

Bellfountain's Boys Win Title

Little Fellows Get Lead Early and Increase it as Game Proceeds hands of smiling Dr. Bruce Baxter, Bellfountain took in succession the glittering championship trophy, then the B team championship trophy and finally Richard Kessler, Bellfountain's center, went forward to get the trophy for being the outstanding sportsman of the tournament. Last year it went to Harrison Wallace, Bellfountain guard, and if the Bellfountain boys had more years to play another one would probably get it.

Only Four Fouls Are Called on Champs

They play basketball, those Bellfountain boys, and they play it within the rules. There were only four personal fouls called on Bellfountain in a championship game.

Bellfountain spotted Lincoln the tip-off advantage by six inches, spotted them height everywhere else and then went out and beat the socks off of Lincoln.

Even towering height around the basket and a zone defense that had stopped three other teams couldn't dampen the effect of Bellfountain's swift and accurate passing into the scoring area. It doesn't seem to make any difference to Bellfountain how tough the defense is. They beat it anyway. That Bellfountain was getting good shots last night was shown in the figures. Bellfountain took 35 shots and scored on 10 of them while Lincoln, which found Bellfountain's zone defense just as baffling as its own had been to other teams, took 64 shots to get nine field goals.

Stanley Fish Before Lincoln Gets Any

They just go out and get those points. They got five before Lincoln scored. They had nine before Lincoln scored again and they led 9 to 4 at the end of the first period.

Lincoln couldn't figure an offense that whipped lightning passes right under its nose and then up and in. Lincoln couldn't figure a defense that not only checked them way out of scoring range but which intercepted their passes and fouled them up on their backs into the foul circle.

It was the same combination which beat Franklin the night before; Wallace to handle the ball in the back court and whip it in for almost certain shots, Kessler to take them under the basket, Stan Buckingham to break around in and under, Larkin to pot them from the corners.

It was partly Bellfountain's unerring accuracy on field goals, he kind that made nearly every third shot a pay-off, which beat Franklin but the thing that hit the Portlanders heaviest was their own desperate efforts to stop Bellfountain only put Bellfountain farther ahead.

15 Points Scored Upon Free Throws

Fouling frequently in its attempts to get the ball from Bellfountain, Lincoln saw the kids from Benton county calmly pot penalty shot after penalty shot. Bellfountain scored on 15 out of 17 free throws, a phenomenal record. And Bellfountain gave Lincoln little opportunity to do likewise.

It went, the Bellfountain attack never faltering, until the Giant-killers led the baffled Lincolns 18 to 8 at the half.

Kessler's field goal made it 20 to 8 as the half started and Hansen, Lincoln guard, matched it with another. Stan Buckingham slipped in a field goal to make it 22 to 10 and then, for the first time in the tournament, Bellfountain seemed to be losing ground as Lincoln opened with a rally which produced two field goals and a free throw before the third period ended 22 to 15.

Another Lincoln field goal by Reynolds and Lincoln trailed only 17 to 22 as the Portlanders seemed to regain fire and begin to believe that all was not as bad as it seemed.

Bellfountain seemed to be stopped. Except for a pair of free throws they hadn't scored since the middle of the second period. Obscure Guard Sets Off Fireworks Anew

It was Frank Buckingham, least mentioned of all the Bellfountain players, who snatched right between two Lincoln players to sink a cripple on an out-of-bounds play. It was a play which made Bellfountain look again like the smart basketball foxes they are and for another time made Lincoln look foolish.

That play turned the tide in Bellfountain's favor again and they were off. Kessler sank two free throws as Sitton, who had three personal fouls on him in the opening minutes of the game, finally collected his fourth personal. Frank Buckingham sank a free throw and that made it 31 to 17.

