Softball League is Limited to Six Teams in Final Decision

Triple-Header Idea Rejected

Summer League Will Open Play on Monday Night; Old Clubs Remain

Hopes of the softball team sponsored by the Quelle of being included in the summer softball league were stifled last night when a seven team league proposal put up by Quelle representatives was vetoed by team representatives and officers of the Salem Softball association.

The Quelle proposal would have made a triple-header on Friday nights necessary to make out a complete schedule. It was the idea of starting the last game at 10:30 or later which was disliked by the league.

The six teams which will open the summer softball season Monday are all veterans of last year's league. The Quelle, a newcomer to softball circles, was not promised a place in the summer league, according to league officials, when it entered the spring league. Summer league play will oper Monday night on Sweetland field at 8:30 o'clock following a parade of the uniformed teams and brief opening exercises at the field. Old Timers Remain Teams entered in the senior division of the league are Wait's, Papermakers, Square Deal Radio, Man's Shop, Eagles and Hogg Bros. Entered in the junior division of teams composed of players under 20 years old, which will play two games each week, are Pade's, Bosler's, Valley Motor and St. Joseph's. The juniors will play one game on Thursdays and Fri-Games will be played, as previ-

Thursday and Friday nights. Minor points in the rules were discussed by the team representatives at last night's meeting, final one before play opens, and some changes made. Approved again was the rule which automatically calls a game in which one team Trapshooters from all over Oregon and much farther away than the farthest spot in our fair state will begin flocking into Salem tomorrow. Thursday is listed as the opening day of the state trapshoot but there really won't be much doing that day except informal practice shooting at the club grounds on the airport road. The real show will begin Friday and from then on until late Sunday afternoon there'll be a lot of shooting and a lot of clay targets busted.

Appeal.

Eager to make this shoot appeal to all classes of shooters the Salem club, which has arranged the program and does arranged the program and does all the work, has tried to rig up a program in which every shooter will have some chance to gain prize money. The big day is expected to be the class championship day, Friday, when shooters in classes A, B, C and D vie for $800 in added money divided equally between money divided equally between the four classes. The point is that each shooter is shooting with shooters who are no more than four per cent better than he is at most.

Champion-Maker.

Harold Dimick, whose basketball and football teams made such wonderful records at Walla Walla high, will coach next year at Oregon City. The former Willamette athlete, one of Coach Bob Mathew's boys, turned out several state championship basketball teams at Walla Walla and won the state title this year while all the world wondered why Walla Walla hadn't seen fit to renew his contract. Another surprise in high school coaching circles was Or-"Red" Bailey's announcement that he didn't know anything about being chosen coach at Portland's Grant high and wouldn't accept the job if offered. His picture had been run in Portland papers along with "Mush" Torson's as a new Portland coach. -0-

Softballer.

It doesn't prove that softball will make baseball players or that playing softball is a sure way into the majors but Tom Henrich, the surprising lad the Yankees picked up for $20,000 when Judge Landis declared him a free agent, was a softball player before he turned to baseball. Today he cavorts in the outfield for the Yankees after only four years as a baseball player. However, he is one of those lads with natural ability who would look good in his first game of baseball. In fact he received a professional offer after playing his fifth game of semi-pro ball. As far as we have ever heard he's the only softball product in the majors although there are many players in organized ball who, though they will not admit it, have tossed the big ball around now and then. -0-
