Home Economics Students Fine Menu Studies Interesting .

SILVERTON, Dec. 7 - Future households are not going to have quite as heavy food-cost worries, of the findings in the home economics classes of the Silverton high school are carried into home

With the belief that preparing the meal and serving it is but half, and the small half, of kitchen economics, Miss Elizabeth Jay, instructor, is putting her home managing group through a stiff course in meal planning and marketing, with emphasis on attractive meals at low cost. Her classes are divided into three groups, each group plans. markets, prepares and serves its own dinner. One group was redivided into three, with three different menus planned, prepared and served at the cost of 18 cents

General chairman of this group was Bernice Gay, with sub-chairman Marjorie Kaufman, Emily Hari and Paul Lightfoot,

Group of 22 Served Menus were prepared for 22 and served, the group being Virginia Anderson, Mildred Bailie, Lucile Benson, Pearl Brooks, Ethel Burroughs, Cleo Canoy, Wreva Devericks, Neva Donnell, Vala El-liott, Bernice Gay, Emily Hari, Annabelle Jensen, Marjorie Kauf-man, Pauline Lightfoot, Laone Matheny, Amelia Maurer, Delia Meek, Virginia Meek, Shirley Olsen, Anne Seneb, Joy West, and Gladys Zetterberg.

Menu number one contained beef patties, scalloped potatoes, buttered beets, rolls, applenut salad, peach whip; No. 2, meat balls, potatoes and gravy, carrot and peas, fruit salad, pickles, rolls, chocolate pudding, cocoa; No. 3. meat loaf, mashed potatoes, scalloped corn, banana salad, rolls, peaches with whipped cream, co-

Second Cost 20 Cents The next lowest-cost menu was served for 20 cents a plate, consisted of beef roast with sage dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, creamed corn, applenut salad, bread and butter, tea and coffee and chocolate cake.
