

McShain Tackles Job of Throwing Two Foes Within Two Hours

Burns, Sneeze To Oppose Him

Cry Baby London to Meet Collegian Bennett in 45-Minute Tussle

There's no way of beating these noisy means when it comes to the matter of self-esteem. As often as not, or a little oftener, they lose the ring, but never are they cornered into admitting that they lost to a better man.

Take Danny McShain. A week ago he was beaten at his own game by Bobby Burns, ordinarily orthodox matman from Florida. Danny asked a rematch and it was forthcoming. The more he thought about it, the better was McShain that he could win-win easily. Finally he convinced himself it would be so easy it wouldn't be fun so he asked for a second opponent, promising to pin four shoulders to the mat within the space of two hours.

The obliging management came through again, and Walter Tink Achlu, who Sunday demonstrated here that his arms are as powerful at swinging a golf club as his legs are at applying a punishing scissor, will tackle McShain as the second opponent.

McShain will take his two foes on one at a time, and has two hours in which to take a fall from each. He loses if either of them wins a fall from him.

"Cry Baby" London, just as forcible as McShain in his arena conversation, will be on the program, meeting George Bennett, who learned wrestling at Oklahoma U., in the 45-minute bout. Indian Ike, a stranger here, tackles Jack Clayborn, Missouri negro, in the 30-minute opener.

German Declares Yankees Will Win

BERLIN, July 20. (AP)—The bravest man in Germany naturally was conceded to be Hans Borowik, one of the country's foremost athletic authorities, who, sight unseen, today picked the United States to sweep 13 of the 23 Olympic events in track and field events, while giving only one championship to Germany.

Borowik, a former marathon runner, predicted Finland would grab three titles, Japan and England two each, Argentina and Italy one apiece.

Borowik conceded the 100 and 200 meters and the broad jump to Uncle Sam's cocked-colored Jesse Owens. He picked Archie Williams of Oakland, Calif., to win the 400 meters; Forrest "Spec" Towns and Glen Hardin, 110 and 400 meters hurdles, respectively; Cornelius Johnson, the high jump; George "Slinger" Dunn, the discus throw; Henry Dreyer, the hammer throw; Harold Manning, the steeplechase; Glenn Morris the decathlon, and America to win both the 400 and 1600 meters relay.

McShain will take his two foes on one at a time, and has two hours in which to take a fall from each. He loses if either of them wins a fall from him.

What's Wrong, U. S. Distance Men?

By BURNLEY

--DISTANCE DILEMMA--

TARZAN BROWN
CARRIES AMERICA'S FORMER OLYMPIC MARATHON.

Charles ATLAS
FAMED PHYSICAL CULTURIST.

ATLAS RECENTLY RAN TEN MILES IN CLOSE TO RECORD TIME—YET HE NEVER COMPETED AS A RUNNER.

ATLAS INSISTS THAT DISTANCE RUNNING IS ALMOST ENTIRELY A MATTER OF CONDITION.

A QUARTER of a century has passed since the United States has copied the marathon, the blue ribbon event of the Olympics. Compared to the United States' seven victories out of ten Olympic hundred-yard dashes, and six victories out of a possible eight in the farling sprint, this dismal hill-and-dale record suggests that American muscle stock is not so good for a long pull, though it's a bonanza for quick spurts.

Sad, also, is the outlook for a 1936 marathon victory by one of our boys. Our entries in the "endless run" will be the Indian, Tarzan Brown, who won the historic Boston marathon; William T. McMahon, winner of the A. A. U. title in Washington; and Johnny Kelly. Here's a hopeful trio, of course, but the chances of victory in the Berlin classic are as thin as a flea's eyelash. The favorite to win the Berlin Olympic marathon is none other than the 1932 winner, Juan Zabala of the Argentine, who has been running in Germany for some weeks past, and has been clocked in 30:56.2, the second fastest time for the 10,000 meters.

The United States would have ten times as many top-notch marathon runners available for Olympic competition if somebody could dispel the bugaboo about distance running, according to Charles Atlas, the physical culturist who is, unbeknownst to the world at large, one of this country's best distance runners.

"Distance running, more than any other sport, demands perfect conditioning," insists Atlas. "This isn't a matter of theory to the man who twice has won the title of the world's most perfectly developed man, for last summer, clocked by George Gardner, former Princeton athlete, he ran ten miles in fifty-eight minutes, which is only 7 minutes 45 seconds behind Paavo Nurmi's great world record. This suggests that Atlas, now 43 years old, might have won laurels in the dog-trot specialty if he hadn't been twisting bars of iron and posing for the world's leading sculptors."

