

Farmer Interests Joining new Co-op

Lafky Reports Leaders of Other States Taking Interest in Move

Virtually all farmer cooperative organizations in the state have requested copies of the Farmers' Crop Protective Co-op recently organized here as a farmers' collective bargaining agency, and among the latest Marion county groups to join the movement are the Willamette Cherry Growers' co-op and the Mt. Angel co-op creamery, Herman Lafky announced yesterday.

The new protective co-op was ratified by the Farmers Union convention last week and is expected to be one of the major items before the state grange convention at LaGrande next week.

At the rate farm groups are joining, Lafky, one of the originators of the plan, believes it will not be long before a majority of the farm interests of the state will be affiliated with it.

He reports requests about the move from farm leaders in Washington and California and says National President Everson of the Farmers Union and Farmer Union President Garrod of California, at the Oregon convention, expressed enthusiasm for the plan and indicated their intention to promote a similar move in other states.

Polk Will Send 11 to 4-H School

DALLAS, June 3.—Polk county will be represented at the 23rd annual 4-H club summer school to be held at Corvallis this year by 11 club members.

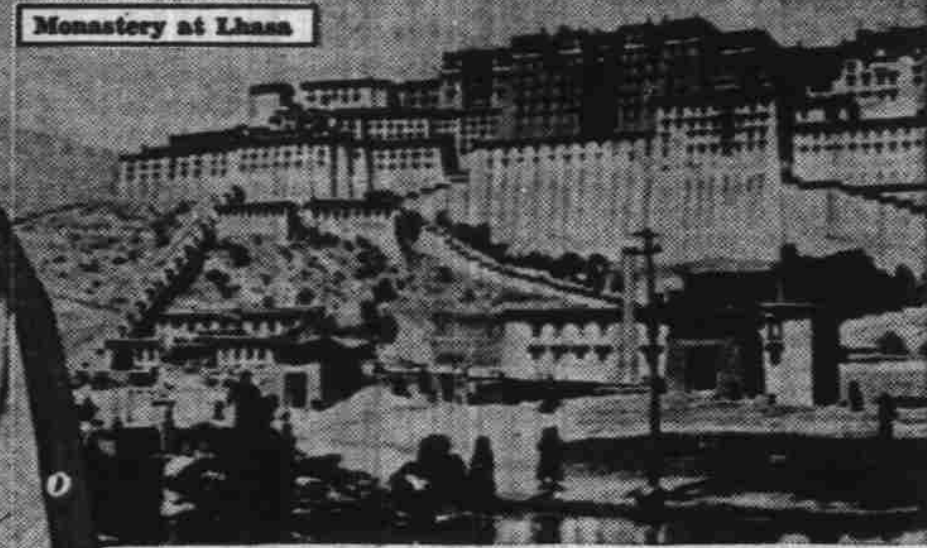

Five of these planning to attend have received scholarships awarded by grange organizations in the county. Others who are going are Gordon Blodgett, Ruth Farmer, Joyce McClenden, Betty Freeman, Margery Stewart, Robert Ewing. During the first week W. C. Leth, Polk county agent, will attend the summer school.

Those receiving grange scholarships in Polk county are as follows: Robert Crook, Monmouth grange; Linn Holman, Falls City grange; Melvin Irving, Rickreall grange; Lawrence Simons, Brush College grange, and Mildred May, Pomona grange.

Search for Tibetan Dalai Lama Is Nearing End

Typical Tibetan priest

Monastery at Lhasa

Baby lamas

Search continues in far-off Tibet for a new Dalai lama to succeed the temporal and religious sovereign who died in December of 1933. Religious tradition in this country on "the roof of the world" stipulates that the spirit of the deceased ruler is transferred to some new-born infant. When this baby child is found, he is adopted by the priests and trained for his high office. Several "candidates" have been brought forward, but the question has not as yet been settled satisfactorily.

Letters Support Galloway, Fisher

A number of letters were received Thursday at the executive department urging Governor Charles H. Martin to vote for the retention of Charles Y. Galloway and Earl Fisher as members of the state tax commission. Their terms expire tomorrow.

Similar letters were reported to have been received by Secretary of State Snell and State Treasurer Holman.

Members of the state tax commission are elected by the state board of control, Governor Martin indicated that the board would hold a conference later this week when the selections would be discussed.

Both Galloway and Fisher are veteran members of the tax commission. Galloway, chairman of the commission, is a democrat, while Fisher is a republican.

Job Insurance Is Upheld in Opinion

Constitutionality of the Oregon unemployment compensation insurance law was upheld in an opinion handed down by Circuit Judge G. F. Skipworth of Lane county Wednesday night. Copies of the opinion were received in Salem Thursday.

The opinion was written in a suit brought by the Pinnacle Packing company and others of Jackson county seeking to restrain the unemployment compensation insurance commission from collecting fees under the Oregon act. Plaintiffs contended there were engaged in agricultural pursuits and were exempt from operation of the law.

In a previous opinion Judge Skipworth held that the Pinnacle Packing company and other parties to the suit were subject to payment of the insurance fee. This opinion followed arguments on the injunction phase of the suit last September. Judge Skipworth refused to grant the injunction.

Judge Skipworth said he based his latest opinion largely upon

Cherrian Concert On Radio Tonight

Salem's bow to the Portland rose festival will be made tonight over KOIN under the auspices of the Cherrians. The period is from 8:15 to 8:45. The Willamette Songmen directed by Cameron Marshall will give several numbers; and Senator Douglas McKay will speak in the intervals between songs.

Work on the Salem float for the festival is reported as progressing satisfactorily, with every assurance that the city will have a fine float as its entry in the parade.

Rose festival buttons will be on sale in booths about town in a few days. They admit wearers to the stadium.

A special train will leave Salem at 7 o'clock the morning of June 11, which is the day of the big parade.

Rickey Has Five In Graduate List

RICKEY, June 3.—Those graduating from Salem high school this year from this community are Gladys Crabbs, Frances Flood, Hazel Dell Sheridan, Hazel Magee and Frank Gosser.

Of this group, all but Frank Gosser graduated the same year from Rickey and Gladys, Hazel Dell and Hazel have been classmates since they were in the first grade at Rickey.

Hazel Dell and Gladys both have office positions with Salem firms awaiting them when they graduate. Frances plans to enter nurses' training, Hazel Magee will enter Willamette this fall and Frank, who is vice-president of the community club, will secure a position for the present.
