Fitzsimmons Hurls Great Ball, Effort to Field Hot One Disastrous

By ALAN GOULD NEW YORK, Oct. 3 .- (A)-The greatest crowd in world series history, 64,842 fans who filled the expansive Yankee Stadium nearly to capacity, saw the Yan-kees beat the Giants, 2 to 1, despite the spectacular four-hit hurling of Fred Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons, rated one of the best fielding pitchers in baseball, lost to his right-handed rival, Irving "Bump" Hadley because he failed to hold a sharply hit grounder by Frankie Crosetti in the critical climax of the eighth inning rally that gave the Yankees their grounds are stated. kees their second straight triumph and a 2 to 1 lead in the current championship struggle.

Home runs into the right-field stands by Lou Gehrig, the Yankee captain, and Jimmy Ripple, freshman centerfielder of the Giants, carried the most exciting match of the series all square into the eighth inning before the last of a series of tough breaks turned against the National league champions

Held Upper Hand Fitzsimmons already had cut off one run at the plate, on Pinch-hitter Red Ruffing's bounder to the box. There were two out, with Yankee base-runners on first and third as Crosetti faced Fitzsimmons. After taking two called strikes and strictly "in the hole," the Yankee shortstop slashed at a knuckle ball and hit it sharply to the right of the

Lazzeri's Homer Helps Yankees Wallop Giants

It might have been a different story Friday if it had a't been for that trio from San Francisco's Italian district—Lazzeri, Crosetti and Di Maggio. Their heavy slugging helped the New York Yankees trounce the National League champion Giants, 18 to 4, in the second world series game. This sound-photo shows Tony Lazzeri coming in after his home run in the third inning, scoring four runs—the first world series homer with the bases loaded since 1920. Catcher Mancuso of the Giants is also pictured gazing forlornly at the outbound ball. This soundphoto was transmitted from New York to San Francisco over telephone wires.

Chemawa Upsets Tillamook Squad

CHEMAWA, Oct. 3 .- Chemawa's Indian eleven, showing great improvement both offensively and defensively, upset Russ Rarey's powerful Tillamook high team 6 to 0 here today. The Indians, who on three occasions stopped Tillamook scoring threats, scored in the second quarter to climax a 55 yard march in which Matt Adams, speedy halfback, did most of the ball-backing. Adams went over for the touchdown. A linebuck failed for the extra point.

Chemawa twice held the Tillamook team on the two yard line.
Tillamook made a powerful attempt to score in the last minutes of play, reaching the Chemawa 15 yard stripe, but a pass over the goal-line was ruled caught beyond the end zone and incomplete. A fumble in the first quarter deprived Chemawa of another chance to score when Adams dropped the ball in an attempted reverse play and Tillamook recovered on the Tillamook five yard
