tournament before there was any separate B classification and knocked over several top notch A teams. This is a different team, of course, but Athena has the reputation of being tough.

While the winning B team goes into the semi-finals of the big race for the state championship it is the A games that are the big factors in deciding that a lot will be decided the first day.

From the first A game at 3 o'clock between Franklin and Millwaukie to the last at 9:30 between Lincoln and North Bend anything can happen.

Three Good Teams to Go Out First Day
There are Eugene and Astoria pitted against each other in the 4 o'clock contest. Eugene, with a team that has at times looked like a veritable champion, has been often named as the favorite to beat. Astoria, a fixture at state tournaments, has another dashing team this year that is the choice of the Columbia river fans for the championship. The Eugene-Astoria game will be the highlight of the first day's program.

Singularly, drawings for tournament positions brought together in three consecutive games teams from neighboring districts. Klamath Falls and Ashland meet in the 5 o'clock game. McLoughlin of Milton-Freewater and LaGrande in the 7:30 contest and Salem and McMinnville in the 8:30 game.

Three Close Games
In Succession Likely
In those three games, following closely on one another, the opposing teams are of about equal strength. Klamath Falls and Ashland have both played consistent winning basketball throughout the season. McLoughlin has been the class of north central Oregon while LaGrande has a team said to be one of the best eastern Oregon quints ever to make the tournament journey.

Salem and McMinnville split a pair of games in their regular season. Salem won 25 to 23 at McMinnville and McMinnville won 32 to 29 at Salem.
Lincoln of Portland and North Bend will wind up the first day's program at 9:30. Lincoln finished second in the Portland interscholastic league, thus winning a position as Portland's second tournament entry that has been lucky for Portland teams in the past. Portland's second entries have usually gone farthest in the tournament than the number one team.

Teams will begin arriving here Tuesday and will be housed at Salem hotels.

mayor and the chief of police of Portland to file with me their written pledge that the money to pay police and fire pension funds shall not be derived from a tax levy on the citizens of Portland but shall come exclusively from miscellaneous receipts.

"Having received these pledges I am happy to approve this bill." House bill 438, by the alcoholic traffic committee was introduced in the house early in the legislative session and was the subject of several public hearings. Two chain stores were said to have opposed the measure.

The amendment was requested by the state liquor control commission.

Approval also was given H.B. 287, by Representative Wagner, providing for a special license on trucks operated on public relief projects.

Governor Martin vetoed H.B. 482, by Representative Novak, appropriating $600 for the relief of Herman Rohde. Rohde alleged that he was unjustly denied compensation by the state industrial accident commission.

The time for approving, disapproving or filing bills with the secretary of state to become a law at the expiration of 90 days, expired last night.

Ashurst said farm and labor leaders probably will be heard. He said he expected John L. Lewis and William Green, rival labor leaders, to testify for the bill.

Jungle Peril on African Run Increased by Floods

Swollen rivers and floods in Africa couldn't stop a record breaking official run from Johannesburg to London, made in a Plymouth sedan. Those who got through in 19 1/2 days, more than halving the former record, were Bonnie du Toit, former race driver, and J. Gieseler, Johannesburg newspaperman. Their route covered actual roads only one-third of the distance. Twice they were delayed by lions. They crossed the Sahara in 88 hours, a new record. Plymouth cars are sold in Salem by W. L. Anderson, Inc., Salem Automobile Co. and Herrall-Owens Co.

Building Program Is Eyed By Board

erty and $550,000 for a building or buildings.

Another bill gives the state highway commission authority to use its surplus funds for the construction of an office building on the capitol site.

The third bill authorizes the board of control to purchase an office building in Portland or purchase land and erect a building there. This bill carried no appropriation.

Sponsors of this measure proposed that the cost of the building be paid out of rentals. The Oregon building already has been offered to the state on a rental basis.

Officials indicated that no definite decision would be reached for several months.

The first action of the capitol construction commission and board of control will be that of appraising the property to be purchased under the legislative authorization. In case the prices of the various properties are too high the state probably would resort to condemnation.

Officials agreed that not more than two blocks of residence property under consideration can be purchased out of the $300,000 appropriation.

3000 Tuberculin Tests Given Here

Health Department Aided By Tuberculosis Seal Funds in Project

Nearly 3000 tuberculin tests have been given in schools of Salem and Marion county since January 1, which total is already greater than the entire work accomplished during 1935, according to figures released yesterday.

The testing program is carried on by the Marion county department of health and made possible from use of funds given the department for this specific purpose from the annual tuberculosis seal sale, which is sponsored by the Marion county public health association.

The figures show that 1671 boys and girls were given the tests in Salem schools and 1314 in county schools outside Salem, with the Salem children showing a 7.2 per cent positive reaction and the county children showing 9.4 per cent positive.

Figures Are Given
In event of positive tests, the health department follows up not only the school child's case, but studies the contacts, if any, in the child's home. Persons in the home are urged—and for the most part are anxious—to come to the health department for tuberculosis tests. On basis of the 1935 tests, follow-ups will be carried to 233 families.

A break-down of the tuberculosis tests given school children so far this year shows positive reactions to tuberculosis more prevalent in the county grade schools than in the Salem grade schools, the respective percentages being 9 and 2.9 per cent.

Positive tests resulted in 10.0 per cent of the work done in the Salem junior high schools, and the same figure prevailed in the senior high school in Salem.

High School Higher
In the Salem senior high school, 199 boys showed 11.5 per cent positive, considerably higher than the 9 per cent positive showed by 233 girls' tests. The junior high completion is even higher for the boys, 12.7 per cent of 343 boys showing positive, as against 9 per cent of the 263 girls' tests. Boys were also higher in the Salem grade schools, 356 boys' tests showing 8.3 per cent positive and 367 girls' tests, 2.4 per cent positive.

In county high schools, 155 boys tested 10 per cent positive and 184 girls, 8 per cent positive. Results in county grade schools: 427 boys, 9 per cent positive; 408 girls, 9 per cent.

In the tuberculin tests now under way, the health department aims to reach every first grader and every new child in the schools of the city and county.

By planting a lawn in front of the school has been started by the boys in the upper grade room.

Anderson Is New Agent For Willys

Realizes Ambition After 18 Years Experience in Auto Business

Vernon E. Anderson has fulfilled a long-standing ambition in opening an automobile agency in Salem, he declared yesterday. He is head of the Anderson Auto company, 240 South High street, local dealer in Willys cars.

Eighteen years in the automobile retail and wholesale business and in general finance enterprises, Anderson has had a broad experience in executive positions with which to back up his enterprise here. He recently sold an automobile business which he had conducted at Vancouver, Wash., for 3 1/2 years as agent for Willys and two other lines of motorcars.

Anderson's company is equipped for complete servicing and carries a full stock of Willys parts, for which the firm will be distributor in this territory.

Salem's reception to the 1937 line of Willys cars has been gratifying, Anderson said. Some of the reasons, he explained, are the outstanding Willys features in this year's models: Six-passenger sedan, standard width tread, safety steel body, non-shattering glass, vibrationless motor and a marked increase in economy over the already well known low operation cost of earlier models.

"Willys is now the only motorcar having the same tread front and rear," Anderson declared. "You can cruise all day long in this car at 50 to 65 miles an hour and at no speeds do you notice vibrations, due to patented motor mountings."

Indication of the demand for the Willys is the fact that capacity of the new Willys plant at Toledo, O., will be doubled by addition of two more assembly lines late this month.

Willys now offers standard and deluxe coupe models and three types of delivery bodies as well as the six-passenger sedan.
