on the 1936 agricultural conservation program in Oregon, although plans for 1937 have not been announced, according to N. C. Donaldson, executive secretary. The strate committee has completed its work in setting the total county soil-depleting bases and forwarded its recommendations to Washington for the ap-

Further progress is reported proval of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. As soon as approval has been obtained, the state committee will certify to each county committee the total county soil-depleting base for the county. It will then be the duty of the county committee to adjust the indi-vidual farm soil-depleting bases to whatever extent may be necessary to make them balance with the total county soil-depleting base. When this has been done aand the work checked by the sttate committee, the individual applications for grants can be made out.

Problems Are Many Plans for the 1937 agricultural conservation program involve a number of problems. One of the problems, according to AAA Administrator H. R. Tolley, is to get plan which will fit in with the situation in the drought states. Other problems have been presented in the suggestions made in community meetings held all over tthe county. These suggestions and problems are being threshed out in a conference with For New Lockers threshed out in a conference with representatives from the states.

Some consideration is also being given to the 1938 program which should perhaps be referred to as the 1938 state programs, As the federal law now stands, each individual state will have to work out a plan for carrying on the soil conservation work after January 1, 1938, in a way which will meet with the approval of the secretary of agriculture.
