

Blaze Flareup Fears Reduced

Situation Improved Over Afternoon Outlook as East Wind Lacking

Police, said 40 head of cattle in the Bandon region were starving and that some had been blinded by the smoke.

Rehabilitation Work Is Getting Started

Amusing and tragic sights greeted the eyes of visitors to the ruined town. A whistling cat was among the oddities while not far away a dog still stood guard over the ruins of his master's home. Columns of dust and debris shot into the air as skeletons were dynamited or pulled down by trucks.

Over the ruins an army of CCC enrollees searched, looking for bodies and property to salvage. Committees surveyed the town, mapping rehabilitation plans.

Elsewhere an army of 1000 to 1500 men fought two major fires. White ranchers battled lesser blazes which already had wiped out 11 farms near Bandon at an estimated loss of $5000 each. It was believed that probably 20 other ranches in other sections of the fire region had been consumed, although no definite check was possible.

Fire Victims Get Relief Supplies

Refugees of the Bandon fire are shown selecting needed supplies for their families at one of the relief depots. The American Legion emergency organization has taken the lead in the provision of such supplies from Salem and other communities.—Cut courtesy Oregonian.

CCC Enrollment Offered to Vets

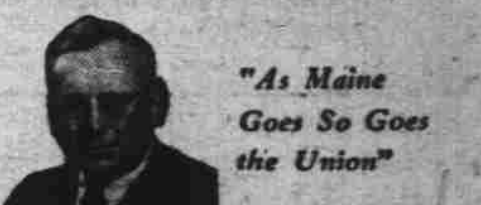

Enrollment in the CCC will be reopened to ex-service men October 1 to 15, Adjutant William Bliven of Capital Post No. 9, American Legion, reported yesterday. Applications are being sent through the veterans' administration, Portland.

Service periods and wars which qualify veterans for the CCC are: Armed forces, World war, April 6, 1917, to July 2, 1921; Spanish-American war, April 21, 1898, to July 5, 1902; Philippine insurrection, August 13, 1898, to July 5, 1902; Moro expedition, August 13, 1898, to July 15, 1903, and the Boxer rebellion, June 20, 1900, to May 13, 1901.

New Records Set At State College

CORVALLIS, Ore., Sept. 30.—(AP)—All previous records for enrollment at Oregon State college were shattered today with the registration of 3,536 students.

The previous high mark was set in 1928 when 3,464 enrolled. This year's increase was 610 over the corresponding day last year.

Special students and late comers still are to register, indicating that the total may yet go to 3,700. The influx of students has necessitated numerous changes in class schedules. A carload of class room chairs has been added to the equipment.

Of all the departments, agriculture with an increase of 31 per cent led the list.

The freshman registration of 1421 was also a new high.

Cities Imperiled As Asama Erupts

TOKYO, Oct. 1.—(Thursday)—(AP)—Accompanied by a terrific rumbling, Mount Asama began erupting at 10:26 a. m. today (8:26 p. m., Wednesday eastern standard time), emitting enormous quantities of ashes which swept over the countryside, damaging villages and towns 50 miles distant.

The active volcano is 100 miles northeast of here, overlooking the seaside resort of Karuzawa, which is largely frequented by Americans.

Series Park Will Be Muddier Today

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Rain continued to fall steadily tonight, with only a remote chance that skies would clear for the second game at the Polo Grounds. The forecast was for slightly warmer but continued wet weather.

Even if conditions overhead improve, the field will be soggy from two days of rain. The infield was covered with pools of water. The pitching and catching boxes were covered with tarpaulin, but the field otherwise was unprotected.

Suit on Council Crest Dismissed

PORTLAND, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Joseph Thomas Dalley lost in circuit court today when he attempted to prevent the city of Portland from trading the old fire station property on Fourth street for Council Crest on the hills bordering on the west.

Portland plans to turn Council Crest into a park.

In his suit Dalley charged that the trade was a deliberate fraud on the taxpayers.

School Lanes Are In Wrong Places

Residents in the vicinity of the old Yew Park and Lincoln grade school buildings wondered if classes were to be resumed there when a city street crew recently appeared and by mistake repainted the pedestrian crossing laid down last year to protect school pupils. Now the lanes probably will be left on the pavement because they can be removed only with blow torches, according to world from the street commissioner's office.

Delay in painting pedestrian lanes for school children on Mission street leading from Bush school has been occasioned because this street actually is a state highway and permission from the state highway department is necessary before the job can be done.

Progress Here Is Noted by Visitor

Salem's building activity is the first thing that caught the eye of A. F. Wood, former Brooks farmer, who arrived here this week with Mrs. Wood to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne D. Harding, he said yesterday. But the revival in residential construction here is not as great as in Wood's present home city, San Bernardino, Calif., he added.

Leaving the Brooks district seven years ago, Wood went to California and took a position as head gardener at the California state hospital in San Bernardino.

Madsens Witness Bandon Holocaust

Ted Madsen of the Salem Baking company and Mrs. Madsen were another couple who returned from a coast trip this week with never-to-be-forgotten memories of the destruction of Bandon by fire Saturday night. They stopped at the same camp court as Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brown and were routed out by the fire at 9:30 p. m.

The night they were forced to spend on the beach was one of extreme discomfort, hot and choking with smoke. Their car, like the Browns', escaped the flames which destroyed many other automobiles.

Picketing Continues at WPA Offices, Portland

PORTLAND, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Pickets of the Oregon Workers' Alliance continued to patrol the headquarters of the WPA here today.

T. J. Colley of the Alliance said the protest developed out of a transfer of men from the Wilson river project to the Wolf creek job and a drop in pay.
