Like Ours

A N AMERICAN home economics A teacher, attending the college at Debrecen, Hungary, made a special study of the life of the country, visiting typical Hungarian homes. She is Miss Helen Hamill, of the University of Oklahoma. Hungarian homes contain heavy, sturdy-looking furniture with a great deal of hand carving on it, she reports, and many bright pictures hang on walls. The stoves are large enameled structures, built to the ceiling.

The diet of an average Hungarian is almost identical with the American menu except that they have not learned the value of serving raw vegetables. No sweet potatoes are grown there, according to Miss Hamill, but she took some with her and they were growing when she left. Hungary has few natural resources, but is an agricultural country with a certainty of production every year. Dress Differs

The dress differs from ours to some extent, the middle and upper classes is similar to American, but the lower class of women wear plainer costumes for everyday and a more elaborate for Sundays and holidays.

Genuine Engraving Social Orofessional Business ARTER

WE BELIEVE that every person who is sensitive to Quality and Correctness appreciates the exquisite beauty and dignity of genuine engraving. We wonder, however, just how many people have yet to discover that we are headquarters in this community for genuine engraving? Our craftsmanship is as fine as human skill and superb materials can make it.

Yet, we have found it possible to bring the advantages of genuine engraving within the means of every person, and every business firm.

A generous supply of engraved visiting cards, for instance, costs only $1.65 - and this includes engraving the plate! A year's supply of engraved or monogrammed social stationery costs only $3.95 including the plate. Business letterheads on fine Hammermill Bond are only $7.95 - with no extra charge for engraving the steel plate.

Surely then, there is no need to do without the prestige and beauty of genuine engraving. Won't you plan to visit us? See how much we have to offer — and for how little!
