Jennie Dempsey's Rites Set Friday

Rickreall Resident Native of Valley, Most of Her Life Spent in Polk

RICKREALL, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Jennie Dempsey, a native of the Willamette valley, died Wednesday morning in the Dallas hospital after a brief illness with heart trouble.
Nancy Jane Davis, youngest daughter of John Wesley and Mary Jane Davis, was born October 19, 1865, in the Chehalis valley three miles north of Newberg, and spent her entire life with the exception of seven years in Oregon, the greater part in Polk county where the family moved in 1869, living in the Monmouth and Rickreall vicinities.
She was married to Isaac A. Dempsey, July 27, 1887, in Primrose, moving in 1889 to Rickreall where she has made her home practically ever since.
She was a member of Ruth chapter No. 32, O. E. S., at Heppner and of the Evangelical church and a charter member of the Rickreall Ladies Aid society.
Three Children Survive
She is survived by a daughter, Mary Adams; two sons, Harry A. of Rickreall and Lynn J. of Portland; and nine grandchildren. Mr. Dempsey died September 19, 1931, and one son died in infancy. Services will be conducted from the Hollman-Henke chapel Friday at 2 p. m. and burial will be in the Dallas L. O. F. cemetery beside her husband. Naomi chapter, O. E. S. of Dallas will conduct the services at the cemetery.
Mrs. Dempsey was a devoted mother, a good neighbor and a true friend and will be missed by the people of this community.

which of the new deal policies would be repealed if Landon is elected.
In his one hour speech, Watkins reviewed the administration of former president Hoover. He charged that the republican party was controlled by Wall street. In contrast to the republican administration, Watkins declared that by NRA, WPA, PWA, the social security acts, securities legislation, bank deposit guarantees had helped the people out of the depression and avoided revolution. He stated that the federal government has spent 167 million dollars in Oregon under the administration of Roosevelt.

Politics Topic at Salem High Today

Social science students will turn to politics at Salem high school today and give all parties to the present presidential campaign an airing before groups who will assemble each period in the auditorium. R. W. Tavener, assistant principal, announced yesterday. No party will be slighted, he said. A student leader for each period has been designated to start off discussions of politics. A group of eight or more students will sit with the leader on the auditorium platform and, for benefit of listeners beyond the footlights, will carry on a panel type discussion of the merits of the various party principles and candidates.
"I don't know how this form of activity will work out when directed toward politics," Tavener said. "But last year it worked very well when we discussed safety on the highways."
Various students are expected to represent the republican, democratic, communist, socialist and farmer-labor parties during the discussions. Panel leaders will be:
First period, Doris Taylor; second period, Sidney Schlessinger; third period, John Ekemer; fourth period, Bill Thomas; fifth period, Jim Sehon.

Vehicles Damaged In Three Mishaps

Three automobiles and a truck were heavily damaged in collisions here last night but none of the occupants of the six vehicles involved was injured.
The front of a sedan driven by Harry C. Myers, 1340 Ferry street, was demolished when it crashed into a parked truck on Liberty street between Chemeketa and Center at 10:50 p. m. The flat truck body was shoved off the chassis.
Roy Manford Pence, 648 Brevs avenue, was overturned although his sedan was unharmed and heavily damaged when it collided at Center and High at 7:18 p. m. with a sedan driven by Sam Gesner Rundlett, 1309 Fir.
In the least serious of the trio of mishaps, a roadster operated by Jesse Lewis Richardson, Central Point, was considerably damaged in a collision at 6:10 p. m. with an auto driven by Herbert Schultz, route four, at D and Capitol streets.
