Walker Is to Try Fish Case

Issue of Placing Measure On Ballot May Go to Portland Court

Because neither Marion county circuit judge was able to try the injunction suit against Earl Snell, secretary of state, George H. A. Roden and E. A. Storkiv to prevent them placing on the November ballot an initiative measure preventing use of seines, nets and other gear in the Columbia river, Chief Justice Campbell yesterday assigned Judge Arlie G. Walker of McMinnville to hear the case.

The hearing is scheduled to start here on Thursday, though there is some possibility that it may be transferred to Portland as practically all of the witnesses will come from Multnomah and Clatsop counties. Attorneys said the trial may last 10 days.

The case was brought in the name of District Attorney William H. Trindle representing the state and against Earl Snell, secretary of state, on the one hand, and George H. A. Roden and E. A. Storkiv on the other. The initiative measure would place on the November ballot on the grounds that many of the names on the petitions were secured by misrepresentation and are fraudulent.

— Circuit Court —

Viola Davis vs. Everett Davis; amended complaint for divorce filed. The plaintiff charges the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment. She asks the return of her maiden name, Viola McLain.

prancing steed and carrying aloft the national flag.

He was followed by Eugene's entry, representing the Don Kirkwood family who brought the first flax seed to Oregon. Scouts in territorial dress preceded the covered wagon, drawn by two great white oxen and marching at its head was Cal Young, first coach of the University of Oregon in 1933, in coosquin cap and buckskin suit. Impersonating Mrs. Kirkwood, who refused to cross the plains without her bag of flax seed, was Mrs. Clarence F. Hyde of Eugene in a dress nearly 70 years old. Flanking her were three little girls, Betty Jean, Cassie Della, and Donna Faye, all three in old-fashioned costumes.

The Mt. Angel Garage's entry was a most unique one. It was a complete pioneer home in a round of apples. It was a pioneer couple, represented by Miss Anna Bigler and Al Schroeder of Mt. Angel, preparing and spinning flax. The Mt. Angel truck line had a truck load of 20 pretty flax pullers in a flax bedecked truck. An pioneer planter, who had planted his flax among the trees, was shown by Fred Stumph, was shown by Fred Stumph.

Salem Man Among Six Hurt in Crash

ALBANY, Ore., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Six persons were injured and two cars demolished in a head-on collision on the Pacific highway one mile north of Millersburg tonight.

Mrs. Mary Moore, 31, and Mrs. J. A. Blunson, both of Malin, Ore., sustained broken ribs and Mrs. R. J. Creamer, Malin, was severely cut and bruised. Mrs. Creamer's husband and their son, Lou, escaped with minor injuries. The women are in a local hospital.

Extent of injuries to the occupant of the other car, registered to L. K. Howell, Salem, was unknown. He was taken to Salem.

Woman and Baby Hurt in Accident

Mrs. William Oester and her six months-old baby were in the Salem General hospital as a result of an accident between a truck operated by William Oester, Warren and a car driven by Harold Bird of Dallas. The wreck occurred four miles north of Brooks on the Pacific highway.

Mrs. Oester was reported to be suffering from possible fractures of the pelvis and right elbow in addition to numerous cuts on the right leg. The baby received numerous cuts. Both were resting comfortably at 1 o'clock this morning, hospital attendants reported.

Few Injuries, One Death in Traffic

Had not a fatality marred the record, August would have been a banner month for lack of serious automobile accidents in Salem, the police department announced yesterday. Fewer auto accident injuries were reported last month than during any previous month of the year.

Mrs. Stacey Will Direct Seal Sale

Sale of Christmas seals will be directed in Marion county this year by Mrs. C. W. Stacey of Liberty. It was announced yesterday.

Building Permits Past Week Heavy

Nearly $14,000 worth of building permits, all for comparatively small jobs, was approved by the city building department here last week. Forty-three permits were taken out of which 35 were for $3811 worth of alterations, repairs and re-roofing and eight were for $10,222 in new construction.

Exhibits Will Break Record

Labor Day Holiday Will Bring Out Big Crowd For Initial Events

Racing fans are promised a lively daily card by the prime condition of Lone Oak track and the unusually large number of racing steeds entered for the week. With 120 fine horses already assigned to racing barn stalls, Sim Lindsey, superintendent, said yesterday he had yet to find room for at least 55 more animals.

Free Entertainment

The "vodeo" of other years will give way this week to the free entertainment at 3:30 conducted by Monte Brooks, master of ceremonies; the amateur hour, the horse show and exhibition of cavalry and Arabian horses, and at 9 p. m. a free dance.

$500 prize will go to the winner of the six-day amateur hour elimination contest. First day competitors will be Margaret Borchers, Lebanon; Dorothea Smith, Newberg; Vilma Brandan and Eileen Holden, Salem; George Rogers, The Dalles; Mrs. Mat Slater, Ross Lodge; Lewis and Lester Standford, Salem; Jim Wilson, Marion; Lyle Nyhart and Arthur Stutenberg, Amity. The finals will take place Saturday afternoon.

Grounds Beautiful For 75th Fair

From the new brick-walled flower garden west entrance to the race track on the east, the fairgrounds will present this week's visitors with many new sights, improvements and attractions. The garden and a blue and gold canopy mark the familiar main gate turnstiles' location, formerly the site of the administration building. Administrative offices were shifted to the north side of the central plaza when the old structure, dangerously deteriorated, was razed.

Thousands of parking spaces will be available to fair patrons who enter via the 18th street gate, which leads directly to the plaza and grandstand.

Missing Teacher Returns to Home

Missing since Monday, Frances Eva McKennon, 24, returned to her home at 215 Hazel avenue here yesterday. She explained to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKennon, that, taken ill last Monday night, she went to a hotel in Eugene instead of coming north to Albany as she had planned. She did not notify her parents because she did not want them to worry about her, she said.
Worried over his daughter's absence, McKennon Friday requested state police to conduct a search for her. She is a school teacher at Oakland.

Russians Seek Romney Sheep

MONMOUTH, Sept. 5.—Three sheep buyers, representing the Russian province, having headquarters in New York, are in Monmouth seeking to buy 3,000 yearling registered Romney Marsh rams. Since local sheep men have already sold, or contracted to sell, most of their yearling rams the Russian buyers are considering buying ram lambs. They want Romneys only, and are contacting sheep men in Polk county through the office of County Agent William Leth.

other counties with flax land were awakened. He said people should plant more flax and less hops and prunes and that more than 100 an acre was a profit made by many this year on flax. Oregon he said "has shown more progress than any other state in the union."

After the applause following his speech had subsided Father Alcuin brought greetings from Senator McNary and was given a round of applause.

Notables, including the governor, Queen Irene and her party, Father Alcuin, officials were guests of the Business Men's club at a banquet at the Mt. Angel hotel.

Events late in the afternoon included a concert by the Portland WPA band, directed by C. Ashley Cook, with William H. Elliott as soloist; and in the evening a packed auditorium greeted the WPA players from Portland who presented a vaudeville program including a play about flax. The orchestra was directed by Misses Peis.

In the wrestling bouts later tonight, Jack Clayborn defeated Al Williams and Walter Tinkit Achu defeated Don Sugar. Fireworks closed the program.
