County Pays Burks—Sheriff A. C. Burk paid yesterday he had received the long-delayed payment of deferred board bills for jail inmates which the county court balked at meeting last fall.

The payment, $286.80, was for bills to January 1. County Judge Siegmund ordered to paying jail fare costs for seven prisoners whose sentences Governor Martin commuted from state prison to the county jail. Attorney General I. H. Van Kinkle ruled, however, that the governor's act was legal. District Attorney Lyle J. Pace late last week ruled in his opinion "that the county is liable for the maintenance of all prisoners lawfully confined in the county jail."

Hayesville Pupils Well—Receiving a report from Lillian Shaner, primary teacher, that few pupils at the Hayesville school had been ill during the current wave of colds and influenza, Mary L. Fulkerson, county school superintendent, yesterday attributed the healthful condition there as due in large part to the serving of hot lunches to the children at noon. Late last fall through the WPA it was arranged that wages for cooks to serve hot lunches would be made available to rural schools whose patrons asked for this type of project.

James St. Clair of the Valley Motor Co.'s Marion St. used car lot has transferred to the Center St. used car dept. in the main bldg.

He said, however, the charge would be held in abeyance for use should no action be taken against Creason in Tacoma, or in Portland where he is wanted on an auto theft charge.

Reports that Creason had posed as a federal officer fished with information at the sheriff's office here. Sheriff Burk said Creason was reported to have posed similarly here but as his commission was able to present only an inscription added to his automobile operator's license.

Most of Desirable Property Is Sold
Virtually all the desirable farm property owned by the county took over by tax foreclosure last year has been disposed of, Thielsen said. Remaining acreage is largely outcrover land in the mountains in the eastern part of the county. The more than 800 parcels of town and city property which the county still possesses are not attracting much attention from buyers at present. In many instances municipal liens exceed the value of the lots.

"We have lots in every city in Marion county and almost all of the town of Gates for sale," Thielsen added.

Memorial Due Out Thursday

Townsend Request Delays Due to Illness, Senate Committee Men Say

Illness of several members of the senate resolutions committee has delayed that group in getting the Townsend old age pension memorial out onto the floor of the senate. Senator Strayer, chairman of the committee, said Saturday. The memorial was passed by the house of representatives more than ten days ago. "Several members of our committee have been ill," Strayer declared, and it has not been possible to hold a meeting.

He indicated that the resolution would be considered by the committee early this week and might be reported out by Thursday. Members of the committee denied emphatically that the memorial was being held up purposely.

Five Bills Ready
Six senate and two house bills are scheduled for third reading when the legislature reconvenes at 11 a. m. Monday after the week-end recess.

The important senate bill, by Senator Burke, provides that an officer arresting a drunken driver will no longer be required to call a physician to examine the suspect. This amendment has received the unanimous approval of Oregon peace officers.

Officers declared that delays in obtaining the services of a physician had handicapped enforcement of the drunken drivers law.

Another bill on third reading in the senate makes more flexible the opening and closing of commercial fishing seasons on the Columbia river. This bill was introduced by Senator Francisovich and had received approval of most of the fishing interests.

Bond Change Sought
Three other senate bills authorize the issuance of callable bonds instead of those with fixed maturities. These bills affect the state, counties, municipalities and school districts. All of these bills were drafted by the state treasurer and were introduced by Senator Angell.

State Treasurer Holman predicted that the passage of these bills would save the state and its subdivisions many thousands of dollars annually in interest charges.

A bill by the senate agricultural committee would unify the operations of the state agricultural department as far as bookkeeping is concerned.

Neither of the two bills on third reading in the house Monday is of great importance.

One of these bills, by Representative Turner, increases the authority of the state engineer to withdraw water. The other bill, by the irrigation and drainage committee, relates to the (P) Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler, sitting in the rear of a boat propelled by an outboard motor, toured the state reformatory today and told 2,900 flood marooned prisoners "to hold a tight line."