Rinkydinks Win From K. P. Team

Score 8 Points to Losers 2 in Softball Game Played in Dallas League

DALLAS SOFTBALL	W.	L.	Pct.
Knights of Pythias	1	1	.500
Rinkydinks	1	1	.500
Evangelicals	0	2	.000

DALLAS, July 20.—In one of the most surprising upsets of the season in the Dallas Softball League the Rinkydinks split the Knights of Pythias team 8 to 2 last Thursday knocking the previous leaders down to a tie for second place.

The Legion outfit, now the only undefeated team in the circuit, kept its record clear by pasting out a 15 to 4 victory over the Evangelicals Tuesday night. The slugging veterans in their first game of the second half swamped the Rinkydinks by a 14 to 3 count.

Next Tuesday the Rinkydinks and the Evans tangle in a cellar battle while Thursday the Legion and the Knights of Pythias play with first place hanging on a balance. The games will end the first round of the second half. Two and a possible three rounds will be played. Playoff dates have been set for September 8 and 10. A third game if necessary would be played September 15.

Cooper Wins Out In St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, July 20.—(AP)—Light-horse Harry Cooper, Chicago, to day captured his third St. Paul open golf championship by a four-stroke margin over Dick Metz of Evanston, Ill., in a 36-hole playoff.

Finishing the morning round with a five-stroke lead, Cooper had a 36-hole total of 135, and Metz had rounds of 71-65 for 136. The Chicagoan shot 65-69.

The playoff was the second in the seven-year history of the tournament. The two players completed the regulation 72 holes Sunday with 277 after Cooper had overcome a six-stroke advantage in the last two rounds.

Cooper won in 1929, tied with two others another time, and last year had 271 to better par by 17 strokes. It was the first year that Metz, 26 years old, has played in the tournament.

CURT COMMENTS

Get those names in! Everybody's heart is in the right place, and all Salem and a good many people elsewhere are pulling for Johnny Oravec to win a place on the all-star football team that plays the Detroit Lions September 1. But those petitions must be in hand by Saturday, or they don't count. And so, pleads Phil Bell who is one of the hustlers in this program, persons who have petition sheets out should turn them in at Parker's by Friday.

Yesterday we asked Johnny how he was running. He said he didn't know. Judging from his demeanor, we'd say he wasn't overly concerned. In four years of athletic competition during which his ability has put him in the foreground, Johnny has never been guilty of shoving himself forward or doing any grandstanding, and that's one reason everybody around here is plugging to get Johnny this honor which he won't ask for himself.

Reports are that Oravec's friends aren't confined to this immediate section and that 20,000 votes for him have turned up in the east and middle west. Whether he wins or not, against the leading candidates from more populous districts, Johnny will make a good showing and he may go to Chicago.

In case anybody wonders what this column is doing here on a Tuesday, Sportsparke is away on his vacation and we're pinch hitting. In so doing we'll serve a double purpose, by emphasizing how much better you've been treated in the way of a sports column the last couple of years.

Did we hear somebody whispering that the success made in Sunday's big golf tournament was a little higher than should be expected from so expert a field? Brothers, before you speak out loud, better go out and try those back toes. The one on No. 3, for instance, is clear back at the edge of the woods, with a big leafy branch hanging down in front of it. One poor fellow took ten strokes on that hole.

Jack Sharkey to Battle Joe Louis

Ex-Champion Is Elated at Chance; New York to See Bout Aug. 18

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, veteran Boston heavy-weight, was selected today as the man to start Joe Louis along the comeback trail.

Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club signed Sharkey and the Detroit boxer had far a ten-round bout at the Yankee stadium August 18.

Johnny Buckley, who has managed Sharkey since long before he won and lost the world's heavy-weight crown, came down from beantown to sign the contract.

After a long conference, during which Buckley agreed to terms, Jacobs got in touch with Julian Black, one of Louis' managers, at Chicago and got the brown bomber's O. K.

Milk Fund Benefit

Nothing was said about terms but it is believed each fighter has agreed to labor for 20 per cent of the net receipts with the milk fund cutting in on the gate.

Sharkey, now in the midst of what has been a successful comeback campaign, was elated when Buckley telephoned him the match had been closed.

The squire of Chestnut Hill believes if he can repeat Max Schmeling's feat and win from the negro, he will put himself back in the thick of the heavyweight designs and maybe find a chance to win back the title.

