Style-Smiles --- by Gretchen

"I mustn't leave the house for even a moment. Henry's mother is visiting us and giving away all his boyhood secrets!"

That is enticing—a word that serves equally to describe a most wearable and effective afternoon frock. Black net with a square little cap-sleeved jacket on white lace is applied in graceful undulating design. Wee, glistening buttons unite the front and fine tucks adorn the skirt—which is the new afternoon length—12 inches from the floor.—Copyright 1937, Esquire Features, Inc.
