Starving City Helped by Last Ship Permitted to Pass Blockade

Jones of the British freighter Saratoga... sought tentative permission from non-intervention officials to sail for Bilbao with his cargo of potatoes, onions and wheat.

Norway Protest Capture of Vessel... Capture of the Norwegian steamer Fagerstrand, loaded with salt, was reported in Oslo dispatches which said the vessel was taken by insurgents to Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

At Hendaye, Spanish insurgents said their warships had captured an unidentified merchant ship on route to Santander and Bilbao with 30 unmounted airplanes, and quantities of machine guns and ammunition.

On the Portuguese gorder, 139 British officers stationed in motor caravans at strategic points ready to rush to any section where arms or men are believed to be headed for Spain.

Skipworth Sentences Harold Conner to Not More Than Three Years

CORVALLIS, April 20.—(AP)—Judge G. F. Skipworth sentenced Harold Conner, Corvallis, to not more than three years in the state penitentiary, following Conner's conviction yesterday on a charge of forgery.

Two Movie Stars Coming to State Stage in Person

Sonny Lamont and Betty Burgess, two motion picture stars now making personal appearances in vaudeville are booked to play in person at the State theatre this weekend.

Betty Burgess, is one of the screen's youngest and most capable leading ladies. Although her career in pictures is but a little over a year old, she has already been the featured star in more than half a dozen screen attractions.

Sonny Lamont has been a vaudeville headliner for several years and has played in the leading theatres of the country. Recently he has made Hollywood his home and has been featured in several pictures, among them "Old Man Rhythm" for RKO; "To Beat the Band" also for RKO and "Dancing Feet," a Republic picture.

Picturesque Mine Center Destroyed

Clint Haight, editor of the Blue Mountain Eagle, worked away at a special edition while the fire swept toward his plant.

Canyon City was established in 1862 when gold was discovered in Canyon Creek. Fifteen million dollars worth of the precious metal was later taken out, the community growing to a boisterous 2,000 in population.

Today only an oil company office, a barber shop, abstract office and a pastime parlor remain to serve the 350 residents.

Beer Sellers May Fight Union Move

Representatives of the Insurance Underwriters said it was desirable to re-float the vessel as soon as possible to reduce dry dock charges.

William's lumber union pickets carried "unfair" signs around 14 cars of lumber awaiting shipment at the McCormick dock here, claiming the sawmill where it was manufactured was unfair to organized labor.

24-Hour Truce at Stockton Decried

Projected reopening of four strike-bound cannery plants tomorrow. "We'll meet pick handles with pick handles," said Walter Mahaffey, president of the central labor council and vice president of the state federation of labor.

Mahaffey asserted 3,000 "union strike sympathizers" would move into Stockton tonight to aid the local labor forces, but union leaders in San Francisco said they knew nothing of any such plan.

Leaders Back Economy Aims

McNary and Robinson to Support President in Move to Cut Cost

Mr. Roosevelt said in his relief message, the deficit will rise $309,000,000 over the original estimate. This will bring the deficit to $2,557,000,000. If the treasury borrows to the full amount of the increase in the deficit, the public debt will climb to a new $35,335,000,000 peak on June 30.

From Senator Byrnes (D-SC), a close presidential adviser, however, came a statement that he would seek to pare the projected $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation to $1,000,000,000.

Representative Bollean (P-Wis) also criticized the relief appropriation, but on the ground that it would not provide for the needy.

From some republican quarters came expressions of dissatisfaction with Mr. Roosevelt's tax statement. Representative Martin (R-Miss) saying that "indications are we will face a huge tax bill next year."

Craftsmen Attain Award at Session

The Machine Shop chapter of the Salem Future Craftsmen brought back a banner for the best demonstration of the Craftsman initiation ceremony from the meeting of the Oregon chapter at Portland Friday and Saturday.

C. A. Guderian, advisor of the Machine Shop chapter, said that the Portland session was the best state convention the organization has ever had with about 165 boys present from all over the state.

Representatives from organized labor and members of the state board of vocational education were present at the banquet which concluded the two-day program Saturday night.

The Apprentice chapter from Salem took second in a parliamentary procedure contest and the Machine Shop third.

hended without a casualty in the last 20 months by the bureau. A Topeka newspaper editorial had observed that local officers often capture their quarry "without shooting up the town."

Lester reconstructed the Topeka episode from the time three agents began their watch until the fugitives, Robert Subay, 27, and Albert Power, 39, were captured in Nebraska a few hours after the gun battle.

When Baker accosted Power at the postoffice delivery window on a signal from a clerk, Lester said the federal man did not realize there were two gangsters involved. The agents had been awaiting only one man going under the name "Moore."

