Dairy Co-op Meet Studies Problems

About 35 members of the Salem unit of the Dairy Cooperative association gathered at the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon to hear W. W. Henry, state manager for the Dairy Co-op, discuss ways and means to overcome difficulties dairymen allegedly are experiencing in getting honest weights and tests on their milk.

David Saucy, Salem unit member to the state board of directors, gave a highly satisfactory report on the churning cream procurement program of the association.

Extension of the churning cream program into Benton and Linn counties was reported upon by Joe Kendrick, field representative in those counties, who said farmers there are greatly pleased with this activity of the association. Butterfat returns in those counties have been boosted a cent and a half per pound as a result of the dairy co-op program, Kendrick said.

Robert H. Clark of Bethel, chairman of the Salem unit, presided at the meeting.

Governor Refuses To Predict Action

Governor Martin declared Saturday that he would "make neither promises nor threats," in connection with the pending waterfront strike.

"I will act when the time comes, at least to my satisfaction," the governor said.

This will be Governor Martin's reply to a letter received yesterday from the eastern Oregon wheat league asking the state to take immediate action toward averting a maritime tieup.

Officers of the league said such a strike would demoralize the wheat industry in eastern Oregon and force down prices below the cost of production.

Lewis Geist Has Market Grocery

Lewis E. Geist of Salem has opened a new market grocery department in the Grand Central market store on High street and is already open for business. This department will occupy slightly more than a fourth of the space in the remodeled store department.

Self-service will be featured in the complete line of groceries. Fancy goods in the grocery line will also be stocked. The store will be open until 1 o'clock each night, and on Sundays and holidays.

Help For Bandon Schools Is Asked

Teachers of State Are to Raise Fund; Tavenner Officer of Group

Oregon high school principals in a message here, voted Saturday to urge the federal agencies to eliminate as much red tape as possible and provide financial aid required to keep the Bandon schools in operation.

A fire which recently covered a large part of the town of Bandon destroyed the town of Bandon.

While the Bandon schools are partially equipped with books and desks, no provision has been made to pay the salaries of teachers. Teachers of the state will be asked to contribute $1 each to provide temporary relief.

Thomas Fowler of Tigard was elected president of the conference for the ensuing year. Paul R. McCulloch, The Dalles, was elected vice-president, and Chas. Fry, Portland, a member of the board of directors. R. W. Tavenner, Salem, was elected secretary-treasurer.

A feature of the conference was a panel discussion of the elements that constitute a good high school from the layman's point of view.

The conference was held under the direction of Charles A. Howard, state superintendent of schools.

Speakers included state officials and a number of prominent educators.

Dr. Stewart Will Speak on Sunday

Dr. Blair Stewart, professor of economics in Reed college, is scheduled to discuss "The New Deal—Pro and Con" at the First Congregational church Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. His talk will be followed by an open forum discussion.

This is the second of a series on "The Real Issues Behind the Election." Much interest was evinced at the first meeting last Sunday night.

Dr. Stewart is, according to Prof. William C. Jones of Willamette university, one of the brilliant economists of the northwest.

He received his Ph. D. degree from Stanford university. He recently held a social science research fellowship for a year of study in the Chicago Board of Trade.

He has served on commissions of study under both the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations.

Dr. Stewart says he is actively allied with no political party or group. The public is invited to attend the meeting and take part in the general discussion.

Wild Life Parley Called by Martin

Many Organizations Take Part in Meeting, Set For November 19

Plans for the conservation and preservation of Oregon's wild life will be formulated at the Oregon wild life conference at Oregon State college in Corvallis, November 19 and 20, according to the call issued Saturday by Governor Charles H. Martin.

The conference will be one phase of the national program for wild life conservation as outlined by the North American wild life conference in February in Washington, D. C.

Governor Martin has invited representatives of the federal and state agencies having to do with wild life protection and propagation, the sportsmen, lumbermen, range and agricultural interests, and others interested in this activity.

"My aim is to bring together individuals, organizations, and agencies interested in husbanding and developing Oregon's wild life resources," Governor Martin said.

