

Major Clubs' "Cover Up" Strategy Hit by Landis Decision

Rules Henrich Is Free Agent

Cleveland Loses Claim on Promising Youngster; Others Will Bid

CHICAGO, April 14.—(AP)—In a vital decision, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, ripped the lid off the alleged practice of major league clubs in "covering up" promising young stars to block their entry into the big leagues through the selective draft.

Commissioner Landis settled the case today involving Tommy Henrich, strapping 22-year-old outfielder, now with the Milwaukee club of the American association, by declaring him a free agent, thus depriving the Cleveland Indians of a claim to him. Henrich, rated as a potential $15,000 ball player, is now eligible to sign with any major league club which may desire his services.

Commissioner Landis' investigation disclosed the Cleveland club was guilty of covering up Henrich and that his transfer from New Orleans to Milwaukee was made at the direction of Cleveland officials.

Ira Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians, and his executive assistant, C. C. Slapnicka, were quoted as saying they would take no action to regain Henrich's services. Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants, however, was declared to be in the market for Henrich and might be willing to bid $20,000 for him.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are "interested" in obtaining Tommy Henrich, Gen. Mgr. Warren C. Giles said tonight, adding, however, "We are limited in our interest and are not going haywire on the matter."

Oregon Riflemen First Nationally

EUGENE, April 14.—(AP)—For the second time in three years, the R. O. T. C. rifle team of the University of Oregon received the Hearst trophy, placing first in senior competition among more than 100 colleges and universities of the nation.

The Oregon riflemen will also receive the plaque symbolizing the championship of the ninth corps area.

Each member of the team, coached by Sergeant Harvey Blythe, will receive a gold medal and Captain Delbert Bjork of Astoria a gold-stamped billfold for winning individual honors with a score of 195 out of a possible 200.

Other team members and scores were: Staley Warren and William Kieseke, Eugene, both 193; Jack Lew, Baker, 191; Donald Boyd, Eugene, 189.

We're Prepared For Graduation!

Young men with an alertness for style will find their graduation suit here in hand-finished fabrics at

$19.50

Others at 24.50 and 29.50

Free Pressing and Minor Repairs

Brooks

456 State St.

From Diamond to Links

By BURNLEY

Sam BYRD. EX-YANK AND RED STAR IS NOW A GOLF PRO, GIVING UP A $7,000 B.B. CONTRACT FOR A LINKS CAREER.

NEWS from the South a few weeks ago stated that one Samuel Dewey Byrd was among the golfers competing in the annual North and South Open at Pinehurst, N. C. This piece of information may not seem of much interest to you, as the said Samuel Dewey Byrd didn't win the tournament—in fact, he wasn't even up among the leaders. But the point is that this Byrd is the same bird who played the outfield for the Yankees and the Reds.

Sammy gave up a $7,000 baseball contract to become a golf pro, and it remains to be seen whether he made a wise choice. While he was a ball player, the sports writers were always saying that he was a great golfer. Now that he's a links professional, I suppose everybody will keep referring to his baseball ability.

Several other ball players have had ambitions to take up golf as a career. During his hold-out, Paul Waner recently threatened to quit the diamond for the fairways. Paul is just about the best golfer now in big league baseball, and has competed successfully in a number of minor tournaments. He's a southpaw linksman, to boot.

Babe Ruth always fancied himself as a golfer, and is reported to have recently lamented the fact that he didn't become a links star instead of a diamond hero. On the other mitt, Walter Hagen secretly wished to take up golf as a professional career. During his hold-out, Paul Waner recently threatened to quit the diamond for the fairways. Paul is just about the best golfer now in baseball is already started on its way back and needs only a colorful figure, like the Babe was 15 years ago, to bring it back on its feet. The depression gave baseball some hard knocks and it needs a Messiah now just like it needed Babe Ruth after the Black Sox scandal.

Even though a bushier down in the grapefruit circuit did punch a homer with all on off Feller's fast one the other day, the kid, according to those on the spot, is far from being a flash in the pan. They say this kid, who has yet to graduate from high school, is another Walter Johnson. Bill Klem, the national league umpire, certainly no man to go around making exaggerated statements, says that Feller has more stuff than any pitcher he ever saw.

They say that Steve O'Neill, the Cleveland manager, has decided to make a Sunday player out of Feller. That is, to flash him on the fans as a Sunday only attraction in order to draw large crowds to the Sunday shows. If Feller lives up to expectations, however, they'll probably be using him where he'll do the most good, Sundays or no Sundays.

They've got a new one at Parker's. This is the Parker's patented fish flasher, a device to enable the fish to see the bait better and also make things more comfortable for the worm while he's waiting around, on tenderhooks, as it were, for the fish. It consists of a hook fastened on to a flashlight bulb rigged up to a copper wire. The bulb flashes at intervals and the theory is that it thereby attracts schools of fish to bask in the light of superior fishing tackle invention. It's a timely device, for a fish probably can't see his fin in front of his face the way the streams are now.