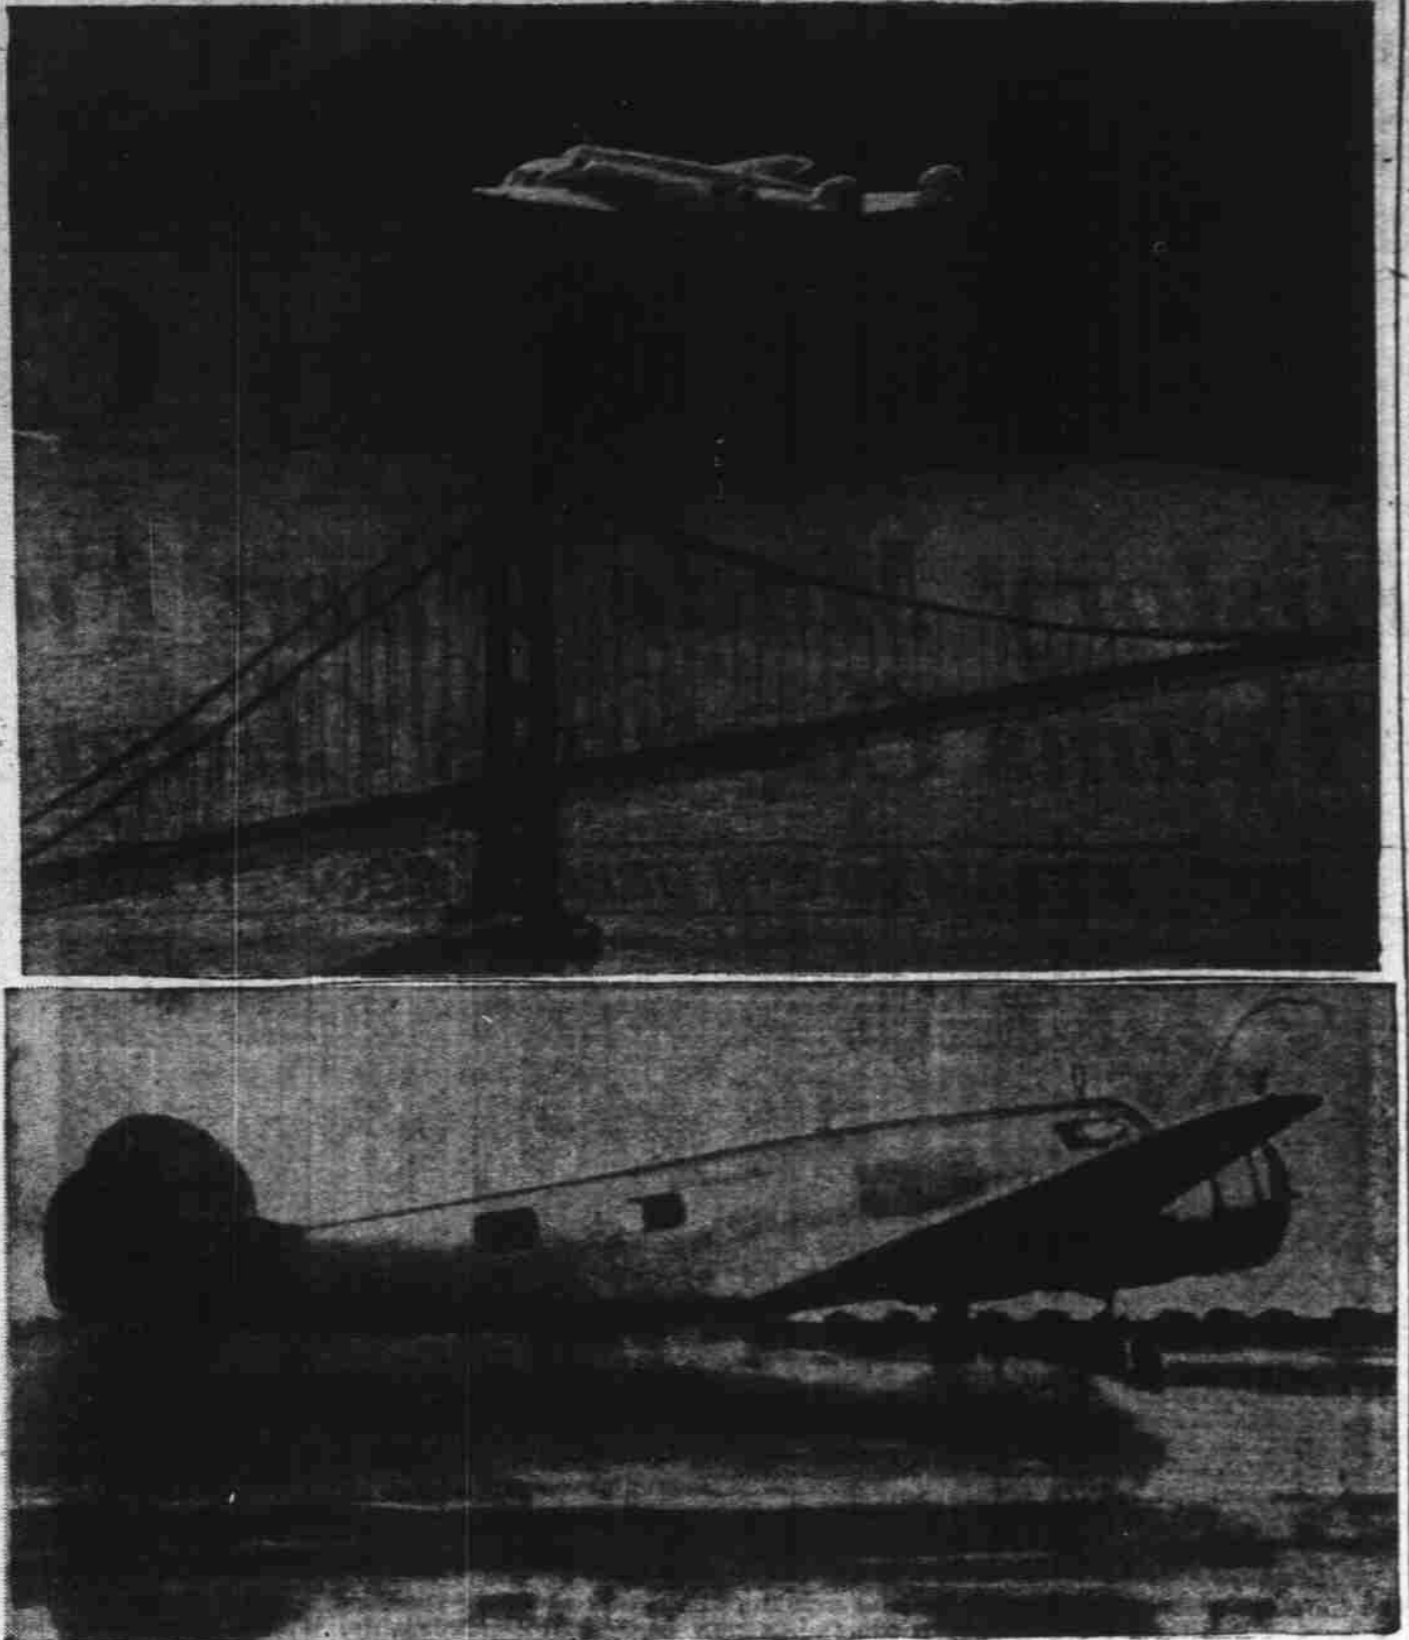

The rest was all Bellfountain as the team which never gives up trying to put the ball through the little iron hoop rolled up four more points in the closing minutes of the game to match Lincoln's three.

Richard "Bunny" Kessler, contributed 13 points to his team's victory, nine of them from making good on every one of nine free throw attempts. Franklin Comeback Beats McLoughlin

Franklin high, bouncing back after the terrific beating it took Friday from Bellfountain, was a fighting outfit again as it defeated McLoughlin 35 to 17 for third place.

