Superintendent Snowed In—Mary L. Fulkerson, county school superintendent, remained at home yesterday, unable to come into the city because of snow blocking the side road to her residence on the hill south of Salem. Wayne Harding, rural school supervisor, who lives on an adjoining road, was able to get into town after helping neighbors clear a passage-way for automobiles. Harlan Judd, circuit court clerk, also managed to reach the city yesterday afternoon from his home in the Liberty district.

Classes Empty—Opining that he guessed Salem people were getting enough exercise at home shoveling snow, Gus Moore, Y. M. C. A. physical director, reported yesterday that nearly all of his classes at the Y were devoid of pupils this week. Only the noon businessmen's class brought out a near normal quota of men. Closing of schools the first two days of the week sent a large number of boys to the Y for recreation and made up for the lack of regular class pupils.

Attention Eagles! No meeting Wednesday night.

Burk Speaks, Agents—Sheriff A. C. Burk discussed his accident prevention program yesterday at the Salem Insurance Agents luncheon at the Quella. He recently outlined recommendations for prevention of accidents in a pamphlet which is now being distributed widely over the county.

Schools Not Damaged—Snow did no damage to Salem schools although workmen were kept busy shoveling snow off roofs of schools where it was feared weight of further snow might be disastrous. # Time Recorder Irks Lawyers

Have to Watch Order of Filing Papers Now; Courts Inactive

The automatic time-recording stamp which County Clerk U. G. Boyer installed in his office last week in the belief it would be an improvement in service has caused considerable comment of which not all has been praise.

Several attorneys have complained loudly over the machines, which stamps the time as well as the date on which court papers are filed. Members of Boyer's staff, however, point out that if there were complaint it was because the standard legal procedure was not being followed. The law specifically provides for the order in which summons and other documents in connection with court work must be filed, they said, and the objections are largely from lawyers who have been in the habit of making their filings in wrong order, knowing that only the date would appear on the stamp under the old system.

With court room work halted because of the weather, filings continued light at the clerk's office yesterday.

Circuit Court—George Keech vs. Ben, John A. and Charles Gehlen; order releasing attachment on plaintiff's motion.

Laura A. George estate; petition of Jessie Richard George for admission of estate to probate and appointment of Chalmers Lee George as administrator.

Revival Continues—The revival services conducted by Dr. Harry O. Anderson of Los Angeles in the Calvary Baptist church, Ferry and South High street, continue each night this week at 7:30 o'clock regardless of weather conditions. Last night the evangelist spoke on the subject, "The Potter's House" or "Mr. Hes Ben Baptist." Tonight will be church night.

Health Schedule—The Marion county health department schedule for the remainder of the week: Wednesday, school examinations at Bush school; school clinic at the health department offices; Thursday, school examinations at Bush school; pre-school clinic at the health department; Saturday, immunization clinic at the health department.

Report Mishaps—Two minor automobile accidents attributed directly or indirectly to snow were reported to the sheriff's office yesterday. They involved Lester Arnold Browning, route three, and Paul A. Lee, route four, on Skyline road; Charles Peckover, Salem, and an unnamed motorist, one-quarter mile south of Woodburn.

Institute Postponed—Postponement of the teachers' institute scheduled for Woodburn Saturday was announced at the county school superintendent's office yesterday. A new date will be announced when the weather clears up and travel is easier.

ARTHITIS—Dear Sir: I have a chronic case of Arthritis for almost 20 years, hardly able to move without great deal of pain. After taking 11 bottles of Casey's Compound, I can again get around and do part of my house work. The pain is gradually leaving me. I give full credit to Casey's Compound.—MRS. ## Two Major Companies on Verge of War, All Because Freddie Likes Shirley and Snubs Jane

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 2.—(P)—Three of the world's most famous children—Shirley Temple, Freddie Bartholomew and Jane Withers—are figuratively making faces over the back fence today and yelling:

"Yah, yah, yah, my studio can lick your studio!"

Actually it appeared that two major film companies, M-G-M and 20th Century-Fox, were on the verge of war over an alleged exchange of snubs between the younger generation. 20th Century-Fox executives claim that Freddie started it.

Jane Is Snubbed—They said they asked him recently if he would escort Jane Withers to the premiere of the picture, "Lloyd's London," in which she starred. His reply, they continued, was delivered in precise Oxonian accents and was: "I'd rather not go at all than go with that dame."

They said he made other remarks about the 13-year-old former S. A. T. C. Clara Mullen football player, formed around Shirley, blocking out Freddie and the M-G-M delegation escorting him.

"No Withers—no Temple," 20th Century-Fox forces said, meaningly.

None of the principals would comment today.

Two Major Companies on Verge of War, All Because Freddie Likes Shirley and Snubs Jane

"It was all right with us if he didn't want to go with Jane," Brand said. "But he didn't have to make that crack about Jane's box-office ratings. She rates 11th nationally, and where does he rate; yeah, let him answer that. Where does he rate?"

Story Spreads—Eventually, Jane's mother heard about the incident, and was deeply chagrined, Brand said. Gradually it became bruited about Hollywood.

The climax came last Saturday night at the president's birthday ball, attended by Master Bartholomew and Shirley Temple, who was unconscious of all the strife.

Brand said that Freddie spotted Miss Temple having her picture taken and made a bee-line for her. He wanted to be with Shirley and he wanted to have his picture taken with her, Brand said.

At a quick command, studio agent, headed by Jack Mullen, former S. A. T. C. Clara Mullen football player, formed around Shirley, blocking out Freddie and the M-G-M delegation escorting him.
