of the year, bringing new dwelling expenditures to $253,212. The new house, costing $2750, will be built at 1650 Jefferson street by F. D. Martin for Ben Snyder.

Electric Company To Erect Garage
Construction will start within a week on a steel and reinforced concrete garage building on the north side of Division street between High and Liberty for the Portland General Electric company. Contract for the job has been awarded to Albert A. Siwert.

The building will be 60 feet wide and 32 feet deep and erected east of the alley on property owned by the company. It will be the first unit of a structure to which future additions will bring a 150-foot depth. The first unit will cost about $6000.

The north wall will be constructed of hollow tile which may be removed when the building is extended. The roof will consist of 60 foot steel trusses spanning the entire width of the building. The face of the building on Division street will be stuccoed or finished with a special coat of concrete.

The entrance to the building will be from the north with only a door for pedestrians, and windows on the south side of the building facing the street. Shrubs and lawn will be planted in the parking in the front of the building to add to its attractiveness.

Ten small building permits were taken out yesterday as follows:

Mrs. Ida Barquist, repair house at 1395 Mission street, $200; Mrs. N. E. White, roof house at 1359 Ferry, $50; H. E. Freetag, roof garage at 482 North 18th, $25; Mrs. M. M. publican candidate for president in 1936 on a platform of uncontrolled private initiative? Is it possible that the governor of Kansas was willing to tear his principles from the shallow soil in which they were rooted because of the lure of the greatest office in the world?

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon tonight characterized Secretary Ickes' description of him as a "state socialist" as "typical of the confusion" in the new deal and asserted "this attack is like the losing team throwing the ball around wildly attempting to score."

In a formal "reply to Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior," Landon said: "Up to date the administration's spokesmen have been attacking me on the ground I was a puppet of big business. Now they attack me on the ground that I am a socialist and the enemy of big business."

Referring to Ickes' assertion that Landon had suggested a plan for state ownership of gas and telephone utilities, Landon replied: "I have always been in favor of public ownership as a gun behind the door in the adjustment of proper and fair utility rates."

proposed advance was cited by A. J. Pruitt of Brandes creamery.

A. E. Clark, an attorney for the board, said in his opening statement he believed legal rights were followed in proposing the increase. He blamed price-cutting interests for the attack on the board's action and said rigid Portland inspection laws had brought about the need for an advance.

John H. Hall, attorney for Thomas A. Sweeney and B. E. Kennedy, accused the board of being "more concerned with milking the public than milking the cows." Sweeney, acting chairman of the Milk Consumers' committee, and Kennedy, president of the Western Consumers, Inc., brought the suit to enjoin the shift in the price scale.

Hall told Judge Hewitt that inquiries would be made into the milk board's operating expenses.

Meanwhile in London the Spanish ambassador charged anew that Germany and Italy were aiding the insurgents. A note handed to Lord Plymouth, British chairman of the European non-intervention committee, alleged the Italians had supplied a large number of tanks and that a German ship carried a cargo of war materials to the fascist fighters.

Fearing "wholesale massacre" of prisoners held as hostages by both sides in the war, Great Britain offered use of her fleet to transport them from Spain. Messages went to both the Madrid government and the fascist high command.

New Deal Is Not Democratic, Held

whatever it holds of good or bad, one thing is certain: The new deal is not democratic as the democratic party has hitherto employed that word. It has no just claim, simply because of party membership, on the support of any democrat.

At the outset of his speech Davis said he was undertaking to explain his position to the public because the recognition given him by the party in the past made it impossible for him to "remain entirely silent in the present campaign."

expense of the liberty and independence of the citizen."

In this first major talk of his final campaign swing, the Kansan addressed a crowd estimated at 75,000 by Capt. H. C. Brawster of the sheriff's office.

Saying that the new deal "has led us far from the spirit of the constitution," Landon contended congressional investigations "have budded and blossomed in unusual rank profusion" during the administration.

"No soil of real or fancied wrong doing is so poor that it will not sprout a full fledged investigation," the governor said, speaking into loudspeakers and microphones which carried his voice across the nation.

"They are too often carried on in flagrant disregard of the rights of citizens. The sentence they pass has too frequently been a reputation unjustly smeared before the public."

"Is this undermining our freedom? You know it is."

The crowd shouted at this frequently repeated question in Landon's speech. He referred to two investigations without naming them.

One, he said, "openly and flagrantly violated the constitutional restriction against unreasonable search and seizure." Those who heard the speech interpreted his remark as directed toward the senate lobby committee.

The other, Landon continued, had for "purely political ends" had the "thinly veiled purpose of discrediting" a political movement which the controlling party wished to crush. This statement was believed to refer to the house investigation of Dr. F. E. Townsend's old age pension movement.

Townsend has urged supporters to vote for Landon where the name of William Lemke, union party candidate, does not appear on ballots.

The Kansan received three minutes of applause as he drove in a spotlighted open car from the far end of the stadium to the speaker's stand, which faced the length of the oblong field. Frequent applause periods during his addresses were accompanied by a few boos.

Landon's hair straggled somewhat over his forehead as he read his speech with emphatic right-hand gestures. He faced a battery of flood lights. Before his arrival a fireworks display and music entertained the crowd.