Parallel Parking Inconvenient Say Street Cleaners

Motorists may get over the inconvenience of learning how to park their cars in parallel fashion in a few weeks but one group will have a lasting grudge against the new system.

The city street-cleaners—the men who tidy up the downtown streets when most of the citizenry is in bed—are the loudest groaners. They can't sweep in close to the curb where a car is parked in the parallel fashion.

Tongue Point Row Getting Attention

Washington are expected to testify in behalf of the Tongue Point measure. Mayor Joe Carson of Portland said he would make every effort to attend the hearings. He also plans to testify the same day before the house rivers and harbors committee which is considering three measures to set up administrative machinery at Bonneville dam on the Columbia river east of Portland.

"I want to tell the naval affairs committee," Carson said, "that Oregon feels it has been neglected as far as national defense is concerned. Millions upon millions of dollars have been spent in California and Washington, while very little money has been put into projects on the Oregon coast."

WPA Approval of Mains Job Likely

Approval of the Salem water commission's 12th street main-building WPA project is anticipated by Senator Charles L. McNary, he has advised the commission. The city's application for the $800,000 project is now before President Roosevelt.

Mayor V. E. Kuhn said yesterday he expected representatives of firms whose bids to supply $72,570.34 worth of pipe, valves and fittings for the 12th street line were accepted by the council Monday would be here within a few days to sign contracts with the city.

Protest Filed on Vacation of Road

The proposal to vacate the old Silverton-Victor Point road yesterday brought the county court a protest petition signed by Daphna B. Hein and 31 other people including nine signers of the request to vacate.

The objectors' petition asserts the vacation proposal was misrepresented and that abandonment of the old road would leave Valley View school with a road entry only from the north and would mean an extra mile's walk for children in the south end of the district.

Contract Delayed On Traffic Lights

Installation of traffic signal lights in downtown Salem was further delayed Monday night when it developed that city council committees had been unable to have technicians' recommendations as to acceptable bids ready for action. It was considered possible a special meeting might be called to award the contract.

Rotarians Hosts On Ladies' Night

Mental Reserve Power Is Theme of Dr. Ballard at Annual Event

Blossoms made the Marion hotel a bower of beauty for the annual Rotary ladies night celebrated last night. Pots of gay-colored tulips and other spring flowers adorned the tables and branches of cherry blossoms were banked on the posts overhead.

The address by Dr. J. Hudson Ballard of Portland on "Releasing Our Mental Reserves" proved to be a witty yet informative popular discussion of some important facts of psychology. Hal Young of the University of Oregon, dramatic tenor, gave generously of his talent in response to enthusiastic encores.

For an entertainment number Keith Barker, student at the state university, showed unusual skill as a juggler. During the dinner Guy Albin's orchestra played. William McGilchrist, sr., led the company in group singing.

Reserve Power Topic Dr. Ballard's talk dealt with the use of the reserve powers which normally are from 30 to 50 per cent of one's resources. Their existence is demonstrated in times of crisis, when undreamed of reservoirs of energy are tapped.

When in danger a person will use almost superhuman strength to escape. There is no accretion of power from outside, but the usual stimulus has released the reserve energies.

Where these powers are stored the psychologist and the physiologist are not sure. It may be, said Dr. Ballard, in the ductless glands, whose secretions, little known yet, are chemically among the most potent in the body. It may be in the nerve cells or neurons, which act like tiny storage batteries. Numbering billions they may when coordinated and stimulated generate the extra strength displayed in rare circumstances.

The true explanation is not that of magic or a miracle; but of the existence of a potential resource within ourselves. By drawing on these reserves ordinary people should be able to rise to higher levels than they considered themselves able to reach.

Minister Invited By Labor Council

The Salem Trades and Labor council last night revived an old custom of having a representative of the Salem Ministerial association participate in council affairs in the role of fraternal delegate.

Reports were received from 16 locals of the appointment of 20 delegates to attend the Oregon Commonwealth federation convention at Portland next Saturday and Sunday. The federation is an outgrowth of the farmer-labor party movement in the state.

Chess Expert Has Close Bouts Here

Salem chess and checker players produced one win and three draws at chess and one draw at checkers Monday night when N. W. Banks, champion checker player of the country and chess expert, played 22 simultaneous games in an exhibition held at the St. Paul's Episcopal parish house.

LeRoy Ledgerwood, superintendent of the fish hatchery at Mehama, registered the only win in chess and the draws at this game were checked up for Al Noth, Matt Beyers of Mt. Angel and Rev. George H. Swift, in checkers, Fred Warnock of Silverton registered the draw.

Banks has been American checker champion for 25 years and holds all speed records for simultaneous and blindfold checkers.

Dr. S. B. Laughlin of Willamette university is president and Rev. Swift, Episcopal rector, is secretary of the local chess and checker club, which meets each Monday night at the parish hall.
