Light Expenditure

Frank N. Derby, Salem, candidate for republican national convention delegate who headed the ticket, spent $27.50 on his campaign, he reported to the state department Wednesday. Others reporting campaign expenses, including eight who stated they had spent nothing were: Republicans—Floyd D. Moore, $8.00; H. H. DeArmond, $15.75; Walter Norblad, $21.50; J. W. Hughes, $3; Frank W. King, $8; Kenneth L. Tamesie, $12.30; Arthur A. Tarlow, $32.97; Glenn N. Riddle, $47.20; Victor A. Tengwald, $10; L. G. English, $10; J. O. Turner, $4.50; A. E. Haglund, $48.

I. H. Van Winkle, Gust Anderson, Earl H. Hill, Glenn O. Taylor, W. M. McAllister and Lake M. Bechtel did not spend money on their campaign.

Democrats—Fred D. Jeannett, $2.75; N. E. Glass, $5.40; H. M. Potter, $11; and Lot D. Brown, $23.45. Those spending no money were J. R. Marshall and Walter Fisher.

Gregoire Estate Appeal Launched

An appeal in the Mary F. Gregoire estate on that portion of the county court's decree of April 27 relative to determination of the children of Sarah Wilmet, deceased, has been filed in circuit court by Octavia Johnson, substituting for J. P. Wilquet, deceased, Martin Hawkins and Alice M. Campbell, substituting for Henry Wilquet, deceased.

The lower court's decree was against the above petitioners and in favor of Joseph Wilmet, Matilda Wilmet, Jennie VerCauseren, Ceal Nissers and Mary Husacker, the five persons whom the county court held to be the heirs and heirs of Sarah Wilmet, deceased, and only children and heirs of Sarah Wilmet, a sister of Mary F. Gregoire. These five children of Sarah Wilmet were, by the lower court's decree, to have each a one-twentieth share in the Gregoire estate.

Tour of Gardens Is Slated Sunday

Harry L. Riches, county agent, has completed arrangements for a grange garden tour for Sunday, May 24. All grangers interested are being extended an invitation to attend. The party will meet at the S. H. Van Trump residence at 1221 North Fourth street at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. They will then visit the home of Mrs. Willis Dallas near Liberty, the Inger gardens, and the residence of Mrs. M. M. Magee east of Salem.

From there the tour will take the grangers to the Goode gardens in Stayton where a basket luncheon will be served. Proceeding to inspection of gardens at the homes of Mrs. Phillip Fisher and W. F. Kranz near a Vior Point, the tour will end at the Cooley gardens in Silverton.

McLoughlin Home Memorial Sought

In a letter to Secretary Ickes of the interior department, Governor Martin expressed Wednesday the hope it would be found possible to promote the plan of establishing the historical John McLoughlin home at Oregon City and its site as a national memorial. "The McLoughlin home is not only an important historical shrine," the governor wrote, "but is a building of dignified architecture worth preserving for its own sake. It is now in a bad state of repair and will require thorough renovation.

"Many civic and political societies and organizations are supporting the project, in which there is a widespread interest throughout the old Oregon country, a district now comprising the present states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and parts of Montana and Wyoming."

Crossing Request For Gates Denied

County Court Is Asked to Petition Commission in Same Matter

The petition of the school district at Gates to keep open the railroad crossing just east of the Southern Pacific station in that town and connecting the secondary highway there and the business street, has been denied by the public utilities commission. The county court was advised yesterday.

Commissioner Melson stated that the school board was adjudged to have no authority to petition the commission in this matter, and that he expects the county court to place a similar petition before the utility commission in behalf of the Gates people.

In connection with the same matter, on which delegations from Gates previously appeared before the county court, another petition yesterday asking that the present railroad crossings connecting the road which passes the business section with the secondary or North Santiam highway, be kept open.

While more than one crossing is open there now, it is understood the Gates residents will be satisfied if the crossing east of the station is continued open, as use of this one affords the greatest convenience for the school bus and other vehicles which would otherwise have only one route in and out of town.

Berries Damaged By Steady Rains

The continued rainy weather is doing some damage to the strawberry crop as it is causing berries that were about to mature to rot. County Horticulturist S. H. Van Trump reports. However, if the weather clears up within the next day or two, the rains will be more beneficial than otherwise.

The unusual amount of precipitation at this time of year is not having a favorable effect upon grains, he says, for the growth is becoming too rank and wheat especially may develop considerable rust as a result of the moisture. Alfalfa, vetch and oats are growing too fast and as a result are becoming weak stemmed, farmers report to him.

Bond Sale Profit Reported, Estate

Sale of three $1000 bonds netted the Ferdinand Rosche estate a clear profit of $466.27 over the appraised valuation, according to report in probate of the administratrix, Fabian R. Hanley. The return on the sale indicates the strength of the bond market over the inventory date.

The bond of the Columbia River pipe mills, appraised at $250, was sold to Conrad Bruce and company for $947.18; and the bond of the Emporium Capwell company, appraised at $980, brought $1036.20, with the same company buyer. Mortgage Investment company bought the Mortgage Investment corporation bond, appraised at $375, for $1058.47.
