Game Decided In Last Frame

Marr Holds Victory in His Hand But Scales Is Good Fly Napper

Atwater-Kent will meet the Artisans in the first of tonight's games at 8:30. The Man's Shop and the Eagles are paired in the second tilt.

"Scotty" Marr held the outcome of a ball game in his hands last night when he stepped to the plate in the ninth inning. A hit would have put Bill Moye home for the tying run.

Marr nearly got a walk which would still have left a chance for Hogg Bros. to tie the score and perhaps win the game but with the count two and three he hit to left field.

George Scales nearly ran too far and had to catch the ball high over his head but he caught it and Wait's won the ball game 7 to 6.

Elliott Hits Homer—It was Ray Elliott's home run in the eighth inning that turned out to be the winning counter for Wait's. It was the second home run of the game and the third of the evening.

Scales clouted a four-bagger in the fourth and Kellogg of Master Bread took the honor of first sending a ball into the old grandstand across the field.

A four-run spurge in the sixth when the Wait's bat spoke to the tune of five singles helped the Butcher's cause along.

Mary were frequent for both teams and errors were also not sufficiently absent. The teams, all of which have been ragged so far, will probably settle down after the first week.

The first game which Master Bread won from the Eagles 17 to 8.

Scores: Master Bread 17 16 8
Eagles 7 7 9
Heseman and Comstock; Stockwell and Wilkenson.

Hogg, Bros. 6 10 6
Wait's 7 11 6
M. Sordatz and L. Girod; M. Ritchie and Elliott.

Urge New Stamp Sell Here First

A new Oregon stamp will be issued through the first-day post-offices in states formerly in the old Oregon territory on August 20 or 21, according to Al Van Dahl, publisher of the Western Stamp Collector at Albany.

Efforts of the Salem Stamp society, together with those of Postmaster Henry R. C., have been bent toward having Salem designated as one of the five first-day offices.

Should this occur, it is estimated that 50,000 letters would go through the local postoffice, bearing the first-day postmark and the new stamp. A special crew would be necessary to handle such a rush. Demands for such covers would come from all over the world.

The rough excavation will probably be completed within a week.

This Woman Has It Over Hubby Now

20-30, Police Observers Seek Safe Motorists and She Is Found 1 of 3 Best Drivers

Officer George Edwards, accompanied by Ed Robey of the Salem 20-30 club, apprehended three drivers yesterday on the charge of being the three safest drivers in Salem streets.

Mrs. Gladys Jensen, Mrs. Mike Steinbock and Larry Gross all had their momentary disgruntlement turned to pleasure when it was explained to them by Edwards and Robey that they were stopped as a part of national safety week, sponsored locally by the 20-30 group.

They were given yellow windshield stickers to signify their superiority as drivers, practical demonstrations of which they had unknowingly given to Edwards and Robey as the latter toured Salem streets in a police cruising car.

Mrs. Jensen, who lives at 448 Belmont, first cried, "What am I pleased for now?" when she first stopped. Mrs. Steinbock's reaction was, "Well, I have one on my husband now—he always said I was such a poor driver." Her home is at 1498 Court. Gross, a resident of Route one, Turner, admitted that "I'm not surprised—I've always been a good driver."

The campaign will continue for the remainder of the week.

A delegation of Monitor residents appeared before the county court yesterday morning to ask that the new Marion-Clackamas county bridge to go over BUTTE Creek there be built upon concrete piers instead of wooden base and that the structure be entirely of concrete if possible.

The plans last adopted by the two courts called for wooden piers and a concrete bridge, this being proposed by Clackamas county after Marion county had produced plans for a wooden bridge on wooden piers.

The proposal as now worked out by the delegation from Monitor yesterday with the Marion county court is for concrete piers, a wooden bridge with paved surface and four-foot sidewalks on either side. The Monitor group included Pudy Berning, Paul Sander, J. P. Jensen, Ingvad Edland, Albert Peterson and Walter Miller.

Daily stage service between Eugene and Bend via McKenzie-pass will be resumed July 1, according to word received yesterday through the local Greyhound depot from Myrl Hoover, manager of Mt. Hood Stages, Inc.

A shorter and less expensive route to eastern Oregon and central Idaho is possible for the first time via a new line operated by Mt. Hood Stages between Bend and Boise, Idaho, over the central Oregon and Yellowstone highways.

Schedules for the season will permit a daylight trip between Portland and Bend via the Willamette valley and McKenzie pass route. Liberal stopover privileges will be permitted vacationists who desire to travel through this scenic recreational area.
