

Battle Royal of Nations Scheduled for Mat Show Tonight

Jackson Only Yank, He Says

Square Shooter Essays to Uphold National Honor Against Furriners

Upon the muscled shoulders of that great benefactor of mankind, Bulldog Jackson, will rest tonight the white man's burden as the grappler from Noms contends with five doughty members of the "furrin' element" in a battle royal set as the main event of tonight's wrestling show at the armory.

Jackson, who claims he is the only "white man" in the group of six wrestlers who will attempt tonight to put each other temporarily or permanently out of commission, is out to uphold Nordic supremacy in a great test.

Although the battered features and the ungainly build of the Bulldog are far from the usual conception of the "giant blue-eyed blond," Jackson insists that pure Aryan blood flows in his as yet non-hardened arteries.

Will Trick 'Em All
Jackson intends to lower with one fell swoop both the claims of the orient and the nations of eastern and southern Europe to supremacy. Branding Don Suga, a Japanese gambler, and Walter Tinkit Achiu, Chinese wrestler, as the "yellow peril" of the mat game, Jackson plans to put them out of commission before starting on Jack Lipscomb, Bob Castle and Ernie Piluso. "Lipscomb is a Polek, Castle a Boshian and Piluso a spaghetti-eater and I can lick them all," boasts "Square-Shooter" Jackson.

The six wrestlers will work on one another until only two are left in the arena. After a brief rest those two will wrestle for 20 minutes or until one gets a fall.

Ray Lyness and Glen Wescott tangle in the 30 minute openert at 8:30 o'clock.

Title Pays Tony Well Up to Date

GREENSBORO, N. C., Nov. 23.

The national open golf crown has fattened Champion Tony Manero's purse by $5,000 since he won at Baltusrol last June.

That's a thousand dollars a month, not the big money the championship has been worth in other years, but heavy dough in any league.

"I'm satisfied," Tony said today. "The cash has come in handy. Maybe I can make another five grand out of the title before I have to let the boys shoot for it again next June in Detroit."

The championship itself brought $1,000. Tony picked up $2,000 on his recent South American tour with Johnny Revolta. His affiliation with a manufacturing golf concern, a Florida winter professional engagement, and exhibition matches, push the total over $5,000.

On his competitive shot-making skill alone since the open championship, Manero has won $2,137 and a total of $3,247 for the entire year, in 11 tournaments.

Valley Motor and Wilson's Winners

by an automobile at a downtown intersection Friday night. His condition, however, remained serious. He received a skull fracture and laceration on the forehead.

Donald Mountain, 29 months old of Aumsville, was received at Salem General hospital Sunday for treatment of a nose laceration.

First Blood for Notre Dame in Upset Victory

Some 55,000 persons witnessed the defeat of the Northwestern Wildcat—Big Ten title winners—at the Notre Dame stadium in South Bend, Ind., today, by the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, who won 26 to 6, to win what to them was their most impressive victory of the year. Church League to Have 14 Quintets

Play Starts December 11; Another Meeting to Be Held Dec. 7

Fourteen teams, six in the "A" division and eight in the "B" circuit, will compose the Church League this year, it was announced following the league's organization meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night.

J. J. Fitzsimmons was reelected president. Harold Duncan was named vice-president and Gus Moore retained as secretary. Play in the "B" division will start Friday, December 11, and in the "A" league the following night.

Another meeting will be held Monday, December 7, at which teams must submit lists of players and have their entry fees ready, it was announced.

Jason Lee, Presbyterian and Evangelical will have teams in both leagues. Churches entering one team each are First Methodist, First Baptist, Congregational, South Salem Friends who won the "B" title last year, Leslie which won the "A" championship, Calvary Baptist, Mormons and Japanese church.

Heavy Work Ends for Bearcats With Big Game Coming Up Thursday; Pass Attack Probably Needed, View Here

SCRIMMAGES ended for "Spec" Keene's Bearcats yesterday when they went through their last contact drill of the season in preparation for their final clash with the Whitman Missionaries on Sweetland field Thanksgiving day at 1:30 o'clock.

Signal drill and work on pass offense and defense will be the main items on the Bearcat schedule for today and tomorrow. Drilling against Missionary plays, as outlined by Assistant Coach Mike Balkovic, will be part of today's program.

Because the Bearcats have already tucked away the conference championship Coach Keene fears his team will suffer a let-down against the Missionaries who have been steadily pointing for the Willamette game. The Missionaries, with their best team in several years, are out to get hunk with Willamette for the 75 to 0 trouncing they took from the Bearcats the last time they played on Sweetland field.

With the exception of "Bunny" Bennett, freshman ball carrier, who will be out with a knee injury, the Bearcats are in good physical shape following the 19 to 0 win over Pacific last Friday. Keene said yesterday that he did not expect the powerful Bearcat ground attack to prosper against the tough Whitman line. The Bearcats, held to a 10 to 0 score by Whitman last year, found the Missionary line the toughest they ran up against. Consequently the Bearcats may be expected to unleash their pass attack, one which this year has proven much more effective than usual.