Three One-Sided Contests Played

MT. ANGEL, July 20.—The Mt. Angel Business Men held 13 to 1 to the Meridian Farmers in the opening game Saturday night. The Farmers scored eight runs in the first inning. L. Buchheit and E. Buchheit; Withers and Harris.

In the second game the Socialists won 15 to 3 over the Bear regulars scoring seven runs in the fourth inning when they collected their three runs. A home run was brought in by Hassing, May and Beyer; Hassing and Terhaar.

Another one-sided game was played between the Knights and the Foresters resulting in a 10 to 2 score. I. Favor of the Knights; Wachter and DeJardin each knocked a home run; Wachter and Engelhart; Coyne and Plonsett.

Salem Winner Of Golf Title

Consistent Shooting Puts Local Squad 69 Ahead; Trophies Stay Here

Shooting consistent though seldom brilliant golf, the Salem Golf club's eight-man team ran away with the team championship and most of the trophies in the Willamette Valley Golf association's tournament here Sunday, defeating its nearest opponent, Corvallis, by a margin of 19 strokes. Salem's score was 1233, averaging a fraction over 77 for each 18 holes played. Eugene Country club and Laurewood of Eugene tied for third.

With the tees moved well back, members of the club here learned that there was no reason to apologize for the course as being too easy, for it resisted all attacks on par. Sid Milligan of Eugene Country club took medalist honors with 147, three over par and two under Millard Groves of Salem who won the runner-up trophy. The battle between these two who were in the same foursomes, was the highlight of the day and attracted a majority of the gallery.

Coming down the home fairway, Groves had a chance to the Milligan with a birdie, but hit a tree and rolled into deep trouble, and though he made a magnificent recovery about he lost out.

Eugene Next Year

Walter Cline, jr., of Salem with 150 took third place and Bert Victor and Lawrence Blaisdel with 151 and 152 ranked behind him. Courtney Johns of Salem made the best nine-hole score, 34.

Jim O'Connell of Laurewood was elected president of the association for the coming year and Eugene Country club was awarded next year's tournament.

In addition to possession of the handsome team trophy for the coming year the Salem team was awarded small trophies for each player, and medalist on each team, listed first in his team's score below, also received a cup:

$22 a Week Boys Start Their Golf Tourney; Truck Driver and Stock Clerk Are Among Quartet in Lead

FARMINGDALE, N. Y., July 20.—(AP)—America's young men and boys who can't afford to play golf at exclusive clubs on their average salary of $22 a week opened their annual scramble for the national public links championship today with a truck driver, stock clerk, employment manager and a gas station attendant leading the big parade.

Play is over the million-dollar Beth Page Park layout, the ritziest club that ever entertained the "poor men" of the fairways.

The race for the qualifying medal and team championship, both decided on two courses in 36 holes of play over two days, was so close that no one stood out as a favorite.

Gas Man Mike Dolan of Philadelphia and Frank Connolly, who makes his living hiring city workers for Detroit, posted 71s but their performances actually were overshadowed by Truck Driver Jimmy Caspio and Clerk John Racy of Cleveland, who equalled par 72 on the blue course. Dolan and Connolly played the red course, where par stands at 70. Because of the record-breaking field of 222 starters, both courses are being used, the players alternating.

The race for team honors, decided by four players on each course over the 36-hole qualifying test, was so close that four teams were bunched within four shots at a record-breaking pace; Brooklyn headed by defending Champion Frank Strafaci, led at the halfway mark with a 299 aggregate with Seattle one blow to the rear, San Antonio, defending team champion, had 301 and San Francisco 302.

At the suggestion of Ralph Trost of the Brooklyn Eagle each player was asked to write his salary on a piece of paper without his name so it could be determined how much money each one made. The average was approximately $22 a week, the salaries ranging from $5 weekly to one man who boasted, with few believers, that he made $9000 a year.

Portland Outfit Loses, Silverton

SILVERTON, July 20.—Silver Falls Timber company baseball team defeated the Portland Bombers 19 to 4 Sunday afternoon on the Eureka avenue diamond.

Don Burch's tricky twirling did much to make the otherwise uneventful game interesting. Burch struck out 7 and allowed but 11 hits.

St. Martin and Brosius, pinch-hitting for the Portland team, struck out 4 and allowed 22 hits. Orrin of Silverton hit two home runs. Silverton also got four three-baggers and six two-baggers. The victors managed one three-bagger and three two-baggers.

Silverton's line up included Burch, p. Moe C. Carpenter, 1b. Buckman 2b, Orrin 3b, A. Schwab ss, Brady rf, Bonney cf, O. Schwab lf.