"This is a hell of a mess," he shouted to the stranded prisoners who shortly before had threatened to riot after a day and night spent in dark and heatless cells. "But I'm going to get you out and take care of you. Just sit tight and keep your chins up."

Immediately after the inspection trip Chandler ordered the prison evacuated and the convicts temporarily quartered in a camp.

Bob Brownell Now R. O. T. C. Corporal

Promotion Given 25 in War Units at O. S. C. as Vacancies Filled

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 23.—Robert Brownell, Salem, who received the promotion of cadet corporal in the engineer unit, was one of the 25 students in the three units of the state college R.O.T.C. to receive commissions or promotions announced here yesterday by Colonel P. C. Test, commandant.

These vacancies were due to the fact that a number of students completed their military work or won commissions in the organized reserves at the end of the fall term, Colonel Test stated.

The most important changes were the promotion of Hal Higgs, editor of the college daily from Cadre, to the lieutenant colonel post of the infantry unit and the advancement of Lawrence Hoover, Hood River, to the position of lieutenant colonel of the engineers. Hoover is taking the place of Charles Ruzick, Corvallis, who was recently appointed cadet colonel of the regiment.

Among students named in the promotion list were: Infantry unit, Sol Durbin, Corvallis, cadet second lieutenant; Alan L. Shepard, Silverton, cadet corporal; Edwin Woodcock, Corvallis, cadet sergeant.

Field artillery unit: Charles Sampson, Corvallis, cadet first sergeant, and Maurice Thomas, Corvallis, cadet first lieutenant.

Influenza and Suffering Now

Carrollton, Ky., Wholly Under Water as Well as Other Cities

houses were closed. A food and fuel shortage existed.

Louisville, Ky., Cairo, Ill., Portsmouth, O., Ashland, Ky., and several other towns along the Ohio were notified the river would not reach its crest until sometime between Sunday and Thursday.

Pittsburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., had the only encouraging reports. Flood waters in the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio were receding in Pittsburgh after the city had experienced the third worst inundation in its history. Wheeling was told by meteorologists that the Ohio had reached its crest there, 46.3 feet.

In Washington congressmen representing the Ohio river valley tentatively agreed to seek an appropriation of $250,000,000 for flood control and prevention projects already authorized but for which no fund had been created.

President Roosevelt issued a proclamation asking the nation to contribute $2,000,000 for the relief of the homeless. He ordered federal agencies to lend their full assistance.

Spurred by pleas for aid, money trains, boats, trucks and planes sped food, fuel, medicine and bedding to the inundated areas. Some 20,000 WPA workers were rushed to flood centers. Midwestern directors were ready to assign 50,000 more to help the growing army of men, women and children forced to evacuate in snow, sleet and freezing temperatures.

Scores of communities were without heat, gas or light. A drinking water shortage developed. Pneumonia and influenza were reported rife in several stricken towns. Many communities were isolated. Hundreds of householders were marooned. "Shoot down looters," officials ordered police and national guardsmen patrolling flooded districts.

Tax Delinquency Lowest in Years

Tax delinquency in Marion county has reached its lowest point since 1932, comparison of Sheriff A. C. Burk's annual report to the county court with tax statistics of other years showed yesterday.

With $1,155,113.57 unpaid in taxes from all years as of the close of 1936, the county was roughly $118,330 or 9.8 per cent ahead of December 31, 1935. The current delinquency also was $106,257 less than on the same date in 1934 and $117,564 less than on December 31, 1933. The delinquency on that date in 1932 was $1,038,504.35, or $126,609.22 less than it was at the close of 1936.

Unpaid tax balances at the end of the year since 1929 have compared as follows: Year 1929, $347,284.45; 1930, $437,504.79; 1931, $707,099.84; 1932, $1,028,504.35; 1933, $1,272,676.93; 1934, approximate, $1,381,369.69; 1935, $1,275,442.95; 1936, $1,155,113.57.

Of the 1936 delinquency, a sizeable portion is represented by property which the county has taken over by foreclosure and will sell to reduce the tax shortage.
