Trading Active at Highest Prices for Season, Says Review

Pacific coast hop markets conmarket review of the United tendency prevalent. Prices paid to growers by Salem buyers.

(The prices below, supplied by a local grocer, are indicative of the daily market but are not guaranteed by The States States Bureau of agricultural economics. An active domstic demand for current offerings, at the highest prices of the season to date, featured the market situation in coast areas. While tradgon, there was practically no selling pressure from growers in the three coast states, with many producers holding for prices several cents above current market levels. Light remaining supplies of 1936 crop hops in growers hands resulted in increased interest in hops of older growths and several hundred bales of 1935 and 1934 crops were sold by Cregon grow-

> Oregon markets continued firm during the period. Sales by growers in this state were comparatively heavy, totalling 2.584 bales of all growths, according to trade Of this amount, 292 bales of 1936 crop Fuggles netted growers 45c per pound, 1,133 bales of 1936 crop Clusters brought 45c per lb., while 154 bales of lower quality 1936 crop pound. A small lot of 1936 Clust-Clusters netted 40c to 44c per ers netted grower 50c per lb., but this was not considered as representative of current values. Two hundred sixty bales of 1935 crop Clusters brought 31c, and 155 bales of the same growth brought 32c per lb. Two hundred thirtyfour bales of 1934 crop brought 20 1/2c per lb., while 150 bales of gon, 35-40c.
> Green onions—Per dozen bunches. the same growth, of slightly lower quality, brought 17c per pound,

Hops Bale Lighter Baling of the 1936 crop was almost completed in Oregon yards. Trade advices indicate that while in ordinary years, 100 pounds of green hops usually weight out from 26 to 28 pounds, this season 100 lbs. of green hops are weighing out only around 22 to 24 lbs. Trade estimates continue to place tthe 1936 outturn in Oregon at around 45,000 bales.

Washington hop markets were also firm during the past week. Sales in the Yakima Valley district included a total of 255 bales of prime to choice 1936 crop Clusters, which netted growers 45c per lb., trading being limited by the firm holding tendency of growers, many of whom were askgrowers, many of whom were asking 50c per lb. Harvesting in that area was reported almost completed, with the later pickings showing improved quality over the immature early picking. There were no sales in the Puyallup Valley district, where dealers were generally bidding 42 1/2 c per pound for 1936 crop Fuggles.

Quiet in California California hop markets were quiet, but maintained a firm tone during the week. Trading in 1936 hops was restricted to 90 bales which netted Sacramento Valley growers 45c per lb. At the close of the week, the market on 1936 hops was quoted at 45c-46c per lb., both in the coastal counties and Sacramento Valley. Growers were holding their relativyly light remaining supplies quite firmly and in some instances were asking 50c per lb. Foreign demand remained negligible.

Some inquiry developed for 1935 hops and 75 bales were sold in Sonoma county at 30-31 1/2 c net grower, which reduced holdings in in the Sacramento Valley, with 26c received during the week but with growers holding for several cents higher, Sonoma county growers reported options on 1934 hops were taken at 20c per lb. but were not exercised. Bids of 15c for prime 1934 hops were refused by Sacramento Valley growers who were asking 20c.

Baling was practically completed in the state, with latest trade estimates placing the outturn at around 33,500 to 34,000 bales, consisting of 19,000 bales in the Sacramento Valley, 9,000 in Sonoma county and 5,500 to 6,000 in Mendocino county. The somewhat larger number of bales than anticipated earlier in the season chiefly reflects the lighter weight of bales put up, rather than greater crop yield. In Sonoma county the average weight per bale was reported around 185 lbs., instead of 200 lbs., the average in other recent seasons.

Crop Damages Run Wheat Up

Australian Losses, Fears In Argentine Assist Upward Trend

CHICAGO, Oct. 3-(AP)-Austral-an reports of crop damage by hot winds, together with fears of moisture shortage in Argentina, did much today toward hoisting prices for wheat.

Unexpected sharp upturns of iverpool quotations swept the market there 2 cents a bushel upward. In some quarters, a disposition was shown to attach possible grain market significance to news of more widespread difficulties growing out of increased tension between China and Japan.

Export purchases of wheat in Canada were estimated as fairly large, although definite figures could not be given. Winnipeg messages said excellent buying of wheat futures there were credited to foreign account.