Defense of the championship won here last year will be the object of the Salem Y. M. C. A. volleyball team when it leaves here Friday for the northwest Y. M. C. A. tournament at Spokane Saturday.

Salem's team defeated Tacoma for the championship here last year. Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C., Portland and Spokane will be other teams in the tournament this year. Spokane is the only entrant.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Members of the Salem team, captained by Dr. L. E. Barrick, are Lorenz Schueller, Lorne Kitchen, John Bone, Elmore Hill, Keith Brown, Nile Hilborn, Lloyd Oreg, Herb Burch and Bob Elliott. Gus Moore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will accompany the team.

Beavers Swat Apple and Win

18 Safeties Rain Off Four Pitchers' Offerings as Portland Gets Hot

COAST LEAGUE
(Night game not included)
	W.	L.	Pct.
San Diego	3	3	.727
Seattle	5	4	.667
San Francisco	7	4	.636
Sacramento	7	5	.583
Los Angeles	5	6	.500
Portland	4	7	.364
Oakland	3	8	.273
Mission	3	9	.250

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(AP)—Unleashing a terrific batting attack, the Portland Beavers routed the Los Angeles Angels, 13 to 7, before 2,000 fans at Wrigley field today.

Portland 12 18 5
Los Angeles 7 12 0
McDonald, Radonits, Hillcher and Wilson; Evans, Campbell, Berry, Overman and Collins.

Acorns Win Again
SACRAMENTO, April 14.—(AP)—Sacramento made it two straight over the San Francisco Seals here today, 5 to 3, behind the pitching of Lefty Tom Seals.

The former Houston pitcher sat the Seals out until two were out in the ninth and lost a shut-out when Frank Hawkins hit a home run with two mates aboard. San Francisco 3 8 2
Sacramento 5 9 0
Coe, Daglia and Monzo; Seals and Clark.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—(AP)—San Francisco's Matt St. Louis, kicked and cuffed around since the opening of the baseball season, finally won themselves a game today, defeating Seattle 4 to 1.

Tied 1-1 in the eighth, the locals put on a three-run rally. Pitcher Leroy Herrmann won his own game by scoring the run that clinched the contest.

Hollis Thurston, on the mound for Seattle, hit a home run over the left field fence in the seventh to score his team's lone run. Seattle 1 3 2
Mission 4 9 1
Thurston, Osborn and Bassler, Fernandes; Herrmann and Sprinz.

Padres Repeat
OAKLAND, Calif., April 14.—(AP)—San Diego's Padres batted out 15 hits here tonight to score their second straight baseball victory over the San Francisco Seals. Every member of the Padre team collected one or more hits. San Diego 4 15 0
Oakland 1 10 2
Chaplin and Detore; Brewer, Olds and Raimondi.

Varoff Will Seek Vault Title Anew
Not Surprised at Sefton Mark; Looks Forward to Keen Contests

EUGENE, April 14.—(AP)—George Varoff, University of Oregon sophomore pole vaulter, expressed neither surprise nor disappointment at the loss of his world record Saturday to Bill Sefton of U. S. C.

Sefton topped Varoff's year-old record of 14 feet, 6 3/4 inches by seven-eighths of an inch. Varoff said last winter that the Southern California star was the vaulter most likely to reach new heights.

"Sefton has a fine 'push up' at the end of his upward jump and the proper jack-knife going over," the Oregon vaulter said.

"He isn't as consistent as his teammate, Earl Meadows, but has everything to reach great heights when he is right," Sefton may at any time go even higher than he did last week."

Varoff seemed unbothered by the loss of his title.

"It just gives me something more to shoot at," he said.

"Sefton has a fine 'push up' at the end of his upward jump and the proper jack-knife going over," the Oregon vaulter said.

"He isn't as consistent as his teammate, Earl Meadows, but has everything to reach great heights when he is right," Sefton may at any time go even higher than he did last week."

Varoff seemed unbothered by the loss of his title.

"It just gives me something more to shoot at," he said.

"Sefton has a fine 'push up' at the end of his upward jump and the proper jack-knife going over," the Oregon vaulter said.

"He isn't as consistent as his teammate, Earl Meadows, but has everything to reach great heights when he is right," Sefton may at any time go even higher than he did last week."

Varoff seemed unbothered by the loss of his title.

"It just gives me something more to shoot at," he said.

"Sefton has a fine 'push up' at the end of his upward jump and the proper jack-knife going over," the Oregon vaulter said.

"He isn't as consistent as his teammate, Earl Meadows, but has everything to reach great heights when he is right," Sefton may at any time go even higher than he did last week."

Varoff seemed unbothered by the loss of his title.

Trout Season Opens Thursday

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Anglers throughout North America are toying with their tackle as they await the opening of trout-fishing season. Following the dictates of piscatorial tradition, a small army of men and women will seek secluded streams this month to dangle worms or flies across the surface of the turbid waters. Federal and state game experts predict record catches, because the recent mild winter favored preservation and growth of the fish.

