Hard Tasks Face Gomez Regime

President Miguel Gomez

Cuban capital Gerardo Machado

With the inauguration of President Miguel Gomez, Cuban citizens are concerned with whether the new regime will be equal to the task of suppressing the military bloc and restoring civil power to supremacy. Another major problem confronting the island republic is the restoration of its credit which has been jeopardized by the mounting national debt which has accumulated during the disorders following the downfall of Dictator Gerardo Machado. Gomez may also find his situation made more difficult by internal dissension among members of the three-party coalition group which elected him.

Hundreds of Oregon State Grange Members Converge at Lebanon For Their Five-Day Annual Convention

LEBANON, June 8.—More than 1200 members of the Oregon state grange were gathered at Lebanon today for the opening sessions of the five-day annual meeting. Included in the delegation are masters of three state granges, W. W. Deal of Idaho, Ervin E. King of Washington and George Selheimer of California.

Grange Master Selheimer will install the newly elected Oregon grange officers at the Friday afternoon session.

Tonight the open air meeting that has become one of the events of every state convention took place on the high school grounds, with Roben Maaske of Salem leading community singing and Gertrude Skow Sanford of the Oregon State college extension service in charge of the recreational program. Later the crowd met in the American Legion hall for a social gathering.

Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of higher education, gave the main address on the program tonight presented by Mrs. Alice Goff of Roseburg, state lecturer.

Marion Represented Marion county is well represented at the convention. Edith Tozier Weathered, chaplain of the state grange, whose home is at Aurora, is chairman of the Memorial committee; J. O. Farr of near Jefferson, master of the Marion County Pomona grange, is chairman of the credentials and mileage committee; Bert Peebles, master of Surprise grange, is on the committee on agriculture; H. C. Leavorth, master of Salem Grange, on the committee on ritual and county councils; Don E. DuRette, master of Fairfield grange, on the banking and credit committee; Andrew Ferry, master of Stayton grange, on pure foods and sanitation committee. W. A. Jones of Salem, grange deputy for Marion county and Mrs. Jones were here.

Additional Claim For Pension Is In

The Marion county court yesterday received from the state relief office an additional claim for $1105.45 as the county's portion of the old age assistance for the month of May.

The additional request represents the county's one-fourth share on about 250 pension cases recently approved by the county relief committee and brings the total of the county's contribution for May to $3665.45.

During April the county paid by warrant directly to pensioners to meet its fourth of the old age assistance funds, but for May the county paid its quarter share to the state committee from which disbursement to those on the assistance rolls was made.

The old age assistance fund to which the county contributes does hospitalization expenses incurred in relief, which comes from another county fund.

Baccalaureate Is Held, W. U. Class

An audience which packed the First Methodist church Sunday heard Dr. William R. Baxter, president of Brucette university, deliver the baccalaureate address to the members of the graduating class of the university. The class and members of the faculty attended robed in academic costume, the colored capes of the faculties being significant of higher degrees they had attained.

Dr. Baxter's sermon was based on the text "Behold I set before you an open door." Picturing the double doors ahead, he set them up in pairs: Intellectual vs. intellectual development, mutiny vs. obedience, self service, and irreverence vs. reverence. He pleaded for the continuance of learning, for a life of service filled with reverence for God.

The Willamette Songmen under direction of Cameron Marshall, sang several numbers.

Progress Made In Drilling New Well

SILVERTON, June 8.—More than 265 feet have been drilled on the new city well at North Third and B streets. Work has been progressing by the R. J. Strasser company April 9.

Monday's report was that the drill had passed through the heavy hard layer of rock and was showing a porous, volcanic layer, all of which brought hopes for a flow of water at any time.

A 12-inch casing is being sunk. This is Silverton's second city well with the first experiment at the foot of Norway street, proving entirely satisfactory. The two wells will eventually do away with the water supply from both the Abique and Silver creek. The first well is now replacing the Silver-creek flow and is used as emergency in the summer months. E. L. McCleary is superintendent of the water commission.

Graduation Week For H. S. Starts

Crowd at Baccalaureate; Commencement Plans Are Announced

Commencement week opened for Salem high school seniors Sunday morning with the annual baccalaureate service at the Episcopal theatre. Studies ended Friday for all except a few graduates who have work to make up.

A crowd that filled the theatre listened to choral numbers by a student choir of over 100 voices and to organ music played by two seniors, Doris Schunke and Phil Barrett. Rev. George H. Swift, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, counselled the coming graduates to plan lives of creative effort rather than to rest content with being automatons. His subject was, "Siphons or Dynamosts."

Admission to the graduating exercises at the Elsinore at 10 o'clock Friday morning will be by ticket only. Principal Fred D. Wolf announced yesterday. This ruling, he said, was necessary to insure members of the seniors' families of seats.

Police Radio Will Be Retained Here

Speed in Emergencies Is Needed; State's System Not to Supplant

The Salem police department will not relinquish its federal radio license when the new 1900 watt state police and highway department station is set up here, Chief Frank A. Minto said yesterday.

"The biggest feature of a police radio system is speed in emergencies, such as burglaries, hold-ups and the like," Minto said. "I think we should keep our own station and then we will be sure there won't be any delay when we want to send out a hurry call to the men."

Voldarecht Held On Theft Charge

A Salem newspaper man's penchant for remembering crime reports led state police Sunday to arrest Elmer Voldarecht, local laborer, in Vancouver, Wash., on a charge of stealing a $150 accordion. State troopers here did not learn that Voldarecht had been taken into custody for investigation by Vancouver police until they were notified of the incident by Wayne A. Pettit, who read about it in a Portland paper. Pettit is statehouse correspondent of the Oregonian.

The missing accordion, which state police said Voldarecht tried to sell in Vancouver, was taken from an automobile belonging to Erich E. Marx, route four, while the machine was parked on the Pacific highway a mile south of Salem on Memorial day.

Voldarecht waived preliminary hearing in justice court yesterday, was bound over to the grand jury and locked in jail in lieu of $250 bail. Everett and Louie Arends, both of Salem, took 24 hours in which to plead when they were arraigned in justice court on a charge of transporting stolen property. They were charged with having taken Voldarecht to Vancouver. Bail for each was set at $150.

Committee Going To Santiam Camp

for the re-inauguration of the park to be presented at the meeting next Sunday.

Informal discussion indicated that the permanent organization for the management of the park would be a non-profit corporation with directors to be elected from interested civic groups throughout the county who would be stockholders and sponsors of the enterprise.

The committee is desirous that all groups and individuals interested in the Santiam camp be represented at the Sunday meeting. An inspection of the park and buildings will be made after which the tentative plans for permanent management will be discussed.

To reach the camp it is necessary to go through Mehama and past Taylor's grove. A large sign pointing to the transient camp is placed about a mile above Taylor's. The camp is located on the north side of the main North Fork of the Santiam.

Paving in Donald. Asked of County

J. P. Fellers of Donald appeared before the county court yesterday to request that the county pave approximately three and one-half blocks of street through Donald. The court agreed to the project.

The town of Donald has done all grading preparatory to the oiling under a PWA project.

Salem was second only to Portland in setting up a police radio station. Officers of the department sponsored benefit dances to raise the $1200 needed to purchase the necessary equipment. The city council then provided a salary for one radio operator and later permitted extension of the daily operations from 10 to 20 hours by appropriating money for a second operator.

State police have regularly used the city station to contact patrolmen on the highways. The only contribution the state police department has made to operation of the Salem station was $125 to help pay to increase its power from 25 to 50 watts.