Several new plays will be worked into the Bearcat attack for the Whitman game.

Dayton Defeats "B" Boys From McMinnville, 34-0

DAYTON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Dayton union high school football team defeated the McMinnville "B" squad by a 34 to 0 score here Friday. The last game of the season will be played here at 11 a. m. Thanksgiving day with Newberg.

Riggi Trains Hard For O'Grady Bout

Ashland Heavy Who Holds Win Over Cooper Will Have Heft Edge

Aware that he faces a real test in Gen. O'Grady, the Ashland heavyweight who recently defeated "Tiny" Cooper, Frank Riggi, has been training with might and main under the experienced direction of Chirly Feldman.

Riggi, who has not fought for several months, will meet O'Grady in a ten round bout as the main feature of the 32 round Veterans of Foreign Wars card at the armory Friday night.

The 186 pound Brooks Italian is a hard-bitter and, although somewhat lacking in experience, is rated as a likely heavyweight prospect. Riggi, who held the Oregon heavyweight championship until "Tiny" Cooper dethroned him in a bout here, has won 15 fights by the knockout route. His wins include knockout victories over Red Rader of Tacoma and Wes Hayes of Portland.

Riggi is 22 years old and stands 5 feet, 11 inches high. He has a chest expansion of 42 1/2 inches.

O'Grady, Southern Oregon's best best heavyweight prospect, will, at 192 pounds, have a six pound weight advantage over Riggi. Young and a hard puncher, he will probably give Riggi a taste of some real fighting.

Likely to steal the show is the six round semi-windup in which Jackie Drews, Brooks welter, will meet Zackie Shell, Geraval, in a rematch. Shell won a close decision from Drews in another six rounder on the last card, a decision which was roundly booed by the crowd.

Four four-round events complete the card.

House Leaguers' Games Are Close

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Only three weeks short of fighting trim, James J. Braddock, the heavyweight champion, came back from the south today to learn that an Atlantic City fight with Joe Louis is all but in the bag.

Lean and bronzed after six weeks at Hot Springs, Ark., where he was cured of arthritis, Braddock looked the picture of health. He was loaded down with bags and golf clubs as he hurried away to New Jersey for a reunion with his family.

"I weigh only 195 and feel great," he said. "I am as hard as nails. I've been doing preliminary work at Hot Springs, and three weeks of gym work and boxing with me in shape for Louis, Max Schmeling or anybody else."

"I'll not only fight Louis if I get the chance, but I'll knock him out," promised Braddock. "He'll be just as easy for the style I'll use tomorrow as he was for Schmeling. He's just as soft for a good right as he ever was."

40,000 Expected At Seattle Game

SEATTLE, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Ray Eckmann, University of Washington athletic director, said today a new football attendance record of 40,000 would be established here Thanksgiving day when the Huskies meet the Washington State college but cougar for the Pacific coast conference championship, and the right to play at the Rose Bowl.

While the Huskies hammered each other in a long scrimmage in the stadium this afternoon, workmen hammered on extra bleachers which will seat an additional 1,500, bringing the total seating capacity of the horsehoe stadium to 33,000. Standing room will permit about 1,000 more.

Master Minds Fail to Click

Can't Even Explain Those Upsets; Huskies Best Says Bob Grayson

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Heard in the huddle:

College football nowadays is "75 per cent fight," in the opinion of Fordham's Jimmy Crowley, which explains to a large extent why his not-so-fierce Rams were held to a 7 to 7 tie by Georgia. . . . Having exhausted most other explanations for the strange things that have happened every week on the collegiate gridiron, coaches are falling back on "old man psychology" for the answer. . . . "The truth," opines New York U's Mal Stevens, "is that we don't know how to explain the blankety-blank game. It looks now as though the best thing to do is to quit all this masterminding and give it back to the boys." . . .

One of the factors reported to be involved in the pending rupture of relations between Notre Dame and Pittsburgh is that Marshall Goldberg, ace Panther ball-carrier, had his registration fee paid at South Bend before he bobbed up in the Pitt camp. . . . Panther sources say he wasn't given any high pressure, that he made up his own mind where he wanted to go. . . .

Bobby Helps Cougars

Washington's Huskies, in the opinion of Stanford's Bob Grayson, 1935 All-American star, are far and away the best team on the west coast. . . . "They are two touchdowns better than Santa Clara, the only remaining unbeaten-untied major league team in the country," Grayson told the Football Writers' association luncheon today, "and should beat Washington State." . . . All of which may be a good boost for the Cougars, based on the way favorites have taken it on the chin. . . . Grayson, now a member of the Stanford coaching staff, came east to "plug" the Indians' return match this Saturday with their Rose Bowl conqueror, Columbia. . . .

