

Ros Dumagillas to Meet Eddie Norris in Final Bout Tonight

Filipino Flash To Substitute

McCain Hurt; Three Main Events, Eight Rounds Each on Program

Ros Dumagillas, speedy little Filipino fighter who appeared here two years ago, will meet Eddie Norris, Salem lightweight, in the topline fight card at the arena tonight's fight card at the arena instead of Jimmie McCain, Seattle boxer, Curly Feldman announced last night.

McCain received a bad cut in a bout at Seattle this week and is unable to keep the engagement.

Dumagillas, who also has a 115 from Seattle, was well liked here in several appearances. Possessing both speed and an iron constitution, the little Filipino is likely to give Norris a real test. He showed in his earlier appearances here that he was able to take most anything anybody could dish out and Norris can expect trouble.

Hayes, Hoot Mon Meet
Wes Hayes, 176, Portland negro fighter, and Hoot Mon McDonald, 181, Marshfield, will mix in another eight rounder. McDonald and Hayes are both candidates in Feldman's Northwest heavyweight elimination tournament.

Kn Thornley, Silvertown welterweight, mixes with Bud Peterson, 149, Independence, in the third eight round bout on the card. Peterson lost a decision to Zackie Shell of Gervais last week but staged a game comeback.

Ernie Jones, 143, Portland, and Charles McCoy, 140, Independence, meet in a four round bout. Joe Fenine, 144, Portland, and Chet Peterson, 145, Independence, clash in a four round opener at 8:30 o'clock.

Paul Dean Thinks His Arm Will Do

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 15—(AP)—Rain and hail caused cancellation of the Cardinals exhibition game with the Lookouts here today, but not before Paul Dean gave his celebrated arm a thirty-minute workout.

Paul has been distressed the past few days because the arm which caused the Cardinals' last season had become painful again. Trainer Lee Jensen of the Lookouts worked on young Dean's arm this morning, and again after the workout, at which time Paul declared:

"I believe it's going to all right, but the arm felt loose."

Sensational Senators

By BURNLEY

As usual, the Washington Senators will open the baseball season next Monday with a "pre-view," as it were, with F. D. R. tossing out the first ball, and all the important people of the Capital City on hand to witness the gala event.

Among the boys cavorting in Washington monkey suits will be Ben Chapman and Shanty Hogan, alias the Man Mountain.

Chapman and Hogan have finally come into their own with the Nats, after being kicked around on other teams. Ben was a good player with the Yankees, but got in duds with the fans when he chased a spectator into the stands. He was never a hero in his "home town" when he was a Yankee, but he has become a big favorite with Washington fans.

Hogan, the gigantic backstop, was merely a laughing stock while he was with the Giants and the Braves. However, Capital City fans took a liking to the huge Irishman, and an appreciation of their plaudits he worked so hard that he actually took off about thirty pounds. As a result, Shanty has become the Senators' first-string receiver, and nobody laughs at him any more.

British Champ Trounces Baer

Farr Makes Him Resemble Monkey; Maxie Avers He's All Through

By GAYLE TALBOT
LONDON, April 15—(AP)—Max Baer's comeback campaign by way of England was halted suddenly and decisively tonight when Tommy Farr, the vastly underrated empire champion, used a forked lightning left hook to beat the far out of him before 14,000 cheering British fans at Harringay arena.

After the bout Baer said he would quit the ring. "I'm through," he said. "I'm going back to my ranch in California and retire," he said. Baer, fighting his first major battle since Joe Louis knocked him out in September of 1935, never really got started. The Briton, who promised before the battle he would vindicate the reputation of British heavyweights, waded into the American from the start, opened a cut over Baer's eye in the opening round, and hammered at this wide red target throughout the bout.

Looks Good in 7th
Smiling confidently as ever, even when in the eighth and ninth the Briton battered him against the ropes, Baer's comeback ended when it began. Only in the seventh round, when he stopped trying for a one-punch knockout, did the American look good. The rest of the time the British champion had a long edge.

Both went at it so furiously in the final round that the referee had to break them at the bell. Farr gave away 10 pounds. He scaled 198 to the American's 208, but there was no indication that this was much of a handicap.

Farr, who was on the short end of 3-1 odds when the bout started, and entered the ring as a sort of sacrificial lamb, left it as a new important figure in the pugilistic world.

There wasn't a dissenting voice over from Baer's corner when Referee C. H. Douglas lifted the Welshman's brawny arm at the end of the punishing 12 rounds.

By his victory, Farr gets a lucrative fight with Walter Neusel next month.

Wife's Jabbering No Angler's Alibi

WASHINGTON, April 15—(AP)—Talbot Denmead, the government's one-man court on game fish questions, handed down a decision today that sent a favorite excuse of anglers to a watery grave.

"For years," observed Denmead, bureau of fisheries angling expert, "husbands have been successfully excluding wives from fishing trips on the ground their chatter scares fish away. It's just the bunk."

