

Prices Travel Up Hill and Down Hill for Final Loss

Wind Damage Adds Impetus

Selling For Quick Gains Brings Reactions; Corn Strong

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Wheat prices marked a final rally today, but then marched down again, covering a range of about one cent a bushel.

The chief new stimulus for wheat was a report that hot winds had damaged crops in Australia. Selling to realize gains on advances was largely the reason for reactions. Dealings lacked volume.

Cables reported firmer wheat offers to Europe from Australia and Canada. Notice was taken of strength quotations by Buenos Aires wheat shippers, which last night showed 2 1/2 cents bulge, which was not well maintained today.

Finishes 1/2 Lower

Chicago wheat futures closed easy, unchanged to 1/2 lower compared with yesterday's finish, Dec. 11 1/2¢, May 12 1/4¢, U. 1 1/2¢, 9 1/2¢, corn unchanged to 1/2 off, Dec. 9 1/2¢, May 9-9 1/2¢, July 8 1/2¢-1/4¢, oats unchanged to 1/4 down, Dec. 4 1/4¢, and rye varying from 1/4 decline to 1/4 advance, Dec. 8 1/2¢.

Provisions results ranged from 2 cents setback to an equal gain to 1/2 cent.

Corn, oats and rye took their cue almost altogether from wheat action. December corn displayed relative firmness, there being less than 200,000 bushels of corn reported as on hand in Chicago elevators.

Provisions were steadied by upturns of hog values.

Motors' Play Ends in Fall

Little Headway Is Made on Stock Market For Recent Leads

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Industrial specialties gave buying color to today's stock market but many recent leaders were unable to maintain headway.

While the trading volume was substantially above that of yesterday, it was still comparatively small.

Transfers totaled 1,632,130 shares against 1,310,770 Tuesday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged up .2 of a point at 70.4. That it was far from a one-way market was shown by the fact that of 893 issues traded, 387 advanced, 310 declined and 196 were unchanged.

A few issues surged forward 2 to 4 or more points, some to new 5-year peaks, but small fractional advances predominated.

Growing public spending lifted the merchandising group, but fell back later. The utilities lacked stamina. Electric power production for the week of October 10, was off slightly, but the 1935 aggregate for the 1935-36 season, as compared with the 1934-35 season, is 10,000,000 kilowatt hours in excess of the 1934-35 season, according to the official October 1 estimate for the 1936 output, and trade reports of carryover in growers' hands on September 1. This compares with 58,371,400 pounds in prospect on September 1 last year, and 61,808,400 pounds two years ago. The official preliminary estimate of October 1, places the 1936 output at only 23,406,000 pounds, as compared with 42,310,000 pounds harvested in 1935. Stocks of older growths in growers' hands on September 1, this year, totaled 15,825,000 pounds against 16,661,400 pounds in the same position September 1, last year.

Supplies of Hops in This Country Now in More Favorable Light Than In Many Months; Imports Increase

United States hop markets advanced sharply during the latter part of the 1935-36 season, reflecting principally the prospective smaller supplies for 1936-37, according to the hop market news service of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Prices paid growers in the three Pacific coast states held at around 9c to 10c per pound during the first 10 months of the 1935-36 season, but registered sharp advances early in July when it became apparent that the 1936 output would amount to only around one-half the 1935 harvest. Toward the close of August, best quality 1936 crop hops were netting growers around 80c per pound, while 1936 hops were bringing growers around 40c per pound.

Supplies of United States hops for the 1936-37 season, including the crop and carryover from previous years, total only around 39,231,800 pounds, according to the official October 1 estimate for the 1936 output, and trade reports of carryover in growers' hands on September 1. This compares with 58,371,400 pounds in prospect on September 1 last year, and 61,808,400 pounds two years ago. The official preliminary estimate of October 1, places the 1936 output at only 23,406,000 pounds, as compared with 42,310,000 pounds harvested in 1935. Stocks of older growths in growers' hands on September 1, this year, totaled 15,825,000 pounds against 16,661,400 pounds in the same position September 1, last year.

Imports of hops into the United States during the crop year, September, 1935, through August, 1936, totaled 6,534,884 pounds, compared with 5,256,613 pounds imported during the corresponding months a year earlier. This gave a total supply of approximately 44,906,284 pounds. Exports during the season however, amounted to 6,138,978 pounds, compared with 6,771,970 pounds exported during the previous season, leaving about 58,722,306

Carryovers Listed

Domestic supplies of hops for the 1935-37 season totaling about 39,231,800 pounds, or about 196,159 bales, consist of the following growths: The 1936 crop, officially estimated at 23,406,000 pounds, or 117,030 bales, and carryover of older growths, amounting to 15,825,000 pounds, or about 79,129 bales. The carryover of older growths, by years and states, were as follows, according to trade statistics: In Oregon, 1935 crop, 6,698 bales; 1934 crop, 8,268 bales; 1933 crop, 15,138 bales; 1932 crop, 815 bales; 1931 crop, 826 bales; 1930 crop 76 bales; 1929 crop 79 bales. In Washington, 1935 crop, 38 bales; 1934 crop, 5428 bales; 1933 crop, 1645 bales; 1932 crop, 550 bales. In California, 1935 crop, 2163 bales; 1934 crop, 1420 bales; 1933 crop, 14,850 bales; 1932 crop 1679 bales; 1931 crop, 393 bales; 1930 crop, 80 bales; 1929 crop 1094 bales; and 1928 crop, 889 bales.

Production of hops in 1936 in the three coast states, totaling 23,406,000 pounds, according to the official preliminary estimate October 1, was distributed among the states as follows: Oregon, 9,180,000 pounds; Washington, 6,806,000 pounds; and California, 7,420,000 pounds. This compares with the official estimate of 23,406,000 pounds in Oregon, 9,314,000 pounds in Washington, and 10,454,000 pounds in California, harvested last year. Official estimates of acreage in hops in 1936, totaling 31,000 acres, were given by states as follows: Oregon, 21,600 acres, according to 4,100 acres; and California, 5,300 acres. This compares with a total acreage of 38,900 acres in 1935, which was divided as follows: Oregon, 26,000 acres; Washington 6,000 acres; and California, 6,900 acres.

Netted Gem Mark To Be Restricted

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Northwest Potato Growers' association has voted to have the name "Netted Gem" used only on a variety of tuber, and to discard numerous other labels frequently attached to that variety.

The group bowed to state pride, however, to permit Idahoans, for example, to label their potatoes "Idaho Netted Gem," but decided that "Russet," "Burbank" and similar names should not be used for the netted gem type of potato.

"We should protect the name of the potato that only the northwest can produce," said J. J. Romans, secretary of the agricultural bureau of the Spokane chamber of commerce. "These potatoes demand a substantial premium in eastern markets."

Prune Growers to Sign Agreement Next Week; Push Advertising Idea

PORTLAND, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Prune growers and packers, who already have verbally sanctioned an advertising campaign for Oregon prunes, are expected to sign the formal agreement next week.

The group met here and organized the Oregon Prunes, Inc.

It is planned to push the drive through the winter months in time to help market the 1936 crop.
