

Motoring Season Opens With Next Week's Three-Day Holiday

Many to Tour, 3-Day Holiday

Careful Preparation Will Add to Pleasures and Safety, Advised

It's wise to make use of holidays by answering the call of the open road, because this promotes health, brings inspiration and equips one for clearer thinking and better work.

It's wise to have your car thoroughly inspected and lubricated before making your holiday trip, because this promotes safety, economy and pleasurable, care-free driving.

This is the type of advice voiced by Albert E. Horn, Jr., general manager of the Oregon division for General Petroleum corporation.

"When planning your three-day trip during the Decoration day holidays," he says, "the pre-summering inspection service, now offered in thousands of Mobilgas and Mobiloil stations, will unquestionably prove advantageous in bringing about assurance of safe, satisfactory motoring.

Use Heavier Oil
"In recognition of the fact that requirements for proper care and operation of cars vary with the change in seasons, motorists are now instructing service station men to change the oils and greases to heavier grades. This is an essential protective measure, because the continued use of thin winter oils during warmer weather may result in scored cylinders, sticky valves, heavy deposits and increased fuel consumption.

"Mobilgas station men are well informed regarding the right grades of oil and lubricants to use for each moving part of every kind and model of car, and can advise motorists as to the best grades to insure satisfactory operation in summer weather. At the same time that they lubricate your car, they are authorized, during May, to give a complete free inspection service. Many thousands of motorists are taking advantage of this opportunity."

Water Inflation Of Farm Service Tires Discussed

Valuable to every farmer using rubberized equipment, and to those who supply the farm market, a new six-page leaflet on "water inflation for farm service tires" has just been issued by the B. F. Goodrich company.

Walter Zosel, manager of the Goodrich Silverton store, 198 South Commercial, said copies can only be obtained by writing the company at Akron, Ohio.

The use of water in farm service tires to replace costly metal weights was recommended by the Goodrich company some time ago after several years' study. Besides lowered costs, the method provides normal cushion and reduces rebound or bounce. Whenever speeds exceed 25 miles an hour, the program is not recommended.

The new leaflet devotes three pages to data on farm service tires. One contains information on the volume of water, together with its weight, to be used in various sized tires. Weight of the 15 per cent calcium chloride solution recommended for anti-freeze, and the method to determine water gallonage and quantity of calcium chloride to produce a given number of gallons of the solution, are included.

Changes Made by General Oil Firm F. C. Meunier Sales Leader for Oregon as Walker Takes new Office

Two important changes in executives of the Oregon division of the General Petroleum corporation have just been announced by A. H. DePriest, vice-president and general sales manager of the company.

Effective June 1, F. C. Meunier will assume the position of sales manager of the Oregon division and C. G. Walker, present Oregon division sales manager, will go to a newly created and important post in Spokane. Meunier comes to Portland from Seattle where he has been Washington division lubricants engineer since January, 1936. Walker will be district manager for the eastern Washington district just formed.

The new sales manager will be directly associated with Albert E. Horn, Jr., Oregon division general manager, and will have supervision over all sales in this division.

O. H. Ford, assistant sales manager for the Oregon division, has been appointed district manager of the central Oregon district with headquarters at Eugene, and E. E. Mullen will take over Ford's work. Mullen is transferred here from San Francisco where he has been assistant sales manager for the northern California division.

To Meunier belongs the distinction of advancing rapidly in the assumption of sales responsibilities since becoming associated with General Petroleum in April, 1933, as salesman in Los Angeles. Walker is well fitted for his new position through 12 years of advertising and a sales experience with the company in California and Oregon. Mullen returns to a field where he is well known, having started work for General Petroleum as a clerk in Portland in 1925. He has since held several responsible clerical and managerial positions with the company in Portland, Oakland and San Francisco. Ford has been associated with the firm in Portland for the past 12 years.
