Rise of More Than 10 Cents Bushel Shown by Wheat in Week

Other Grains Also Advance

Europe Becoming Alarmed and Orders Increase; New Jump Occurs

CHICAGO, June 20.—(AP)—In strenuous new upturns, wheat today showed a rise of more than 10 cents a bushel this week. Simultaneously corn was up about 7 cents, oats 5 cents and rye about 9 cents.

Evidence that Europe is becoming alarmed over disastrous crop conditions in the American northwest did much to rush all grains today to season fresh top record quotations.

The maximum overnight jump in the Chicago wheat market, 3½ cents, was both surpassed at Minneapolis and Kansas City, especially the latter which went skyward an extreme of 4¾ cents, responsive to reports of ramage by drought and high temperatures not only to spring crop areas northwest but also to hard winter wheat southwest.

Despite heavy profit-taking sales that at the last shaded gains somewhat, wheat in Chicago closed strong, 2 cents to 3 cents above yesterday's finish, July 93¾-94, Sept. 95 1-8-1-4, Dec. 97-97¼; corn 1½-2-18 up, July 66 7-8, Sept. 65-65 1-8, Dec. 61 3-8-½; oats 1 5-8-2 1-8 advanced, Sept. 30½-¾, and rye showing 2 cents to 2¼ cents bulge, Sept. 64 1-8. In provisions the outcome was 20 to 50 cents higher.

Corn, oats and rye all imitated wheat. Because of parched conditions, the new corn crop was reported rapidly losing ground. Oats and rye were described as suffering equally with wheat.

Provisions borrowed strength grains.

Firmer Tone For Hops Is Reported

Prices Up to Ten Cents in Oregon; Holdover Now Greatly Reduced

Pacific coast hop markets developed a firmer tone during the week ended June 17, and prices generally advanced around 1c per pound as compared with a week ago, according to the weekly hop market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. An improved demand from domestic consumers, together with continued reports of widespread damage in Oregon and California to the growing crop from downy mildew infestation, were the principal strengthening market influences.

Trading was active during the period, especially in California, and sales by growers in the three coast states during the past seven days totaled around 2100 bales, according to trade advices. Prices paid growers in Oregon ranged from 8c to 10c, in Washington 9c to 10c and in California from 6½c to 12c per pound, variation depending upon quality and to some extent, the district where grown.

Trade statistics indicate that on June 1, growers in the Pacific Coast states were holding 101,950 bales of hops of all growths as compared with 82,622 bales in that position on June 1, last year. However, stocks of 1935 hops in growers hands on June 1, totaled only 24,020 bales, as compared with 43,430 bales of 1934 crop hops in growers hands on June 1, last year.

Oregon markets were only moderately active during the past week, the firm holding tendency of growers tending to restrict trading at current slightly higher values. Sales by growers in this state totaled around 600 bales during the past week, at prices which netted growers 8c, 8½c, 9c and 10c per pound, according to quality, all sales being 1935 crop Clusters.

Washington hop markets were also firm, although trading in new hops was of only moderate to light volume. Sales by growers in the Yakima Valley district totaled 307 bales of medium to prime 1935 crop Clusters, at 9c to 10c per pound, net. Asking prices by growers were mostly 1c to 2c above current bids by dealers. Early in the period one-year contracts covering the 1936 crop were witten at 14c, and three-year contracts at 12c, 13c and 14c per pound, net growers. Late in the week, one-year contracts covering the 1936 crop were written at 16, and offers were being made at 15c, 16c and 17c for three-years covering the 1936, 1937 and 1938 crops, respectively.

California hop markets were the most active in several months and maintained an upward trend during the past week, largely reflecting uncertainty as to new crop prospects. Sales of spot hops by growers amounted to 1,205 bales of the 1935 cro in a range of 6½c to 12c per pound, net producer. This wide price range reflected variation in quality of the hops and district where grown but tops of the ranges were paid in the later trading.

No Relief to Able Bodied, Is Decree policy and that is the policy I expect the relief commitee to follow."

Continuing, Governor Martin said:

"I am concerned with efficient and economical administration of relief as governor of Oregon so that state and county funds available for relief may be most effectively used in bringing actual relief to those who are really in need of it and that the funds may be extended to cover as great a period of time as is required by necessity.

"I have instructed the committee to go on a cash basis and to allocate relief funds in accordance with the cash available each month, rather than to incur indebtedness that will fore-shorten the period for relief work—in short, to avoid insurring a heavy debt that will have to be passed on to the taxpayer.

"With the federal government providing work for thousands under WPA porjects of various sorts, and the great demand for seasonal labor in the harvest fields, I feel that relief should be confined to those who are unable to work, and those who do not receive any other form as assistance.

"There is no need to create a costly bueaucracy that tends to perpetuate itself for this type of work. Relief is an emergency measure, and changing economic conditions, which are reflected in the shortage of labor in the harvest fields and in many other lines of gainful endeavor indicate that the emergency is over for all except those who are actually incapacitated.

"There must be relief for the taxpayers, both from the standpoint of the state and the counties, which share in the burden."

