Victoria Chapter, Turner, Entertains; Barber Builds Store

TURNER, April 1.—Victoria Chapter of Eastern Star entertained the district meeting Wednesday with Mrs. Myrtle Peterson, worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Oregon, present on her official visit. Mrs. Nellie McKinley, grand secretary and Mrs. Winifred Herrick, worthy matron of Chadwick chapter of Salem, were also present. Mrs. Peterson was presented with flowers. Members from Stayton and Mill City were present. Those contributing to the evening's entertainment were: Mrs. Hester Crane and Will Ogilby, worthy matron and worthy patron of Victoria chapter, Turner; Mrs. Bessie Allen and H. M. Aspinwall, worthy matron and worthy patron of Marilyn chapter, Mill City; Mrs. Toletta Sprungman, past worthy matron, and W. A. Weddie, worthy patron of Acadia chapter of Stayton. Luncheon was served to 20 guests and members. Has Poems Published Mrs. Frances Belle Delzell, member of De Arvan Press Staff and Modern Bards, has her sec-

Tung Oil Aids South's Recovery

Development of a new industry—the production of tung oil—promises to figure importantly in the economic recovery of the south. Thousands of acres are being planted to tung trees whose blossoms yield the valuable black-brown nuts which produce tung oil. This commodity is used in manufacture of paints and numerous other lines. Until a few years ago China had a monopoly on tung oil since it was thought that the trees flourished only in the Orient, but recent experimentation proved the suitable conditions of the gulf coast states.

ond booklet, "Moon Months," of short verses, off the press. Her first production, "Smiling Thru the Rain," came out last year.

Barber Builds Store Lee Barber has a force of carpenters working on his new store building, which will soon be enclosed. It is 30x52 feet and built on the site of the one which burned a few months ago. It will be modern in appointments with one corner occupied by a refrigerator room.

Eugene Roy Dies At Stayton Home

STAYTON, April 1.—Eugene Roy, one of the oldest residents of Stayton, died at his home Wednesday after an illness of two years. Mr. Roy was born in France April 9, 1853, went to school there and in 1882 married Anna Conlon. He came to this country in 1890, accompanied by his wife, three children and his wife's mother. They came directly to Salem. Mr. Roy moved to Stayton 18 months later and purchased the jewelry store from Irving Schneider. He sold the store to Charles Luthy and retired about 25 years ago. He was on the school board for several terms and also a member of the city council. Surviving are six children, 17 grandchildren, 2 great-grandchildren and a sister in France. The children are Eliza Taylor of Stayton, A. E. Roy, Portland; Dena Mack, Salem; Milca Watson, Vancouver, B. C.; Ben Roy, Hartford, Conn.; and Ruth Smith of Portland. He was a member of the Baptist church, having joined in France when a young man. The services will be under the direction of W. A. Weddie & Son.