Hardly as much superior to McLoughlin as the score indicates Franklin won from a team that had lost its heart from suffering one of the worst breaks of the tournament.

Amelia Cracks Up, Unhurt But Trip Spoiled

When Amelia Earhart's "flying laboratory" cracked up during the takeoff at Luke field, Honolulu, Saturday, she and her crew were unscathed but the plane was damaged to such an extent that she was forced to give up the equator-girdling flight around the world. ing 3 to 2, the Portland champs went ahead in the second period as every player scored. They led 13 to 6 at halftime.

Franklin did to McLoughlin what Bellfountain did to Franklin in the third period by holding the Pioneers scoreless and thus obtained some measure of satisfaction.

Stanley Fish, who received the award for being the player most valuable to his team, tried to get the McLoughlin team going as it had against Lincoln but the spark wasn't there until the final period when Mac-Hi scored 11 points to Franklin's eight.

Ryge, hero of Franklin's win over Eugene, scored nine points and Kremers eight in leading the Franklin attack. Lineups: Reynolds 6...F. 3 S. Buck'ham Sitton...F...4 Larkin Neill 5...F...13 Kessler Olshen 4...G...5 Wallace Hansen 5...G...4 F. Buck'ham Substitutes: for Lincoln, Masters 1.

with political matters — brought neither confirmation nor denial of the Sunday Referee's report.

"We are not in a position to give any information," the duty officer there said. "We have no statement whatever to make."

The newspaper reported that the greatest secrecy was being maintained over the identity of the man being questioned. It added it was likely no statement would be issued until Scotland Yard completed its inquiries.

It said many persons were being questioned and inquiries were being made all over London in an effort to check up on the man's movements.

Two Block Chase Precedes Arrest

It took a two-block chase at 65 miles an hour with siren screaming by a Salem officer last night before Leonard Edwin Schaffer, Route 7, Salem, was placed under arrest for reckless driving.

The officer started trailing the car at Union street on Capitol and succeeded in stopping the car at Market street.

Three other arrests were made last night by city police for violation of the basic rule. Those arrested were Archie Barnes Cato, Portland, Irwin Burk, 1595 South High street, and Joseph Ormel Bailey, Route 2, Salem, also charged with failing to stop.

New Courthouse Dedication Held

OREGON CITY, March 20—(P)—The new Clackamas county courthouse was formally dedicated this afternoon with some 1500 persons attending the ceremony. Circuit Judge E. C. Latourette, in the principal address, asked the people to have faith in the government and supported the president's proposal to increase the membership of the supreme court.

sion of the constitution, is the gist of the opinion of Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle in reply to an inquiry from Speaker Harry D. Bovin as to the status of the bill.

The bill, which had been returned by the governor with his veto of the emergency clause to the house, where it was laid on the table, should be returned to the governor that he may file it with the secretary of state, is the further advice of the attorney general.

The attorney general notes that the constitution is silent respecting the handling of bills where portions are vetoed, but rules that the governor's procedure was correct in returning the whole bill to the house in which the bill originated for action on the vetoed portion.

He cites the section of the constitution which authorizes the governor to veto items in appropriation bills or the emergency clause on bills, where the phrase is added: "without thereby affecting any other provision of such bill," and rules that the rest of the bill is valid as law unless referred to the people.

The speaker and chief clerk are now expected to transmit the bill to the governor who will file it with the secretary of state. Foes of the legislation are expected to circulate referendum petitions which if sufficient signers are obtained would suspend operation of the law until the next election when the people would pass on it.

Local ministers, aided by more than a hundred pastors from other parts of east Texas, spoke tirelessly from their pulpits while others visited saddened homes to conduct services there.

The ministers did not know when the need for their services would end. Many burials will take place Sunday and plans still were indefinite in several homes.