Oregon dairy plants now manufacture per year 30 million pounds of butter, 16 million pounds of cheese, 26 million pounds condensed milk, 5 million pounds skim milk powder, 1½ million gallons of ice cream and about 1½ million pounds of cottage cheese. As late as the beginning of the present century, Oregon imported considerable quantities of butter and cheese. In 1935, 8 million pounds of butter and 9 million pounds of cheese were shipped from Oregon to California.

Airmail Progress Convention Topic

A feature of the Oregon Postmasters' convention to be held in Eugene July 13 to 15 will be a display of airmail facilities for the benefit of the postmasters in answering the questions of the public relative to air mail service.

To aid the public in picturing the vast net work of airplanes which the mail service uses, Postmaster H. R. Crawford has released a picture showing the extension of lines which enable mail to be delivered in practically any part of the United States within 36 hours of mailing.

Letters posted in the Salem postoffice by 5 p. m. will arrive in New York the following night. Posted for Los Angeles the letter will arrive in time for the next morning's delivery. With a special delivery stamp the letter would be delivered to the addressee shortly after 8 o'clock of the next morning.

Although Salem is not on a direct air lane the benefits of the widespread system benefit it as it does every community in the United States. A schedule of arrival hours of air mail is posted in the Salem postoffice.

Struggle Likely Two-Thirds Rule

ing talk also of platform drafting, had particularly of the shaping of a money plank. Closed-door argument was considered certain.

New Union Party Widely Discussed

A strong undercurrent of private talk circled likewise about the newly created "Union Party" of Representative Lemke of North Dakota, and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit but, publicly at least, the Democratic spokesmen either declined to comment on repeated predictions of a Roosevelt sweep. Nevertheless, it was known that in private they were weighing carefully the effects of the Lemke move.

Little of all this appeared on the surface as the ever increasing Democratic legions took over the city.

Broadly-beaming James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee, pronounced to a circle of newspapermen that a $2,000,000 campaign fund would be sufficient to reelect Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner. Half, or nearly half of it, he said, would be realized from what he described as 5,000 "nominator rallies" gathered when the president delivers his acceptance speech next Saturday night.

A platform running around 2,000 words as compared to 1,600 of 1932 and the 3,000-word Republican declaration from Cleveland; no minority report upon it, no names before the convention beside those of Roosevelt and Garner; and victory in November—these were other of Farley's press conference predictions.

Both Playgrounds Will Open Monday

guards Tom Drynan, general director at Olinger, and Gurnee Flesher, at Leslie, will supervise swimming during the hours the pool is open.

Until federal money makes larger staffs possible the activity programs at both playgrounds will be in the hands of the women directors, Esther Black at Olinger and Isobel Morehouse at Leslie. The morning activities at Olinger will be held in the Parrish junior high building.

The activity program at both playgrounds will be as follows:

Goodrich Vacation Policy Maintained

Large Portion of Workers Get Time Off With Pay Local Agent Avers

The paid-vacation program for factory employees of The B. F. Goodrich Company during 1936 has been announced by the company. Two-thirds of all factory employees will get these vacations this year, according to word received by W. H. Zosel, manager of the Goodrich-Silvertown store at 198 South Commercial street.

One-week vacations with pay will be given all factory employees with more than five years and less than ten years service, and two-weeks to all those with the company ten years or more.

Total factory employees receiving paid vacations this year will be 7,373. Of these, 3,246 will receive two weeks vacation and the remainder one week.

When Goodrich first established the vacation policy for factory employees in 1934, a total of 6220 employees were eligible for the vacations, 3112 getting one week, and 3,108 two weeks. The cost to the company was $201,875.

Last year the total moved up to 7,265 employees, 3,537 getting one week and 3,728 two weeks, with the cost to the company $304,325.

This year, with a still increased number getting vacations, the company will spend $375,000 or nearly double the amount spent the first year the plan operated. Increase in vacations is due to the longer services of employees, which makes more of them eligible, and also makes many more go from the one-week to the two-week basis.

United States Lifts Embargo

the "fact" that a state of war no longer existed between Italy and Ethiopia.

Today's proclamation was mandatory under the neutrality act, just as that law compelled him to apply certain restrictions once he established that war had broken out.

State department officials emphasized, however, that today's action did not imply recognition of the Italian annexation of Ethiopia. That is a diplomatic question, involving important complications, which must be left for future determination.

ROME, June 21.—(Sunday)—(AP)—News of the lifting of the arms embargo against Italy by President Roosevelt reached Rome too late to elicit official comment, but it met an enthusiastic welcome in press circles.

It was believed to presage a new era in Italo-American good feeling and trade, but most Italians viewed the step important also because they believed it would furnish the necessary spark for similar action on the part of South and Central American states.

Idaho's Governor Runs For Senate

BOISE, Idaho, June 20—(AP)—C. Ben Ross, Idaho's lean ex-cowboy governor, announced today for the democratic nomination for the United States senate seat William E. Borah has held for 30 years.

Thus a Ross-Borah battle in the general election — a conflict looked forward to since Ross long ago hinted of senatorial ambitions—became a possibility.

Senator Borah told Idaho republicans Thursday he would be "willing" to run again. Ross will have at least one other opponent in the August 11 primary—Leslie Aker, prominent Boise attorney. Some friends of Borah hope to obtain a clear field for him if he comes out definitely. There are other republican aspirants in the picture now.
