agreed that the real move had started much of the war talk in European chancelleries.
The French seized on Great Britain's attitude in considering the Spanish search of the British ship "Giblet" a closed incident, and the German arms embargo as indications that Europe was determined to continue fighting against spread of the Spanish strife from the Iberian peninsula.
Nazi Germany stressed her "sincere desire for peace" in declaring the arms embargo before the Madrid government officially had replied to the nation's demands for apologies for the reported search of the German vessel Kamerun by loyalist seamen, and for the return of a German airplane reported sequestered in Spain.

lee, are Byrnes' opponents. The nomination is equivalent to election in both Mississippi and South Carolina.
The situations in Minnesota and Michigan are being watched closely by party managers, for possible effects on the national campaign. Lieut. Gov. Hjalmar Petersen took the oath to succeed the late Governor Floyd B. Olson at St. Paul yesterday. The state central committee of the farmer-labor party plans to discuss a successor to Olson as nominee to the senate soon after the funeral tomorrow.
Republican leaders in Michigan expressed doubt yesterday that the pro-Roosevelt declaration by Senator James C. Couzens would hurt their cause. But Democrats contended to the contrary. Former Governor Wilbur N. Bruckner, opposing Couzens for the republican senatorial nomination, called the statement a "confession of defeat."

enough votes were lined up, as shown on the petitions to get it before the house, to pass it; but the Liberty League threatened withdrawal of campaign funds from both the democrats and republicans if they voted for it, while the opposition of William Green of the American Federation of Labor was dictated from the White House on the threat that if Green did not come out against the bill, all labor legislation would be killed.
Mr. Kennedy discussed in his opening remarks, the growth of the Farmers Union, and declared that when the east is as well organized as the west, the organization will begin to "get somewhere" in its legislative program.
Several hundred Farmers Union members attended the picnic.

"If this is done, we need have no fear of allowing our youth to study any and every system of government to which their curiosity leads them. Only through ignorance or bigotry can we be destroyed."
Flanking the presidential nominee in this amphitheatre in his opponent's native state were New York republican leaders.
In the front row was Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson and an anti-new deal democrat.
Landon was introduced by Dr. Arthur E. Bestor, president of Chautauquus institution.
Discussing what he classed as "another danger from propaganda," the nominee said: "When money is forcibly taken by government from citizens and used to tear down those things most precious to our people, we see propaganda in its most shabby form."
This remark drew cheers and nearly a minute's applause.

Attack Upon Job Insurance Faced

Attorney General Plans to Defend Law; Case Is Up in Jackson County

Petition of the Pinnacle Packing company and others for an order temporarily restraining the state unemployment compensation insurance commission from forcing collection of employers' contributions, will be opposed vigorously by the attorney general's office, it was indicated Monday.
The suit which asks for both a temporary and permanent restraining order, was filed in Jackson county last week. Arguments on the temporary restraining order will be heard by the court there next Monday.
Copies of the complaint were received at the commission's offices today.
The plaintiffs contend that the law creating the fund is unconstitutional in that it violates both the state and federal constitutions.
A number of other packing companies have joined with the Pinnacle Packing company in prosecuting the suit.
A member of the commission declared today that a temporary restraining order would result in irreparable damage to the state and would prevent collections until the court had ruled on the application for a permanent restraining order.
Records here show that the commission already has collected in excess of $750,000. It was estimated that collections for the entire year would aggregate $1,500,000.
The administrative costs of the commission are paid by the federal government.

Oregon-Washington Water Service company.
Operating income from the plant was far in excess of the sum needed for interest on bonds of the water plant this year. That item was only $37,320 for 1935. Next year it will reach $76,759 and stay at that figure for 1937, 1938 and 1939. The first principal payments on outstanding water bonds of the city will not be made until 1940 when $27,000 will be required. Van Patton believes, from the results of the first year's operation, that the city will be able to pay interest and principal on its water bonds and handle necessary capital outlays without additional bond issues, unless it decides to make major improvements to the distribution system within the next two or three years.

Hops of Old Crop Sold at 30 Cents

Hop sales, usually quiet during the picking of the new crop, continued mildly active yesterday with the sale of 257 bales of 1935 Clusters at 30 cents. The price for the holdover crop has stayed at the 30 cent figure for more than a month.
Picking of Fuggles is scheduled to start at the Lakebrook yard this morning. The Wirth ranch at Independence and many other yards will complete the harvest of the early hops this week. Picking of the Clusters will start in practically all valleys yards September 1.

Flathead Forest Fires Are Fought

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A thousand men battled two major fires in the Flathead national forest of northwestern Montana today while the forest service reported another 700 men being rushed to the scene.
E. J. Egan, regional forester at Missoula, reported the fires were burning vigorously in green timber and an abundant supply of fall-down fuel. The ruggedness of the region made combat difficult.
The larger of the two major fires, on Coal creek, extended to a nine-mile perimeter today, a gain of a mile. A combination of the Winona Ridge and Big Creek fires had a perimeter only slightly less.

Lawrence Simon, president of the club, said that he was pleased with the friendly feeling expressed by the merchants at the meeting.
"I believe it is only a matter of a short time until we can get a uniform closing hour agreement," Simon said.
Closing hours were the subject of an ordinance introduced by the city council last month. After a public hearing on the measure, it was killed by indefinite postponement at the last council meeting. Chief objection to the ordinance was a Sunday closing feature and the inclusion of all stores in the city under the law.

Profit on Liquor Over Two Million

liquor and to pay for all orders placed but not billed, the commission had surplus cash of $392,565.
To date this year, profits on the stores and agencies have outrun the net receipts from licenses and from taxes on beer and wine. Net income from the stores has reached $779,914 and the monthly ratio will be higher at the November and December sales come in—sales which ordinarily are higher than those in any other part of the year. The net on licenses of $230,537, however, will be less for the remaining five months as most of the licenses are on an annual basis and are not repeated in the income figures of later months. Wine and beer tax receipts, however, running at almost $50,000 a month, will continue at about that level. For the first seven months of the year they have totalled $347,397.

Funeral of Olson To Be Wednesday

ST. PAUL, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson came back in death today to the state capitol he had ruled in life.
Palms banked the bier in the rotunda, where the body was placed after a slow journey from Rochester, Minn., by automobile, under escort of national guardsmen and state highway patrolmen.
State business ceased throughout the day. Only the solemn words of Chief Justice John P. Devaney administering the oath of office to Hjalmar Petersen, 46-year-old Danish immigrant and newspaper publisher, as the state's 23rd governor broke the official quiet.
The homecoming of Olson, only farmer-labor governor ever elected in the United States, started through roped streets in Rochester, where he died at the age of 44 years from cancer of the stomach Saturday night.
A 30-day mourning period was decreed and politics for the farmer-labor party officially was also an end at the funeral Wednesday in Minneapolis.