Aviatix Unhurt But Her Plane Damaged; Sails Homeward by Boat

Mantz, technical adviser, called for Los Angeles on the steamer Malolo, determined to have their plane repaired at its southern California factory preparatory to resuming the projected 27,000 mile world flight.

Hopes to Resume Her Flight Later

Although Miss Earhart gave no outward sign of agitation as she first emerged from the sixth narrow escape of her aviation career, she seemed bedraggled and tired as she hurried up the gangplank to sail.

Miss Earhart's chin went up, however, as the liner moved out to the strains of the inevitable "Aloha Oe."

"I'll be back," she said. "I hope this is only a postponement," she added. "I talked with Mr. Putnam (George Palmer Putnam, her husband, now in Oakland), and he was happy to hear our voices. He said as long as we were safe, nothing else mattered."

The aviatix said the plane would be crated and shipped back to its factory in Los Angeles as soon as possible—probably next week.

sors found themselves confronted with their previous writings, with opposition senators pointing out that they were not in accord with the professor's present views.

Today Pecora produced a speech which Connally delivered in the senate in opposing the confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes. The Texan asserted at that time that it was the duty of the senate to inquire into the general economic viewpoint of nominees to the supreme bench before granting confirmation.

Connally recently has made a point of the contention that the president will seek men of his own economic viewpoint for appointment to the court if the bill passes.

The crowd roared its appreciation.

Mass Meeting on Court Is Monday

Robert H. Maguire, member of the board of governors of the Oregon state bar and distinguished as a leading attorney of Portland, will address a mass meeting at the Salem high school auditorium Monday night on the president's plan for changing the composition of the United States supreme court.

The meeting has been called by a volunteer citizens' committee deeply concerned over the president's proposal. Mr. Maguire, who is opposed to the president's program, will present the case against that plan.

The hour of the meeting is eight o'clock and the public is invited to attend and hear the address of Mr. Maguire. The meeting is entirely non-partisan.

Walter C. Winslow, Salem attorney, will introduce the speaker. The committee which has organized the meeting is composed of Mrs. S. M. Lawes, Prof. Ray Smith, Tinkham Gilbert, Mrs. C. C. Geer, Mrs. C. A. Stacy, C. A. Sprague, Dr. B. F. Pound, J. S. Murray.

Plane Passenger Leaps in Suicide

BURBANK, Calif., March 20.—(AP)—United Air Lines officials announced tonight Anatol Maren, 30, of San Francisco had broken open an emergency exit window and leaped to his death from one of their airlines which left there at 7 o'clock tonight.

Stewardess Myra Sawdy said the passenger questioned her about the emergency window. Later, as they were flying over a mountainous area about 30 miles southeast of Coalinga, she noticed Maren's seat was empty. The ship was then flying at about 11,000 feet.

Miss Sawdy called Pilot Eddie Brooks, who found the glass which had to be broken to reach the safety window catch was shattered and a wire which held the catch also broken, he said. Brooks reported he found Maren's coat with a whisky bottle in one pocket in Maren's seat.

A hearing by an examiner for the national labor relations board into charges of discrimination by Montgomery Ward & Co., was in recess until Monday but A. Norman Somers, board attorney, predicted that "important evidence along different lines" would be offered and the hearing probably will end "somewhat sooner" than expected.

He did not elaborate. Somers attempted to show Friday that the company employed operatives to report store and union activities.

A dispute at the Oregon Worsted Mills, where some 300 employees are on strike, will be discussed again Monday by representatives of both sides. Roy T. Bishop, company president, said "almost any agreement which may be reached by the two groups will be agreeable to us."

William Chapman Found in Oakland

William Chapman, 1010 Oak street, who disappeared from his home here at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, was located yesterday in Oakland, California. This information was received by Mrs. Chapman in a telegram received by Mrs. Chapman last night.

Chapman once suffered from loss of memory and it was feared that he might again be an amnesia victim. No details relating to his being located were revealed in the telegram.
