

Bridge Salads To Be Popular

Various Recipes Tried Out By Salem Hostesses Are Presented

Bridge clubs will start in the very near future and many hostesses will be planning formal and informal afternoon parties. The clever hostess will always want to serve something new and different for her first big party of the season.

Bridge salads are very appropriate to serve for the luncheon or at the tea hour. A mixed salad or gelatin with artistic garnish, will make the plate very attractive and appetizing for the hostess's guests.

Following are a few salad recipes contributed by Salem housewives.

Chicken Bridge Salad
1 cup cooked diced chicken
1 cup fresh pineapple, cut in cubes
1 cup raw apple, cut in cubes
1/2 cup walnut meats (not too small)

Mix together with enough mayonnaise to moisten. To serve, put 1 cup of the salad mixture into a round of the pineapple skin and slip on an apple ring with the skin left on over the top. Garnish with a little mayonnaise and a walnut meat on top. Serves four. The balance of the luncheon menu might include celery stuffed with Philadelphia cream cheese mixed with ripe olives, hot baking powder biscuits or orange muffins, coffee and assorted nuts.

Problem of School Lunches Arises Again; Suggestions on Selection of Food and Method of Packing Given

By JANE STUART
School bells will be ringing next Monday morning for hundreds of boys and girls in Salem, and school lunches will also ring in the minds of many mothers. The mid-day meal is indeed important for the young school child, whether he eat at home or at school.

A large number of children must carry their lunches. Some schools maintain cafeterias, others serve milk or hot soup. For those mothers who pack the lunch a few tips will come in very handy. Select a lunch box that can be kept clean and scalded and aired daily. All food must be wrapped separately in wax paper. Arranging the food in the lunch box is very important. If possible place the hollow, place a maraschino or canned red cherry. Whip the egg white, jelly and sugar together and whip stiff. Put a border of this around each individual dish and serve. Makes four portions.

the heavy things on the bottom and try to put them in the order in which they will be eaten.

Clean pill boxes with holes punched in the top make salt and sugar shakers. Save screw top jars for puddings, or tie waxed paper over custard cups for containers.

One of the most important things to remember in planning the school lunch is that it should be chosen with regard to the whole day's food requirements. Milk, fruit, and if at all possible a hot dish should be included in the lunch every day. Dates are one of the most valuable fruits for school days. They act as a dessert, fruit and candy all in one, and are healthful and digestible besides containing vitamins, iron, calcium and other minerals.

A few lunch box recipes are as follows:

Banana Custard
4 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

2 bananas
Beat eggs slightly, add the salt and sugar. Scald milk in double boiler and stir into egg mixture. Return to double boiler and cook slowly, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon. (Water should be just under boiling point to prevent over-cooking or curdling.) Cool and add vanilla. Quarter bananas lengthwise, and slice half a banana into each dish. (Use individual custard cups or paper baking cups for the school box.) Pour custard over bananas and chill. Serves 4.

Whole Wheat Date Cookies
1 cup white flour
2 teasp. baking powder
1/2 teasp. soda
1/2 teasp. salt
1 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 pkgs. pasturized dates
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1-3 cup sour milk
1 teasp. vanilla

Sift white flour, baking powder, soda and salt together. Add whole wheat flour. Mix dates through dry ingredients with finger tips. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then beaten egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla and beat until well mixed. Drop by teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart on well-oiled baking sheet or inverted pan. Bake in fairly hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 mins. 36 cookies.

Debate Place Is Silverton

Zimmerman to Meet Representative of Peppo in Debate Sept. 28

NORTH HOWELL, Sept. 17.—Meeting in regular session last Friday night, the North Howell grange members decided upon Monday night, Sept. 28, as the date for the debate on the public utilities question to be held in the K. P. hall in Silverton. At that time, Peter Zimmerman of Yamhill and a representative of the P.E.P. company will present the arguments for and against the public utilities bill to be voted upon at the coming general election. North Howell grange originated the debate idea and is being joined by other local orders. The public is invited to attend as the question of public utilities affects home owners all over the state and power from the Bonneville dam project is a live question.

Booster Night Planned
Booster night plans for September 30 at the North Howell grange hall were also announced. Officers were asked to occupy their stations, decorations put in charge of Mrs. Martha Vinton and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Dunn, and lunch will be served to everyone by the home economics committee. There will be a varied program with orchestra music, a speaker and other numbers and a pleasant social hour.

Plans for the coming local grange fair were also discussed. W. H. Stevens, general chairman of the fair committee announced that one particular feature would be a colt show with a real judge of colts and a prize for the best colt present. This is a unique feature for the local fair board and is being awaited with interest. The date will be announced later.

Women Slower in Putting on Brake

Men are faster than women in the dual performance of removing their feet from the accelerator and applying the brake on an automobile, tests conducted by the state highway department at the recent Oregon state fair, revealed. A so-called reaction machine was used by the highway department in conducting the tests.

Records show that 80 per cent of 700 men who participated in the tests removed their foot from the accelerator and applied the brake in three-fourths of a second or less.

Out of 190 women only 55 per cent completed the operation in that time.

The program is sponsored by Miller's department store where Miss Crosby is carrying on her work this week.

Forest Closures Lifted by Martin

Restrictions Are Kept on Area in Douglas, Coos; Danger Is Reduced

Removal, in part, of the forest closure restrictions which have been in effect in Oregon throughout the greater part of the fire season, was announced by Governor Martin Thursday night. Action was taken on the suggestion of State Forester Ferguson.

Areas which have been under absolute closure during the summer are now open. Other areas closed to entry without permit also have been opened. The forest-keeper announced. Exceptions include a part of Douglas and Coos counties extending from Scottsburg to the old Coos bay wagon road. An adjacent area lying west of Melrose and Coles Valley in Douglas county has been opened.

Another area which remains closed, except by permit, is a six mile wide strip extending from the upper watershed of the west fork of Cow creek in Douglas county to the vicinity of Powers in Coos county. Wardens will issue permits to those who desire to enter these areas.

Some Restricted
All restrictions have been lifted on the Mt. Hood, Willamette and Umpqua forests and no permits of any kind are required. The Rogue river and Siskiyou national forests in the southern part of the state as well as all national forests in eastern Oregon are still subject to regulated use. This prohibits smoking while traveling in such areas, requires a camp fire permit where camp is to be made at other than a designated camp ground and, with the exception of permits, requires that a shovel, ax and water bucket be a part of the equipment. Ferguson said that while the recent rains have greatly reduced the fire hazard in a large part of the state present weather reports indicated that the fire season is not yet over.