The finny tribe, Denmead said, is sensitive to vibrations, but talking doesn't reach them. "Fish have no external ears and cannot hear most sounds made outside the water," he explained.

"As long as the little woman doesn't stomp on the bank or dance a jig on the bottom of the boat, fish aren't likely to know she's there."

Amos Jahn Can't Compete, Report

Coach Vern Gilmore's Viking track team received a heavy blow when it was learned yesterday that Amos Jahn, star miler, will be unable to compete this season due to the necessity of undergoing a minor operation.

Five From Salem In Golden Gloves Matches Tonight

Five Salem high boxers will enter the semi-final round of the Eugene News Golden Glove tournament at Eugene tonight. Bouta will all be of three two minute rounds.

Five From Salem Region Drawn For Federal Jury

PORTLAND, April 15—(AP)—Federal Judge James Alger Fee today ordered the drawing of 20 additional jurors to complete the present panel in United States district court here.

Pilot Relays Postponed

PORTLAND, April 15—(AP)—George Philbrook, University of Portland athletic director said today the second annual relay carnival scheduled for Saturday would be postponed until May 7.

Frosh Tackle Varsity

EUGENE, April 15—(AP)—Freshmen golfers of the University of Oregon will test the varsity swatmen on the Eugene Country club course Friday afternoon.

We didn't hear of anybody making any record catches yesterday. In fact, we couldn't actually name you anybody that had the temerity to go fishing, though we have been assured that there were a few hardy souls who ventured forth to the roiling waters. The only fish we saw yesterday was in the fish market and that is where most of them will be coming from for the next week or so.

Bill Sefton, the Trojan vaulter, leaped a feeble 7 1/2 inches last Saturday to eclipse George Varoff's world record of 14 feet 6 1/2 inches. While the record goes from Varoff, a Californian at school at Oregon, to Sefton, Oregonians can take solace in the fact that Sefton's coach, Dean Cromwell, is a native Oregonian and a former Salem boy.

They are talking of vaulters going 15 feet soon and it seems entirely possible the way Meadows, Varoff, Sefton and the other vaulters have been adding inches to the record. It isn't exactly pleasant to think of dropping to the ground, even into a sawdust pit, from a height of close to 15 feet. Try it sometime on your stepladder. The latest idea, being tried out by Dan Ogden, track coach at Temple, is a landing net about seven feet off the ground. The idea is the same as for trapeze artists in the circus. Ogden says the net would eliminate shock and leave the vaulters much fresher for their next attempt. It sounds okeh.

Mike Balkovic, who coached the Salem American Legion junior baseball team last year, will coach a baseball school for kids at Medford this summer and also act as a backstop for the Medford Peppercorns in the Southern Oregon league.

Rain, melting snow and mud may keep the fish from biting, but no mutations of the weather hamper the fish stories. The big ones get away in all kinds of weather.

Now that we have had a faint promise of better days it looks like all the college baseball teams in the valley will have to schedule double-headers every day to get caught up. It makes an already short season much too short. "Spec" Keene claims his boys have only had three days of actual practice.

Bearcats Waiting On Weather News

Supposed to Play Beavers Today But Unexecuted Until Final Word

"Spec" Keene is waiting on the weather today to see whether he and his Bearcat baseball club postpone another game or finally get down to baseball.

Williamette is supposed to play Oregon State at Corvallis at 2:30 this afternoon but the game will not be on definitely until Keene receives word on field and weather conditions from Corvallis at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

With Sweetland field covered with water the Bearcats were unable to take advantage of yesterday's relatively fine afternoon and so had a week without a single practice session. So far this season, according to Keene, his team has had only three afternoon practice meetings.

Either Jerry Gastneau, Missouri fliker who won seven games last year, or Walt Weaver, also a regular last year, will start on the mound if the Bearcat and Beaver get together today.

Keene is not certain what other players he will start but said that everybody would probably play.

Williamette and Oregon State will play a double-header at Corvallis Saturday. The Beavers have not beaten Williamette in baseball for the last three years.

CORVALLIS, April 15—(AP)—Another attempt to open the long delayed pre-conference baseball season will be made here tomorrow in the first of a three-game series with Williamette university. Rain has forced the Beavers to postpone nine contests.

Coach "Sats" Gill said he had changed the starting battery in Friday's game in an effort to shake the rain jinx. Either Bill Kalbak, veteran Southpaw, or Ralph Takami, sophomore, will be on the mound with Roger Morey behind the plate.

Boxers Will Get Letters, Decided

Seven Salem high boxers will receive block B letters as a result of the Salem high student council's action Monday in making boxing a minor sport.

Requirements for a letter, as recommended by Coach Vern Gilmore, are that the boxers shall have competed in four regularly scheduled matches and that he shall have won two of his bouts.

Eligible for letters under that plan are Wally Larios, Alvin Richardson, Bill Cray, Gene Jarvis, Allen Smith, Rex Layton and Dale Breedlove.
