As Socialists Picked Thomas

Selection of Norman Thomas, shown center with upraised hand, as Socialist presidential nominee for the third consecutive time was the occasion for an impromptu celebration at the national convention in Cleveland in which Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee, left, and Leo Krzycki, right, convention chairman, joined in. In accepting the nomination, Thomas urged the party fight for constitutional amendments in "behalf of the workers" and appealed for establishment of a new social order.

is turning on Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas is serving to bring into corresponding prominence the figure of John Hamilton, Landon campaign manager. Hamilton, a Topeka, Kas., attorney, began his political career with election to the Kansas assembly in 1925 where he served as speaker of the house for two years. He was state committee chairman from 1930 until 1932 when he was elected national committeeman. It was his outstanding work in building up the young Republican organization of Kansas, however, which won him the attention of national G. O. P. leaders. It is now widely predicted that nomination of Landon would mean election of Hamilton to the post of national chairman, replacing Henry P. Fletcher. Whether or not this comes about, it is a certainty that Hamilton will be an important figure at the national convention in Cleveland in June.