Wily Trout Is Safe For Now

Few Fishermen Will Seek Sport With Streams Muddy Torrents

PORTLAND, April 14.—(AP)—Game Supervisor Frank Wire sought in vain for a clear stretch of fly water to recommend to Oregon anglers on the opening day of the fishing season Thursday.

"I don't like to discourage anglers," Wire said, "but the boys might just as well stay home and clean the basement."

Unusually heavy rains had turned the state's streams, even the McKenzie which is usually a last hope in stormy weather, into raging torrents.

Mountain lakes remained frozen, many of them covered with 30 inches or more of slush ice.

Only the most stubborn of Salem anglers will venture forth today to try for an opening day catch and they will be few.

Nearly all valley streams are raging close to their banks or overflowing them and fishing conditions are the poorest for an opening day for many years.

Fishing will be little better by Sunday and fishing conditions will not be good for several weeks as a result of the heavy spring rains.

Apostoli Defeats Brooklyn Veteran

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—Fred Apostoli, San Francisco middleweight contender, took another long step toward a title match with Champ Freddie Steele tonight by scoring a technical knockout over Solly Krieger, Brooklyn veteran, in the fifth round of their 12-rounder in the New York Hippodrome.

Dr. William A. Walker, physician for the New York state athletic commission, ordered Referee Jack O'Sullivan to stop the fight just as the bell sounded to end the fifth round, to save a badly battered Krieger from further punishment.

Orioles' Manager Dies; Bossed Team in Heyday

BALTIMORE, April 14.—(AP)—Edward G. "Foxy Ned" Haun, 79, pioneer of modern baseball and manager of the celebrated Baltimore Orioles of the '30's—including the late John J. McGraw and "Uncle" Wilbert Robinson—died in a hospital here shortly before midnight tonight.

Relay Program Is Moved to Eugene

EUGENE, April 14.—(AP)—Ansel Cornell, University of Oregon athletic manager, announced today the transfer of the annual Oregon-Oregon State relay carnival April 24 from Corvallis to Hayward field here.

State college officials reported Bell field will not be available for use this year.

Other meets scheduled for Hayward field are the annual dual meet with the Beavers May 15, the state high school meet, the Willamette valley league meet and the Hayward relays.

Dimaggio to Miss Opener 2nd Time

NEW YORK, April 14.—(AP)—Though outwardly a 197-pound picture of health, Joe Dimaggio, young outfield star of the New York Yankees, will be on the operating table Friday morning and a convalescent next Tuesday, when the Yanks open their bid for the 1937 American league pennant.

The operation will be for the removal of the hard-hitting San Franciscan's tonsils. They have been infected for some time. The physician who examined Dimaggio today believes the infection may have aggravated the soreness in the coast lad's right shoulder.

It is at the plate that the world champions are likely to feel his absence the most. Dimaggio was hitting .469 when Manager Joe McCarthy decided to ship him home for treatment.

Pheasant Season Closure Debated

A proposed resolution that Marion county be closed to Chinese pheasants hunting this season was referred to a committee after discussion at a meeting of the Salem Hunters and Anglers club Tuesday night. A similar resolution, effecting Linn county, was recently passed by the Santiam Game and Fish association.

Investigation of Marion and Elk lands possible sites for club recreational grounds will be made this summer. Walter Minier reported the results of preliminary investigation.

Three prizes to go to persons catching the largest cutthroat trout by May 1 were announced. The prizes are donated by local sporting goods stores.

Volleyball Squad Going to Spokane

Defense of the championship won here last year will be the object of the Salem Y. M. C. A. volleyball team when it leaves here Friday for the northwest Y. M. C. A. tournament at Spokane Saturday.

Salem's team defeated Tacoma for the championship here last year. Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C., Portland and Spokane will be other teams in the tournament this year. Spokane is the only entrant.

Tacoma Folks Visit

ZENA, April 14.—Recent visitors here from Tacoma at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Walling of Zena and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Walling of Lincoln were Mrs. Lorraine Frakes Kell and daughter Margaret and Mrs. James Newberry.

Cross Word Puzzle

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11				12			13
14			15				16
		17		18		19
20	21			22				23	24
25			26			27
28		29				30			31
32	33			34				35
36				37			38
		39				40
41	42			43		44		45	46
47				48				49
50				51				52

By EUGENE SHEFFER

- HORIZONTAL
- Arrived
 - Sleeveless garment
 - Remunerate
 - Wild ox
 - Pikelike fish
 - Walk in water
 - What Chief Justice firmly established the principle of judicial review?
 - Metal
 - Sheltered side
 - What French novelist wrote under the name of Stendhal?
 - Son of Adam
 - Secluded from temporal cares
 - Month of the year
 - Beverage
 - Animal of the deer family
 - Month in the Jewish calendar
 - Border
 - Writing implement
 - Indefinite article
 -