Lipscomb and Sugai Vie for Mat Honors at Armory Tonight

Brawl Villain Gets Top Spot

Hoosier Meanie's Unearned Victory Over Trout Is Recalled by Fans

After winning over Dick Trout in one of the most wild - eyed brawls ever to delight the grayple fans here, Jack Lipscomb, the Hoosier Hotshot, will try his luck with Salem's husky Japanese boy, Don Sugai, in the main event of the American Legion show at the armory tonight.

Lipscomb gained a one fall win over Trout, using all his customary chicanery. Trout had Lipycomb's shoulders pressed to the canvas but the referee was listening to the sweet songs of birds at the time and when he regained consciousness found Lipscomb on dop of the pile.

Aware of most of the tricks of the unscrupulous grapplers from many past combats with tanglers of that Ilk, Sugai should be a tough opponents for the sneering, snarfing Lipscomb. The two have met before and neither cherishes a great love for the

Secret Back Again

Lipscomb employs about every trick known to matdom in his efforts to subdue his opponents while Sugai, capable of mixing in a few tricks of his own, usually sticks closely to the football tactics of sonnenbergs and flying drop-kicks.

Dickie Trout, the popular San Diego mariner, takes on the tattooed toughy from Chicago, Al Williams, in the semi - windup event. As able as they come, Trout is confident that he can hand the mobster from the Windy City a beating despite the other's unsavory methods.

Bobby Burns will attempt to unmask the mysterious Dark Secret in the 30 minute opener, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Northwestern to Battle Minnesota

Waldorf Says His Eleven Has a Chance; Recalls Close 1935 Outcome

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 .- (AP)-As soiemnly as a man testifying under oath, Lynn Waldorf gave his Northwestern eleven a chance today of doing the impossible-of upsetting mighty Minnesota Satbroad-shouldered, deepvoiced Wildcat coach, who has watched with something approaching amazement the development of his "kids" this season, hastened to agree with the rest of the football world that Minnesota merits ranking as "tops." He refused, however, to concede that Bernie Bierman has a super-team,

"Our scouts say that Minnesota is even greater than last year," he said. "Against Nebraska, Michigan and Purdue, their defense hasn't be en dented. Of course Minnesota is, and should be, a big favorite against us."

Recalls 21-13 Tussle "But we are not regarding Minnesota as a super-team," he said seriously. "We gained a lot of ground against them last year and gave quite a battle before losing by a touchdown, (21 to 13). We are stronger this year. Whether we are good enough is something for Saturday to de-

Brilliant Backfield

WHAT football team has the best backfield this year? Answer that one correctly and you can take off that dunce cap and move to the head of the class.

There are a lot of sides to this argument, and they can't all be right. Suppose we say Washington than the gentleman from Kentucky, suh, takes the floor and forces us to hear of the exploits of Man o' War Johnson, Twenty Grand Davis, Elmore Simpson, Roy Sands and few more triple-threat backfield stars thrown in for good measure. All of these birds are doing their stuff for Old Kaintuck.

Well, we no sooner mention Marquette can put in a pretty fair bid for all-star backfield honors with such sensational aces as the Guepe twins, the touted Buzz Buivid and Ward Cuff.

This "best backfield" controversy can go on and on, and the further you go the dizzier you get. You pick ing their stuff for Old Kaintuck.

PAUL HAUSER

We have noted with interest the several forays made by the Oregonian's sports pundit, Lair Gregory, in behalf of the Northwest conference as a league which plays interesting football. Gregory several times this year has stated that the Northwest conference games he has seen have been far more interesting to watch than the conservative football played by the Coast conference.

We agree heartily with Greg in that. For several Saturdays past we have watched Coast conference football, wishing all the time we'd saved our gasoline. Last Saturday it was the Oregon-Washington State game. We'd have been just "I believe our 'kids' will come as happy listening to the radio close to playing all the football for it was a remarkably dull game they have in them. They are not to watch. There was good blocking yardstick by which all teams are esting. Both teams were being too safe. St. Mary's Hopes for Clear Record Blasted

Al Hoptowit, big Indian boy who used to play for Chemawa not so many years ago, played a slap-bang game at guard for the Cougars. He got through into the Oregon backfield a lot of times when the Palefaces weren't looking for a visit from the Indians.

While thinking of Oregon, notable this year for the lack of adequate passers, we would like to observe that in a few years there should be plenty of good passers on the market for the college scouts. High schools are turning more to a wide-open game, especially since the new rules allow passes from the line of scrimmage. There are a whole flock of good passers now heaving them high and handsome in Oregon high schools. Notable are Reiman of The Dalles, Parsons and Mabee of McMinnville, Woodman of Dallas, Daggett of West Linn and there are lots of others. Carl Chapman of Salem high will probably develop into an excellent Smith was supposed to pack the ball through the line on the play. He got up to the line of scrimmage and was hit hard enough to make the ball pop out of his arms and sail up and forward, Still on his feet, Smith kept going, caught the ball as it came down five yards farther ahead and ran 20 more yards before he was finally downed.

Vikings Drill Upon Defense

Astoria Fishermen Faced Saturday Night: One Cripple Returns

Thankful for an extra day in which to prepare for the invasion of the Astoria Fishermen Saturday Coach Harold Hauk will give the Vikings their first scrimmage since the McMinnville circus to-

While the 26 to 18 victory over McMinnville showed Hauk that the Vikings are finally playing foot-ball it also showed a great need for a stronger defense. So de-fense against both attacks by land and air will be the major item in this week's Viking budget. Hauk will stress pass defense as the Vikings looked particularly help-less against McMinnville's accurate passing campaign.

Viking stocks rose a little with the return to practice yesterday of Carl Chapman, who has been out with a bad charley-horse Hauk said Chapman, quarterback, would probably be able to play Saturday although it is doubtful if he will participate in scrimmages this week. Tom Hill, regular left end, is still out with an injured knee.

gridders, always strong, are expected to furnish the toughest opposition the Vikings have yet faced. The Fishermen held the powerful Hood River team, outstanding seeker of the mythical state high school championship, to a 6 to 0 score two weeks ago. With the Astoria game Satur-day the Vikings open a long home stand in which they meet four of the state's best teams, Astoria, The Dalles, Eugene and Medford, on successive weekends.

EUGENE, Oct. 26 .- (A)-The Orgon Webfoots, resting after the bruising 3 to 0 loss to ton State, took things lightly on Hayward field this afternoon as they made ready for the classic Washington Husky game at Portland Saturday.

Tom Blackman, Sophomore fullback, will be ready to start. Joe Huston, veteran guard, will be back in the line.

Although Oregon is without a win and Washington without a loss in conference play, the Webfoots were confident they would play their customary sensational ball against the northerners. The Huskies have found Oregon 'jinx" in previous meetings.

SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—(A)—A cure for an epizootic of "fumbilitis" was sought by Doc J. M. Phelan today as he began grooming the Washington Huskies for their football engagement with the University of Oregon at Portland Saturday.