"It is my hope that through this educational conference cooperation between public and private interests of Oregon will be developed and that out of it will grow a mutuality of relationships between existing state and federal governmental agencies, sportsmen, nature lovers, agricultural, forest and range groups, and that these may continue to work cooperatively for the development and common good of one of Oregon's major natural resources."

Many Groups Figure
The federal agencies expected to attend the conference include the biological survey, the forest service, soil conservation service, state park service, and various bureaus of the department of interior.

State agencies will include the game and fish commissions, the state forest service, the agricultural department, agricultural experiment station, agricultural research foundation, and the state planning board.

Other groups participating in the conference will include the Oregon Audubon society, Isaac Walton league, the Rod and Gun club, state game, Farmers union, the cattle and horse raisers association, the wool growers' association, the fox and mink breeders association and the American Wild Life Institute.

Protest Lawyer's Fee, Estate Case

Objection that attorney's fees twice as large as were reasonable were paid James W. Mott in the John Delaywood estate without approval of the probate court is alleged by Victoria Campbell, present administratrix of the estate. The objection is taken to the final account of A. M. Hansen, who was removed as administrator and who allegedly paid Mott, now congressman.

The present administratrix says Mott was paid $650 or a 50 per cent contingent fee for damages collected from the Pacific Telephone company but that the court neither allowed nor approved the 50 per cent fee and that a 25 per cent fee would have been reasonable. The administratrix also objects to a $100 bond charge made by Hansen against the estate.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our appreciation to the true friends for their many acts of kindness and the beautiful floral offerings sent during the illness and death of our husband and father.—Lydia V. Lehman and family.

Data on Capitol Being Collected For Cornerstone

The 1935 legislature adopted a resolution providing that a transcript of all legislative proceedings having to do with the construction of the new state capitol building be deposited in the cornerstone of the new structure.

This material is now being assembled by Fred Drager, chief clerk of the house of representatives.

There also will be deposited in the cornerstone a scroll containing the signatures of Governor Martin, Secretary of State Snell, State Treasurer Holman, members of the capitol construction commission, and the legislators who served at the special 1935 session.

The scroll is now being printed and will be ready for signatures within the next few days.

Grimm Resigns as Credit President

The resignation of Howard Grimm as president of the Salem Retail Credit association was accepted by the membership at the regular Friday noon luncheon held at the Argo hotel, and a committee was named to make nominations for a new president to serve the remainder of the year. This group, to report next Friday, includes C. M. Roberts, chairman, Dr. Henry Morris, Alfred Montgomery, Floyd White and Harry Scott.

Considerable discussion flared up at the luncheon over the secretaryship of the association, some members holding that this should be divorced from the bureau which has done this work for some years. The upshot was that the committee of which Roberts is chairman will also make nominations for secretary.

James Clark presided at yesterday's meeting.

Large Sum Given Sewing Projects

Near Quarter Million For Salem, Tillamook and Eugene Provided

Almost a quarter million dollars will be spent by the WPA on sewing room projects for women in Salem, Eugene and Tillamook during the next eight months, District WPA Director J. E. Smith announced yesterday. Representing sums needed to keep the sewing rooms in these three cities running, an allotment of $224,607 was received here yesterday.

The Salem and Eugene sewing rooms, which have been shut down, will reopen on regular schedules Monday morning. The Salem room had been down for 10 days and that at Eugene since mid-August for lack of operating funds. An allotment of $9300 for the Tillamook project will not be touched until present funds run out October 30.

Salem women who were employed on the local sewing project at the time it stopped operating should not report back if they have other employment, Smith advised. If they are out of work, they may return to their former shifts without obtaining new assignments. Women, however, who formerly worked on this project but were not employed there at the time of the shutdown must secure new assignments.

Smith said the $173,327 allotted the Salem sewing room would give employment to 232 women until next June 30. The local cost, $1905, is borne by the county relief committee. Work done by the women is about half divided between sewing for state institutions and making repairing garments for the relief committee's charges.