All the season needs now to make it the dustiest of all time is for Tulane to beat Louisiana State, Carnegie to upset Pittsburgh and Cornell to lick Pennsylvania.

Stiner to Shoot Works, Portland

CORVALLIS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Coach Lon Stiner of Oregon State college, heartened by his team's 18 to 0 victory over the University of Oregon last week end, said today he would "shoot the works through the air" in the battle with the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers in Portland Saturday.

The Beavers and Cornhuskers put on a battle royal a year ago when the latter, by virtue of a touchdown in the fading minutes of the game took their fourth consecutive win over the Oregonians, 26 to 20.

Coach Stiner said the Beavers probably would be at full strength for the intersectional clash at Portland.

When Whitman plays Willamette Thursday afternoon at least four of the starting eleven will be veterans of that second "Whitman massacre" which took place on Sweetland field two years ago. They haven't forgotten that 75 to 0 scalping they took at the hands of Big Chief Dick Weisgerber and Little Chief Oravee and all the brave Bearcat braves. Not by a long shot.

Al Dietz was one of those. He was the only Missionary who made yardage that day and a lot of it he made while his face was streaming with blood from a bad cut over an eye. It was Dietz, we think, who, late in the game, when an official, with a penalty coming up, asked him what he wanted to do, replied, "I want to go home."

Alex Dietz is the big threat of the Whitman attack and, take our word for it, it's a formidable attack. Al Dietz is aching to get back on the Bearcats and so are the rest of the boys that played in that terrible affair of 1934. Klavans, Whitman's regular center, was one of them. So was Captain Barnes, a tackle, and Sawyer, a guard. There are others for Whitman that year had nearly a 100 per cent freshman club. Those lads are juniors now and they say, of all football players juniors are the most dangerous.

It has been four years since Whitman scored on Willamette but Willamette had some terribly bad years before that. The Bearcats could clean up on everybody else some years and still be toppled by Whitman. It got to be one of those jim crow things and Willamette would have given anything for a win over the Missionaries.

Willamette sensed victory in 1929, the year when Walt Erickson was, as a freshman, beginning to perform his gridiron feat. Prosperity hadn't yet gone to hide around the corner and the student body chartered a train to take an excursion party to Whitman. There all afternoon the Willamette students kept ringing out in long drawn out tones their battle cry, "Whip Whitman." The Bearcats took the words as a command and did win 40 to 13, cracking the jim crow after nine years. So the "Whip Whitman" banquet became a tradition and tonight Willamette students will again get ready to "Whip Whitman."

Salem people may get a chance to see Luke Gill's basketball team in action against the Bearcats hoopers this season. Luke Gill, who played basketball at Salem high with his brother "Slats" Gill and later coached there, is basketball coach at the University of Hawaii. Received from him yesterday at Willamette was notification that the University of Hawaii basketball team will barnstorm the coast. Willamette was offered the first Oregon appearance of the Wake Waki boys.

They can't keep Larry Kelley off the All-American team. He says so himself. And he's about right, judging from the comments of eastern sport-writers. Kelley is one of those rare linemen who can make line play colorful to the average crowd. In fact half the crowds that go to see Yale play don't go to see Yale but to watch Larry Kelley. Kelley may be a grandstander but if he is he's one of the best in the business. He plays a lot of and for Yale.

Kelley is one of those one-man football teams that mak the sportswriters say: The score was Brown 8, Larry Kelley 14. He catches passes with one hand while warning up just to impress his opponents. He's good and knows it. Last year when Yale played Princeton Kelley saw a Princeton backfield substitute coming into the game. The umpire didn't quite get the sub's name when he reported and asked again, whereupon Kelley piped up, "He's probably reporting for me. I've been playing in the Princeton backfield all afternoon."

Fighting a Gridiron War

PHILADELPHIA'S gigantic Municipal Stadium, which seats over 100,000 spectators, will be the scene this week-end of that always colorful pigskin classic, the Army-Navy grid warfare.

This intercollegiate strife between Uncle Sam's military institutions is always savagely fought, and is usually a very good football game regardless of the comparative strength of the two eleven. The records always run for our good friends

Sweeney when these ancient rivals clash on the white-striped football turf.

Navy, which dropped three important games in a row earlier in the season, is not nearly as weak as these results might indicate. The Middles outplayed both Yale and Princeton, only to lose these games through bad breaks. They played the burly and powerful Penn veterans to a standstill, but weren't able to stave off defeat. Rightly figuring that this streak of adverse luck couldn't continue indefinitely, the Sailors played for the breaks against Notre Dame, and Lady Luck finally showed them her smile.

Army's record is almost the reverse of the Annapolis crew, as the West Pointers were off to a flying start, only to taste defeat for the first time at the hands of the much-better Colgate team.

Backfield stars are expected to sparkle in Philly Saturday with Army's elusive Monk Meyer and speedy Jim Craig pitting their skill against the adept, booting and inspired running of Sneed Schmidt and Navy Bill Ingram, 2nd.
